WILSON OPENED WAY FOR LOANS, SAYS MORGAN

Banker Tells of Cue from White House.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—With J. P. Morgan and his partners on the stand and forty truckloads of records to refresh their memories the senate munitions committee today sought to show that the international bankers exercised a powerful influence upon America's neutrality position and hastened her entry into the world war.

It was made quite clear that Morgan & Co. knew about changes in the neutrality position with respect to loans and credits to the allies before the press, members of congress, and even Secretary of State William Jennings Bryan. The inquisitors also established an apparent tieup between the British government, through Morgan & Co., its fiscal agent in the United States, and the Woodrow Wilson administration.

Wilson Approves Step.

The banker disclosed that Wilson himself removed obstacles to the granting of credits to the allied nations.

The state department, under William Jennings Bryan, disapproved, testimony and correspondence showed. President Wilson, however, altered the situation by drawing a broad distinction which permitted "credits" but maintained the ban on loans.

"When the government turned itself loose we turned ourselves loose," Morgan chuckled, after committee members had elicited statements that for all practical purposes the effect of loans and credits was the same.

Opening Delayed for Cameras.

The session was not enlivened by the appearance of a midget on the ample lap of Mr. Morgan, as when he appeared before the banking and currency committee two years ago, but it had all the other circus aspects that characterize a senate investigation. Senator Gerald P. Nye [Radical, N. D.], the chairman, delayed the opening for ten minutes to let the camera and sound picture men exploit the fullest publicity advantages and then gave them one last chance during the mass swearing of Mr. Morgan and his partners.

There were Thomas W. Lamont, George Whitney, former president of the New York Stock exchange; Russell Leffingwell and S. Parker Gilbert, all Morgan partners; John W. Davis, counsel, and Frank Vanderlip, former president of the National City bank.

Stump Speeches in Order.

Mr. Morgan, who has established himself and staff in 40 rooms at the fashionable Shoreham hotel, was impressively attired in a black suit, high wing collar and dark four-in-hand tie for the day's ordeal. He was, for the most part, an affable witness as he sat toying with a huge gold watch chain across his spacious paunch and puffed away at his enormous pipe. Occasionally he displayed some asperity, however, and the famous Morgan mustache bristled when he thought the senators were trying to make him "get up a memory."

The meeting opened with a five minute speech by Chairman Nye, setting forth the aims and achievements to date of the munitions committee, and copies were distributed to the press. Mr. Morgan followed suit with a speech of his own, copies of which also were distributed, and this drew the wrath of the senators.

"Censorship" Is Established.

"I did not object at the outset to the reading of this statement, but I serve notice now that I will object in the future to any stump speech that is not responsive to the issues," said Senator Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.].

Senator Nye laid down a rule that henceforth all statements would have to be submitted in advance for scrutiny.

Mr. Morgan's statement explained that Morgan & Co. acted as fiscal agent in the United States for both the British and French governments following the outbreak of the world war in 1914, ordering for them about 3 billion dollars' worth of materials, on which was paid roughly 1 per cent, or some $30,000,000, in commissions. He emphasized that his sympathies rested with the allied powers from the outbreak of the war,

Petition I. C. C. to Put City on Eastern Time

Chicago petitioned the interstate commerce commission formally yesterday to include the city in the eastern standard time zone. The petition, drawn up and filed by Barnet Hodes, city corporation counsel, is in the form of a request for reopening the case of Michigan, which entered a similar petition in 1931.

On Nov. 4, the Chicago city council adopted an ordinance instituting year-around daylight saving time here after 2 a. m. next March 1. To avoid confusion for railroads, which operate according to the time zones fixed by the I. C. C. [in Illinois, "central" time], the council enacted on Dec. 18 a resolution directing that the corporation counsel petition the commerce commission to authorize eastern time for the city.

Asks for Prompt Action.

In carrying out this mandate yesterday, Mr. Hodes asked the I. C. C. to set hearings at the earliest possible date so that schedule changes might be effected satisfactorily by March 1.

An act of congress of March 19, 1918, fixed time zones for the nation and empowered the interstate commerce commission to adjust their boundaries to meet new needs.

Under the terms of this act, Michigan sought five years ago to have both her peninsulas transferred from the central time belt to the eastern zone. The boundary runs through the middle of Lake Huron. At that time, 53 of the 56 communities in Michigan already were under eastern time by local legislation.

New Angle on Michigan Situation.

The I. C. C. denied Michigan's petition, however, because Chicago, the western terminus of the major eastern railroads, was then on central time and the commission feared confusion.

Accordingly, Mr. Hodes' petition yesterday was a request that Michigan's case be reconsidered so that trains might run on a single legal time schedule between Chicago and the Atlantic coast. Except for interstate transportation all Michigan now operates under eastern time by act of the legislature.

"Chicago has adopted eastern standard time because of advantages which were detailed in public hearings on the subject," said Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th], who fathered both time ordinances in the council. "The railroads desire to coöperate and can do so fully if the eastern standard zone is extended by the commission.

"It will mean that trains such as the Century, Broadway Limited, Commodore Vanderbilt, and Capitol Limited will operate on one time basis."

WATER SHORTAGE IN JERUSALEM IS ENDED AFTER 2,000 YEARS

JERUSALEM, Jan. 7.—(AP)—After 2,000 years of water shortage, Jerusalem began today to receive water through a 38 mile pipeline which pumps the precious fluid from the newly built reservoir at Ras-El-Ain, on the coast, 2,600 feet below Jerusalem.

Expenditure of almost $2,000,000 was necessary before the pipeline finally was connected with Jerusalem. The new supply supplements the water available in the Solomon's pools, ancient reservoirs believed to have been built by the third king of Israel.

It is expected that the Holy City's households will be supplied once every three days instead of once every seven days as previously.

Raymond Kirk, Insurance Man, Killed in Auto

Raymond Kirk, one of the leading insurance men in Chicago, was killed at 12:30 o'clock this morning when the automobile in which he was riding skidded into a lamp post in Lincoln park near Center street. He was taken to the Columbus Memorial hospital, but died on the way.

Mr. Kirk was vice president of the insurance firm of Rollins, Burdick & Hunter. He had been engaged in general insurance business in La Salle street since 1898 and was a member of the Chicago Board of Underwriters.

He was born in Chicago in 1881, the son of the late Wallace F. and Maud Arrick Kirk and a grandson of James S. Kirk, founder of the soap company that bears his name.

Raymond Kirk was married to Hester B. Carson of Chicago on April 25, 1913. Mrs. Kirk survives him. A brother, Wallace Kirk, and a sister, Mrs. Cora Kirk Clagstone of Santa Barbara, Cal., also survive him.

Mr. Kirk lived at 3240 Sheridan road. He was a member of the Racquet and Chicago Yacht clubs.

BLIZZARD 'ACT OF GOD'; RAILWAY BEATS OFF SUITS

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The long delays and discomforts suffered by hundreds of passengers on the Long Island railroad during the blizzard of Jan. 23, 1935, were an act of God and not caused by negligence on the part of the railroad, a jury in First Municipal court of Queens decided today.

The six jurors gave a verdict for the railroad in a suit by Leo Newhouse and Dr. Max Moskowitz, both of Arverne, for $1,000 each. The plaintiffs testified they had boarded a train at the Flatbush avenue terminal of the railroad at 7:30 p. m., but did not arrive at the Hammel station in Arverne—normally a twenty-five minute run—until 1:30 a. m.

Justice O'Rourke told the jury "in order for the plaintiffs to recover they must prove the defendant negligent in its duty toward the heating of the car and their protection in this unusual weather, and as to these questions there is considerable conflict in the testimony."

SEARCH SLAIN DOCTOR'S FILES FOR NEW CLEWS

'Patient's Revenge' Theory Studied.

Investigators striving to solve the mysterious murder of Dr. Silber C. Peacock, successful specialist in children's diseases, began last night a careful examination of his records of patients on the theory that his slayer may have been a neurotic parent seeking revenge for a fancied wrong. The doctor's files were taken from his office at 4753 Broadway to the Summerdale police station where detectives started going through them.

Capt. Martin C. McCormick of the Summerdale district and Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan turned to this theory after four days of intensive investigation had failed to disclose a substantial clew to the identity or motive of Dr. Peacock's slayer or slayers.

The police officials admitted that they are no nearer a solution of the case than they were last Friday evening when the doctor's body, with a bullet wound in the head and the skull battered by blows of a heavy weapon, was found in his automobile in the 6300 block of North Francisco avenue.

Series of Puzzles for Police.

To pierce the mystery of the motive and circumstances of the murder the police must find the answer to many questions. Among the questions are:

1. Who disliked Dr. Peacock sufficiently to kill him? If it was a revenge maddened parent of a young patient, the police hope to learn his identity in a study of the doctor's cases. Close examination of the physician's personal and professional life has disclosed no other enemy who could bring about his death.

2. What significance have the name Smale and the number 6438? Dr. Peacock left his home in the Edgewater Beach apartments, 5555 Sheridan road, on Thursday night in response to a telephone plea from "G. Smale, 6438 North Whipple street," that he attend a sick child. No one known to the police saw him alive after that. There is no Smale at the Whipple street address. But at 6438 South Washtenaw avenue, 16 miles away, lives George W. Smale. This Smale yesterday supplied the investigators with a list of all persons to whom he recalled giving his business card.

Back to Three Phone Calls.

3. Who is the woman who called Dr. Peacock's apartment at 7:40 Thursday evening while he was dining in a restaurant with his wife, Ruth, and their daughter, Betty Lou, 7 years old? The wife and child had just returned from the home of Mrs. Peacock's mother at Bowen, Ill.

4. To whom did Dr. Peacock speak when he made a telephone call from a pay station in the drug store on the first floor of the Edgewater Beach apartments at 8:30 Thursday night?

5. Who made the mysterious "mercy call" at 10:15 p. m. which lured Dr. Peacock to his death?

6. Why did Dr. Peacock leave home immediately to answer the call? The investigators learned yesterday from his office secretary, Miss Katherine Maloney, that Dr. Peacock rarely answered a night call from a new patient, and then only when the person had been properly recommended. His fee for such a call was usually $7. Yet in this case he mentioned only the amount of $5 in the phone conversation, which was overheard by his wife.

Robbery Theory Not Discarded.

7. Is it possible that Dr. Peacock was killed by robbers? It was recalled that on several occasions fake phone calls have sent physicians into the hands of bandits. Dr. Peacock's wallet was missing when his body was found. His knuckles were bruised as in a fight. Friends said the doctor had fought off robbers a year ago and had promised he would try to do it again if held up.

8. Where are his automobile keys? They were in the car when he took it from the garage Thursday night. They were missing when police discovered the murder.

9. Where is the bullet which was fired through Dr. Peacock's head? From the position of the body and the blood on the floor, Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, coroner's chemist, is convinced that the doctor was killed inside his car. The absence of any

Act to Recover $50,000,000 AAA Tax Here

Turn to Roosevelt

New Dealers, still stunned by AAA decision, wait for Roosevelt to find a way out of ruins of their plan to "make over America." Details on page 5.

A total of between 50 and 55 million dollars in Agricultural Adjustment administration processing taxes is impounded under orders of Chicago federal courts in connection with lawsuits by packers and other food processors resisting collection of the tax, it was learned yesterday at the office of United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe.

All day yesterday the district attorney's office was besieged by telephone calls from lawyers representing the litigating processors, asking when their money would be returned to them. Mr. Igoe informed them that no action can be taken until the Supreme court rules in the rice millers' processing tax case, involving the amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment act which became law on Aug. 24, 1935.

Collections Heaviest Here.

Chicago, as the center of the meat packing industry, probably has collected more AAA taxes than any other internal revenue district. For a time the meat packers and other processors paid their taxes without protest. Those payments largely have been disbursed to farmers as benefits.

Last May the large packing companies and other processors began to file suits to restrain collection of the processing taxes. To insure payment in case they lost their suits, they were required to file surety bonds with the courts. This procedure obtained until the AAA amendments were passed in August.

One of those amendments provided that a processor could not recover taxes paid the government unless he could establish that he had neither deducted the tax from payments to producers nor passed it on to consumers.

Amount of Taxes Posted.

Thereafter the local federal courts required suing processors, instead of posting a bond, to post with a bank the amount of the taxes in escrow. In holding the AAA invalid in the Hoosac Mills case on Monday, the Supreme court did not rule upon those AAA amendments involving refunds and disputed taxes. Those amendments, however, are involved in the suit against the rice processing tax, which was established by those amendments, and on which the high court may rule next Monday.

The impounded funds thus fall into two classes. Attorneys hazarded yesterday that in the case of the bonds posted in lieu of payments due before Aug. 24, the AAA decision wiped out the instrument by which the government sought to collect the taxes, and the litigants probably will be successful in obtaining releases from their bonds. Any refunds of payments actually impounded, after Aug. 24, probably will be governed by the ruling in the rice millers' case, they added.

O. G. Barrett, farm adviser for Cook county, who has been directing AAA payments and control in the county, yesterday received a cryptic telegram from AAA headquarters in Washington, halting all his activities.

"Cease activities. Do not incur further expense," the telegram stated.

At AAA headquarters at 506 South Wabash avenue, however, work went on as usual.

GOV. HORNER ACTS TO MEET ILLINOIS CRISIS

Ways of Financing Up to Legislators.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Gov. Henry Horner late today issued a call for a second special session of the Illinois general assembly to act on the relief problems of the state, after a two hour conference with about forty members of the legislature, both Democrats and Republicans.

The new session will convene at 4 p. m. tomorrow and run concurrently with the current first special session. The first action, according to the present program, will be to introduce a bill appropriating 2½ millions to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. If the measure is rushed through the legislative processes, that amount will be available then to finance the relief budget until Feb. 1 and postpone until that date at least the crisis that threatens to close the relief stations on Jan. 15.

Two Millions Monthly from Tax.

The state now has for relief, in the absence of any more federal grants, about 2 millions monthly which is garnered from the sales tax. Approximately 7½ millions is needed in addition, according to members of the IERC, for the period from Feb. 1 to May 1, when old age assistance and seasonal changes are expected to lessen the relief load. How the larger sum is to be raised is the problem of the legislature, according to the governor.

"What means are there to raise money by Feb. 1 that the legislature can utilize?" Gov. Horner was asked.

"A state bond issue payable out of local gas tax funds," the governor answered. "There also was a suggestion that the state pro rate its two millions monthly and let the localities supplement that to meet their own needs."

Opposes Sales Levy Increase.

"Yes, it would be possible to increase the sales tax," he continued in answer to further questions. "But I don't favor any increase in the sales tax. I have left the whole subject open to the legislature, with power to do anything to bring relief. There is no restriction on the general assembly in the call."

The governor's veto power, however, would act as a restriction unless overridden by the assembly. Observers have believed from his past statements that he might exercise that authority if the legislature decided that the 7½ millions also should be taken from the general revenue fund. But they point out now that he has swung from his former position in agreeing to the 2½ millions appropriation and call attention to one paragraph in a statement issued by the governor today in which he attacks the Works Progress administration and its Illinois administrator, Robert J. Dunham.

Wants Balance Maintained.

"Through our strenuous and earnest efforts the states' budget has been balanced," the statement reads. "Any great appropriations at this time would unbalance it. Even so, this will not deter me from urging the legislature to do everything possible to solve the relief situation if the federal government fails to help further financially and the WPA and the cities and counties fail to do their part."

Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] queried the governor about his position on the general revenue fund in the conference. The suggestion was broached that the entire 10 millions needed until May 1 be made available and the governor remarked that the money in the fund already has been appropriated for other purposes.

"Appropriation setups can be changed in emergencies," Schnackenberg commented.

Opposes Diverting Funds.

"Possibly so," the governor answered, "I don't like that money diverted from its original appropriation purpose, but I do realize that this is an extreme emergency."

Appropriation of money from the general revenue fund has been forcibly suggested by Mayor Kelly. In a recent interview the mayor pointed out that 60 per cent of the sales tax comes from Cook county, in speaking of the governor's statement that the cities and counties should bear the load. The mayor also said the sales tax raises many millions more than the state property tax that it replaced.

Refutes WPA Claims.

In his statement on WPA, the governor quoted a number of figures as evidence that the WPA has not taken as many families from the relief rolls in Illinois as promised. He said that while he expected that WPA would take off relief 200,000 employables in Illinois by Jan. 1, it has only taken 158,045 cases as of Jan. 3.

"The present situation is not of our own making," his statement read. "It is due to the failure of the WPA administration in Illinois to measure up to expectations. The effort of Robert J. Dunham, administrator of the WPA in Illinois, to shift responsibility cannot hide the facts from the public who are entitled to know them."

The statement was regarded as an aftermath of the meeting of the IERC in Chicago yesterday in which the commission, by a vote of 5 to 4, nonconcurred in a statement issued by the governor on Dec. 29, following the meeting between the governor and members of the IERC.

Restore County Rule on Pensions.

A division late tonight among the Democratic majority in the senate resulted in favorable consideration of a plan to dispense old age pension money which heretofore has been frowned upon by the federal social security board in Washington.

The senate action was on house bill No. 32, which sets up the county machinery to distribute the pension money. When in the house the bill once had provided for county welfare commissions to be appointed by the county judges. Emissaries sent to Washington by the state administration found that the federal board desired more state control, and the bill was amended to give the state welfare board the appointing power.

Tonight the senate, by a vote of 21 to 11, adopted amendments by Senator W. E. C. Clifford [Dem., Champaign] which returned the appointing power to the county judges.

Favored by Republicans.

Republicans all along had favored this measure of home rule, and tonight a number of Democratic senators joined with them, including Rollo M. Shaw of Lawrenceville, who is Democratic majority floor leader.

The senate also adopted an amendment to make the state bear all the administrative costs.

The state unemployment insurance bill failed of passage in the senate tonight, winning only eight votes in its first legislative roll call. With a vote of 15 to 8 recorded against it, the bill was returned to the calendar for future consideration.

In the house today Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville] introduced a bill to abolish the Illinois Emergency Relief commission and had it sent to second reading. He would have the state pay one-third of the sales tax to the townships, which would be responsible, under his plan, for relief.

SALES TAX YIELD IS 104 MILLIONS SINCE AUG. 1, 1933

A total of $104,339,775 sales tax revenue has been collected by the state since Aug. 1, 1933, when the tax became effective according to figures made public yesterday by State Director of Finance K. L. Ames Jr. During the last six months of 1935 tax collections totaled $29,859,638.59, an increase of $8,399,431.09 over the collections for the first six months of the year. An increase in the sales tax from 2 per cent to 3 per cent took effect last July 1.

Until the 3 per cent tax took effect the average collection per month was $3,238,266. During the last five months of 1935, the months affected by the increased tax, the average collection per month was $5,165,936.

Igoe Gets Death Threat and Demand for $50,000

Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney, received in the mail yesterday a letter demanding that he place $50,000 beside the Garibaldi monument in Lincoln park by Friday or be killed. It was signed "Mifia headquarters." The letter was mailed in Chicago Monday and was not stamped. Igoe expressed the belief that it was the work of a crank.

EFFORT TO UNITE AGAINST SMALL AFOOT IN G. O. P.

Foes Would Reduce Field of Eight for Governor.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Activities with a view of reducing the field of Republican candidates for governor came to the fore yesterday following the announcement of Len Small at Kankakee that he would seek a third term nomination. His entry swells the number of avowed or possible candidates for the governorship to eight for the Republican primaries in April.

Word at Cook county headquarters yesterday was that a conference of downstate party men is to be held at Springfield today with the object of reducing the number. During the past week or two conferences have been held directed at the same idea. With Mr. Small now an avowed candidate, efforts are contemplated to bring various groups together in support of one anti-Small candidate.

Already Announced.

Already in the race are State Senator Earl Searcy of Springfield; John G. Oglesby of Oglehurst, former lieutenant governor; Oscar Carlstrom, former attorney general; J. Paul Kuhn of Batavia, former member of the state commerce commission, and George W. Dowell of Duquoin.

Wayland Brooks and H. Wallace Caldwell, county commissioner, are expected to announce shortly.

With a crowded field divided among several candidates, the theory of the Small men has been that the primaries might be a repetition of those of 1932, when there were eight candidates in the running in the Republican primaries and Small won, only to be defeated by Henry Horner by 566,000 plurality in November.

General comment among Cook county Republicans is that if Small should win the nomination Illinois might go Democratic both on governor and on President in the coming election.

AAA Decision Cheers Leaders.

Meanwhile in Republican circles the decision of the Supreme court demolishing AAA was held to have brightened political prospects among the farm voters. Harrison Spangler, western director of the Republican national committee, commented:

"The Supreme court yesterday plowed under the processing tax on hogs. Today hogs went up 75 cents per hundred. This proves conclusively that the farmers have been paying a large part of the tax. Evidently the only persons who were benefited by the tax were the army of burocrats maintained in Washington."

Herbert Hoover was in Chicago a few hours, between trains on his way east. He indicated he would study the AAA decision and might make it the subject for another onslaught upon the New Deal.

Seek Democratic Convention.

With a certified check for $150,000 tucked away in an inside pocket, several Chicago men started for Washington from various points yesterday to invite the Democratic national committee to choose Chicago for the presidential nominating convention. Robert F. Carr, one of the two leaders of the Chicago group, departed from Florida for the capital, where he is to join Albert D. Lasker, his co-chairman, coming from New York.

Among those traveling to Washington for the meeting are George W. Young, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce; John Burke, president of the Greater Chicago Hotel association, and Mrs. Elizabeth Conkey, Illinois Democratic committeewoman.

Pat A. Nash, national committeeman for Illinois, and William J. Hennessy, secretary of the Carr-Lasker deputation, have been in Washington since Monday. Among the competitors of Chicago for convention city are Philadelphia, Atlantic City, St. Louis, Cleveland, Kansas City, and possibly San Francisco.

SEARCH RECORDS OF SLAIN DOCTOR FOR KILLER CLEW

"Patient's Revenge" Theory Studied.

bullet hole in the car, said Lieut. Otto Erlanson of the homicide squad, maybe because the bullet was spent as it emerged from the skull and dropped into the clothing, later falling into the snow when the body was moved.

10. Why were Dr. Peacock's glasses lying neatly in a case on the rear seat of the automobile?

Did Victim Reach Whipple Street?

All these questions, to which the investigators have so far been unable to find satisfactory answers, added to their puzzlement.

A circumstance considered of some significance in the investigation was disclosed during the day in the questioning of residents of the building at 6438 North Whipple street. The stories told by two of these tenants, Ben Noble and a Mrs. Goldman, tended to indicate, the police said, that Dr. Peacock actually reached the place to which he had been summoned by phone.

Noble and Mrs. Goldman said that about 10:30 Thursday night they heard an automobile stop in front of the building. An automobile door slammed, there was the sound of footsteps in the snow, then of voices in the lobby of the building. Shortly afterward, said Noble and Mrs. Goldman, they heard the slamming of two more automobile doors and the departure of a car.

Reconstruction of the Scene.

If the person who first drove up in the automobile was actually Dr. Peacock the police believe that it is possible his slayer or slayers met him in the lobby of the building and forced him back into the car. If there were two assailants one may have slammed the rear door of the automobile after getting in beside the doctor and the other then would have slammed the front door after climbing into the driver's seat.

This reconstruction of the possible events in front of the Whipple street building would support either the theory of robbery or the theory that the crime was committed by a vengeance seeker. A careful canvass of the building's occupants has disclosed that no one there summoned Dr. Peacock. He had patients in the neighborhood, however, and this may account for his willingness to respond to the "mercy call."

In considering the robbery theory police recalled the murder of Dr. Benjamin F. Garnitz, 40 years old, 5159 South Damen avenue, who was lured from his home by a fake call on Feb. 24, 1933, and was shot to death by three young robbers. The youths were arrested, confessed 30 similar robberies of doctors, and were sentenced to 100 years in prison.

Secretary Aids Investigation.

Although Dr. Peacock's secretary, Miss Maloney, assisted the inquiry willingly, she was unable during her questioning yesterday to supply any new clews, Capt. McCormick said. She has promised, however, to aid in the investigation of Dr. Peacock's patients.

Convinced that he knows nothing of the murder, the police yesterday released Arthur St. George Thompson, a chiropodist, who had been held since Sunday. He admitted accusing Dr. Peacock, unjustly, of entertaining Mrs. Thompson on a cabaret party.

Earl Tanner, 35 years old, 8 West Oak street, a radio tenor, who told of quarreling with Dr. Peacock over a fee for attending the Tanner baby, was exonerated by Capt. McCormick of any connection with the case.

Doctor Buried at Bowen.

With Mrs. Peacock in Bowen yesterday attending the burial of her husband, Chief of Detectives Sullivan again denied published reports that he intended to requestion her. The widow has given the police complete coöperation, the chief said.

Before leaving Chicago for Bowen on Monday Mrs. Peacock told her daughter, Betty Lou, of the doctor's death. The widow plans to make her home in Bowen after winding up her business affairs here.

Dr. Peacock was buried in the same cemetery where his wife's father, George P. Pearce, was interred after his death on Dec. 23. It was after attending Mr. Pearce's funeral that Mrs. Peacock and her daughter returned to Chicago last Thursday evening.

COOK COUNTY GETS $400,000 FROM GAS TAXES IN DECEMBER

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—A total of $856,558.21 has been allotted to Illinois counties from motor fuel tax paid into the state treasury during the month of December, K. L. Ames Jr., director of finance, announced today in a report to Gov. Horner.

Of the total, $204,885 was held in reserve by the state for interest and retirement of the 20 million dollar emergency relief bond issue, and $81,611.50 for interest and retirement of the 30 million dollar relief bond issue. These are increases in the county reserves, $202,700 previously having been held each month for the 20 million dollar issue and $41,590 for the 30 million dollar issue.

Cook county's allotment for the month was $400,135.07, of which $186,880.21 was held for the 20 million dollar bond issue and $54,443.26 for the 30 million dollar bond issue.

Other counties in the higher allotment class are St. Clair, $17,960.69; Peoria, $17,844.07; Kane, $17,577.41; Winnebago, $16,850.79; Lake, $16,366.85; Madison, $15,941.67; Sangamon, $13,973.10; and Will, $13,152.48.

Convinces Policeman He's ManWho Lost Two $5 Bills

Policeman William McDermott's week long effort to locate the owner of two $5 bills he found last Tuesday in the lobby of the city hall was rewarded yesterday. E. C. Dunbar, 7615 Phillips avenue, appeared at police headquarters, where McDermott is assigned, and convinced the policeman that he had lost the money. It was returned to him. Until then McDermott had not revealed where he found the money, fearful that wrong claimants might appear.

$10,000 Damage Suit Filed as Sequel to Auto Death

A suit for $10,000 damages was filed yesterday in the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan by administrators of the estate of Miss Anne Brindley, 29 years old, night club entertainer, who was killed on Oct. 17, 1935, in Highland Park when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided with a truck on Skokie highway. Theodore Leonard, 324 Laflin street, owner of the truck, was named defendant.

STEPHEN A. DAY SEEKS CONGRESS SEAT AT LARGE

Constitution Authority Out for G. O. P. Nomination.

Attorney Stephen A. Day of Evanston, an authority on the constitution, yesterday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for congressman from the state at large. In 1906 and 1907, Mr. Day was secretary to the late Melville Fuller, then chief justice of the United States. He is the son of the late William R. Day, secretary of state under President McKinley and for twenty years a justice of the United States Supreme court.

In announcing that he would make the race at the April primaries, Mr. Day declared that the "real issue of the hour will be the New Deal versus the Supreme court, for the New Deal does not think or make plans in terms of the constitution.

Defend Supreme Court.

"A recent survey," Day continued, "shows that 86 per cent of the Republicans oppose any attempt to change the power of the Supreme court. This, then, is our rallying point. This is the supreme issue that will unite all those opposed to the New Deal.

"The planned economy of the New Deal, which took no thought of the constitution, though we live under a written constitution, first established on the one side the NRA, which was to be the enchaining of all industry and labor in the formal mandates of codes sanctioned by the President, with the promise that wages would be increased and hours of labor shortened and a consequent increase of the buying power to the average citizen.

"On the other side and equally gigantic and monumental was AAA and the pegging of farm prices by a vast system of enforced scarcity.

Questions Fairness of Setup.

"How honest was this planning? Was it fair to labor, to industry, to the farmer? When the one side fell, when NRA was declared unconstitutional, the New Deal collapsed and the justification for the AAA also collapsed. Now that the Supreme court has declared AAA unlawful, we must face the real issue of the campaign, the New Deal versus the Supreme court.

"We must uphold the integrity of the Supreme court and the independence of the judiciary. We must vindicate the supremacy of the law or we will become a mob of anarchists."

The candidacy of J. Frank Lindsey, real estate man with offices at 4842 Madison street, for the Democratic nomination for congress in the Sixth district was announced yesterday. Thomas J. O'Brien, Democrat, now represents the district.

COL. STOOPNAGLE OF RADIO TEAM SEEKS DIVORCE

Reno, Nev., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Frederick Chase Taylor of Buffalo, N. Y., known to radio listeners as "Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle" of the comedy team of "Stoopnagle and Budd," secretly filed suit for divorce from Mrs. Lois D. Taylor in Carson City, Nev., last Friday, it was learned today.

He charged cruelty. The date for trial of the case has not been set. The Taylors have been separted several years. They have a 15 year old son.

Mrs. Frances Colby Rogers, daughter of Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state in the cabinet of President Wilson, was granted a divorce here today from Robert Cameron Rogers, publicity man for a steamship line in New York.

The decree was granted on grounds of separation for more than five years.

Hugo Rasin Rennert, prominent in Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia society, was divorced on grounds of cruelty at a private trial here today by Mrs. Maria Teresa Sanchez-Domenech Rennert. They were married Nov. 10, 1923, in Madrid, Spain, and have an 8 year old daughter.

Rail Crossing Watchman Hit and Killed by Train

Otto Miller, 62 years old, of Dolton, a crossing watchman for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, was killed last night when he was struck by a train at 159th street near Indiana avenue. Miller was signaling motorists to stop for an approaching southbound train when he stepped into the adjoining track and was hit by a northbound train.

Farmer Uses Last AAA Check to Pay Liquor Fine

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Elmer Atkins, Charleston, Ill., farmer, made good use today of the last AAA check he will probably ever get. He used it to pay a $100 fine assessed against him by United States District Judge Fred L. Wham several months ago on a charge of possession of untaxed liquor.

HIGHWAY CRASH KILLS BOY; FIVE OTHERS INJURED

Robert Depin, 6 years old, was killed and five other persons were injured, one critically, last night when an automobile driven by his father, Victor Depin, 40 years old, 1972 South 26th street, Milwaukee, collided with a truck and skidded into a ditch on route 41, two miles west of Waukegan.

Depin was taken to St. Therese hospital in Waukegan suffering from a fracture of the spine, three broken ribs and a broken leg. Also in the car were another son, Frank; a daughter, Eleanor, and a stepson, Myron Greebe. They incurred minor injuries.

Truck Driver Also Hurt.

The truck driver was Roscoe Merrill, 25 years old, 1216 South 12th street, Milwaukee, employed by the Bartzen Cartage company. He also incurred minor injuries.

Gust Dahl, 61 years old, 7317 Rhodes avenue, died last night in the Roseland Community hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by a truck Monday at 91st and State streets. He stepped from a street car into the path of the truck, which was driven by John Brandenburg, 26 years old, Rensselaer, Ind.

William Todd, 11 years old, 2659 North Mansfield avenue, died early today in the Garfield Park hospital of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile at Mansfield and Diversey avenues. The name of the driver was not immediately learned by police.

Miss Anne Anderson, 54 years old, 1737 Carmen avenue, was taken to the Edgewater hospital in critical condition early yesterday after she was struck while walking at Foster and Ashland avenues by an automobile driven by Fred Birkner, 35, of 4123 North Oakley avenue. Birkner said that because of the ice on the streets he was unable to avoid striking the woman.

County Death Toll 29.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 29 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. In the same period 23 were killed and 335 injured within the Chicago city limits.

Verdicts of accidental death were returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the deaths of Charles McClelland, 45, of Arlington Heights, a high school teacher, his wife, Mabel, 45, and their daughter, Ila, 20. All were fatally injured on Dec. 2 when their automobile was struck by a Milwaukee railroad train at Caldwell avenue and Carpenter road.

FLORID ROMEO TELLS HOW HE SWINDLED WOMEN

Accused of Getting Million —Love Letters Revealed.

Love letters of scores of women, statements of several of his Chicago women victims, and his own modest narrative of "how I took 'em" were disclosed yesterday in the investigation by the state's attorney's office of the strange power over women exercised by Nathaniel Herbert Wheeler, 51 years old, a former convict.

Florid, of dignified appearance and smooth spoken, Wheeler is alleged to have defrauded numerous women of $1,000,000 by striking up friendships through "lonely hearts" columns and matrimonial advertisements.

A warant charging Wheeler with operating a confidence game against Mrs. Catherine C. Bauer, 6507 South Maplewood avenue, a widow, was issued in Felony court yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan.

Fails to Make Bond.

Bond was fixed at $10,000, which Wheeler did not furnish, and he was held in custody. The hearing will be in Felony court today and Eugene V. O'Connor, chief investigator for the blue sky division of the state's attorney's office, hopes to have Mrs. Bauer and other Chicago women confront the love operator.

Mrs. Rena Felger, 537 Belmont avenue, appeared voluntarily in O'Connor's office after the warant was issued and said Wheeler had taken $1,200 from her last April, giving her 1,250 shares of Goldfield Consolidated Mines company stock as collateral security. The shares cost Wheeler 18 cents each, O'Connor said.

Nice Letter and Poetry.

"He told me it cost $1 a share," Mrs. Felger said. "He said I would get $4,000 back by the first of October. He sent me the nicest letter and piece of poetry, and called on me several times. To think I didn't have any more sense than to fall for it. He led up to marriage, but never just came right out and proposed like a man would. He was always a perfect gentleman in my company. Well, smarter ones than me fell for him."

Mrs. Felger, a widow, first gave her name as "Brown" because "I am so ashamed of it." She is middle aged, of short stature, and spectacled. Mrs. Felger said she received a letter from Texas signed by Wheeler after he was arrested here. Wheeler admitted he had several mailing addresses throughout the country, from which he had letters posted to make his women prospects think he was elsewhere. Most of the time he was living in quiet comfort in a suite at the Stevens hotel, where he was arrested Saturday.

"Large, Laughing Eyes."

Wheeler winced yesterday as he admitted he had described himself as handsome with "large, laughing blue eyes" to his female correspondents.

"I started the racket in 1927 when somebody tossed one of those Cupid's column papers at me," he said. "I had always been in mining and engineering promotion. I'll bet I haven't written to more than 150 women nor obtained more than $33,000 in all. Sure I got plenty of laughs from their letters to me. Who wouldn't?"

Wheeler's letters were written in high sounding phrases with much stress on "truth and beauty." But to Mrs. Bauer last February he wrote more specifically that he intended to visit the city and asked, "Is there room enough out there for two? We'll have to look into such matters."

One Who Wanted Love.

A woman in Rhinelander, Wis., wrote him: "Months and even years have passed by since I've loved, and in my heart is the natural desire. That is why I suffer—have waited—looked beyond a barren horizon—found you. I don't intend to wait much longer. I want life and if I do get some one besides you I'll not be able to give them what I could give you. There are so few even among those that have known me all their life who are really aware of what lays beneath my surface appearance."

A woman in Akron, O., wondered last April: "For the life of me, Nathaniel, I can't figure out why your name should be on the list of the 'Fidelity club.' When it should be in New York's 400 or in some of the very exclusive clubs of Chicago where abound society dames and matrons with lots of money and social prestige, but perhaps you have had your share of that or maybe they are too cold. You know I'm a poor working girl."

"Conchita" in Quita, Ecuador, wrote that she belonged to a nudist club and would send Wheeler some nudist pictures of herself and associates. She described herself as wealthy and capricious.

DOCTOR REVEALS NEW TEST TO DETERMINE ADVENT OF MATERNITY

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Through use of a new test, unequaled in simplicity and speed, it now is possible to determine whether a woman is to become a mother.

Within ten minutes after an extract is injected into the skin the physician can detect approaching maternity, even though it may be many months away.

The disclosure was made by Dr. Benjamin Gruskin of the Temple university school of medicine, Philadelphia, whose experience in hundreds of cases was reported here today in the current issue of the American Journal of Medicine.

The tests consist of injection into the skin of an extract of powdered placenta, obtained by grinding up tissues which help nourish a prenatal child and become available for medical uses of many kinds after birth.

If the patient is to become a mother, a small, irregular area of inflammation appears on the skin within ten minutes after the extract is administered.

Mrs. Fred C. Hankel Seeks Separation; Suit Contested

Hearing on the separate maintenance suit brought by Mrs. Olive Hankel, 1257 Argyle street, against Fred C. Hankel, orchestra leader, was begun yesterday before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan. Mrs. Hankel charges her husband with cruelty and misconduct. Hankel is contesting the suit and has filed a cross bill for divorce. Mrs. Hankel recently lost a $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought against Mrs. Gertrude Reich Walker, estranged wife of Wirt D. Walker, vice president of the Arcady Farms Milling company.

GIRL'S OPERATION STORY MAY BRING GRAND JURY QUIZ

Police Probe Charges Against Mother.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 7.—(AP)—District Attorney Matthew Brady said tonight the sterilization plot charge of Ann Cooper Hewitt, 21 year old heiress, against her socially prominent mother, "will in all probability be presented to the grand jury."

The prosecutor's announcement followed a declaration by attorneys for the mother, Mrs. Maryon Hewitt McCarter, blaming "outsiders" for the $500,000 suit brought against her by her daughter.

No Definite Statement.

Brady said he was coöperating with police in investigating "all phases" of the operation which Miss Hewitt claims was performed on her in 1934 at her mother's order.

"I am not prepared to make a definite statement on the law in this case," the district attorney said. "There are many angles to be investigated. I can say, however, that it will in all probability be presented to the grand jury."

The district attorney said he knew of but one state law pertaining in general to sterilization operations. That, he added, empowered superintendents of state mental hospitals to authorize operations on persons legally adjudged feeble-minded or otherwise incompetent.

Given Mental Test.

Miss Hewitt was given a mental test by Mrs. Mary S. Scally, psychologist for the San Francisco board of health, at the request of one of two physicians named in the suit.

Miss Hewitt charged the operation was arranged by her mother in a bizarre scheme to gain control of a $10,000,000 trust fund which would have been shared by any children born to the young woman. The fund was established by the girl's father, the late Peter Cooper Hewitt, inventor.

Aaron Sapiro, attorney for Mrs. McCarter, said the surgery was for "society's sake" and evidence would be offered to show "erotic tendencies" of the young heiress.

Sapiro said the trust fund was about $1,300,000. Two-thirds of its income supposedly goes to Miss Hewitt and the remainder to Mrs. McCarter. In the event the girl died childless, however, the mother would receive the full income.

After her twenty-first birthday last July Miss Hewitt filed application in Hackensack for an accounting in the trust fund stewardship. Breslin yesterday asked a nine months' extension.

SCHOOL BOARD TO ADOPT 1936 BUDGET TODAY

The $70,271,118 board of education budget for 1936 will be adopted by the board today substantially as it was originally drafted, James B. McCahey, president, announced yesterday. Suggestions for changes in the budget, voiced at a public hearing on Monday, were considered and rejected by the board in an informal meeting yesterday. In addition to the budget a tax levy to match the proposed 1936 expenditures will be adopted and both will be sent to the city council for approval, Mr. McCahey said.

TRADE PRACTICE ACT IS INVALID, N. Y. COURT RULES

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 7.—(AP)—New York state's so-called "fair trade practice" act, enacted by the 1935 legislature to curb price cutting on nationally advertised merchandise within the state was held invalid by the New York Court of Appeals today.

Three separate cases were involved in the litigation. One was brought by Doubleday, Doran and company and Doran Bookshops, Inc., against R. H. Macy, New York department store. A second was instituted by Seeck and Kade against R. Tomshinsky, operating a chain of drug stores in the Bronx, and the third was brought by John Marisch, dealer in photographic supplies, against the Eastman Kodak company.

In the Doubleday Doran and the Seeck and Kade cases the plaintiffs sought to restrain the retailers from selling books in one case and remedies in another at a retail price below that fixed by the publisher and manufacturer.

The Marisch case was a suit brought by a retailer against the manufacturer because the latter had blacklisted him for price cutting.

MR. AND MRS. HUGH PARKER PICKERING.

HUGH PICKERING FACES DIVORCE ACTION TODAY

No Contest, Asserts Merry Fahrney's Ex.

Mrs. Charlotte Milburn Pickering, daughter of Mrs. Anne Hollingsworth Peabody of New York City, and niece of Devereaux Milburn, famous poloist, will file suit for divorce in the Superior court this morning against Hugh Parker Pickering. The bill, which charges desertion, will be uncontested and an immediate hearing will be sought, according to attorneys in the case.

Pickering is a former husband of Merry Fahrney, Oak Park heiress. He married Miss Milburn at Harrison, N. Y., on Dec. 17, 1933, after they had eloped from New York City.

According to the bill, Pickering left his wife in November, 1934.

Pickering, who is living with his mother at 1204 Astor street, said last night that he would not oppose the divorce and asserted that he and his wife are still on friendly terms. Mrs. Pickering's last known address in Chicago was the Ambassador hotel.

Miss Fahrney and Pickering were married in 1931. The Oak Park heiress won a divorce in the Superior court on Sept. 27, 1933, on cruelty charges.

The custody of their son, Peter, now 3 years old, was given to Pickering at the time of the decree, but was later awarded to Miss Fahrney's parents after proceedings in the county court.

Miss Fahrney married Frank Van Eiszner of River Forest in November, 1933, but had the marriage annulled in Los Angeles in May, 1934.

REPORTER LOSES PLEA OF PRIVILEGE IN HIS CONTEMPT APPEAL

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The Court of Appeals today refused to set aside the sentence of Martin Mooney, reporter of the New York American, who refused to tell a New York county grand jury where he obtained information he had published. He contended that his information was privileged as confidential and was obtained during the preparation of a series of newspaper articles dealing with the "policy racket" and other crimes in New York City.

The grand jury was considering the same conditions. He did not aid that body.

Judge Irving G. Hubbs wrote the court's opinion in which all the other judges concurred. "The only question presented on this appeal" he said, "is whether a newspaper reporter may lawfully refuse to answer pertinent questions relating to communications made to him as a reporter on the ground that such communications are privileged.

"The policy of the law is to require the disclosure of all information by witnesses in order that justice may prevail. The granting of a privilege from such disclosure constitutes an exception to that general rule."

MORGAN TRACES WAR LOANS TRAIL TO WHITE HOUSE

but insisted that this was because of Germany's outrage upon Belgium.

"Germany drove the United States into the war by a series of insults and injuries, resulting in the loss of many American lives, any one of which injuries might have proved a cause of war had the United States not been so desirous of maintaining peace," he declared.

"Germany drove us into the war by a series of acts beginning with the sinking of the Lusitania and ending in the crowning insult of suggesting to Mexico that it make war on us, promising it should have assistance and the surrender of Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico as a reward."

When Mr. Morgan said his company agreed to do all that was in its power to help the allies win the war as quickly as possible, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.] asked whether that attitude didn't run squarely counter to President Wilson's neutrality proclamation of Aug. 4, 1914.

"You can't distinguish between right and wrong," Morgan replied.

Urgent Pleas for Loans.

The senators then plunged into their efforts to show that it was not only Germany's "insults and injuries" but loans and credits to the allies and the desire for more of this business that led to America's entry. Morgan, Harjes & Co., the Paris correspondent of J. P. Morgan & Co., it was brought out, cabled on Aug. 8 and again on Aug. 11, 1914, seeking a $10,000,000 loan for France. Morgan & Co. also received a cablegram from De Rothschild Freres of Paris seeking a $100,000,000 loan for France.

One of the urgent cablegrams from Morgan, Harjes & Co. suggested that "if we don't do something quickly other houses, such as Kuhn, Loeb & Co., may do something for other countries."

"What other countries did they have in mind?" asked Chairman Nye.

"Very likely Germany," Morgan replied.

Bryan Blocks Credits.

To these requests for loans Morgan & Co. replied that they were consulting the United States government, "as we do not wish to take any action under present strained circumstances which will be offensive to them."

On Aug. 15 Secretary of State Bryan telegraphed Morgan & Co. that loans to belligerents were "inconsistent with the true spirit of neutrality" and Morgan & Co. informed the Paris applicants that, owing to the "declared attitude" of the United States government, no loans could be made.

Senator Nye sought to bring out the identity of the Morgan partner who first approached the state department for advice on the question of loans. Neither Morgan nor Lamont could recall who did this. Lamont threw the packed caucus room in the senate office into an uproar when he explained, casually, that:

"We all were under such pressure then—working eight or ten hours a day."

Morgan Cable Is Produced.

Senator Nye then produced a cablegram from Morgan & Co. regretting that it could not make the French loans because "conditions here make it quite impossible. . . . U. S. government strongly declines send more gold abroad. . . . however, may be possible later on . . . excellent thing to do."

The senator attached great significance to this and demanded to know what hopes the Morgans had of seeing a change in the situation. Mr. Lamont explained that the exchange situation was very bad at that time, with the United States having maturities abroad, but that the situation was soon reversed, with pressure for credit in this direction.

In an apparent effort to show that Morgan & Co. was bringing some of the pressure to bear, Senator Nye then presented a memorandum from Secretary Bryan to President Wilson, and another, a highly conflicting one, from Robert Lansing, counselor and later secretary of the state department, to a Morgan employé.

Bryan's Fears Presented.

"Money is the worst of all contrabands because it commands everything else," wrote Mr. Bryan on Aug. 10. "The question of making loans contraband by international law agreement has been discussed, but no action taken. I know of nothing that would do more to prevent war than an international agreement that neutral nations would not loan to belligerents. We are the one great nation which is not involved and our refusal to loan to any belligerent would naturally tend to hasten a conclusion of the war."

Secretary Bryan appended a postscript quoting Lansing as saying that American citizens went abroad and enlisted in foreign armies at their own risk. Lansing took the position that dollars, also, should go abroad at their own risk.

Lansing Stresses "Difference."

But on Oct. 23 Lansing turned over a memorandum to Willard Straight, a Morgan employé, and R. L. Farnham, representing the National City bank, which said in part:

"From my conversations with the President I gathered the following impressions as to his views concerning bank credits of belligerent countries in contradistinction to a public loan floated in this country.

"There is a decided difference between an issue of government bonds, which are sold in open market to investors, and an arrangement for easy exchange in meeting debts incurred in trade between a government and American merchants.

"The sale of bonds draws gold from the American people. The acceptance of treasury notes or other evidences of debt in payment for articles purchased in this country is merely a means of facilitating trade by a system of credits which will avoid the clumsy and impracticable method of cash payments.

"As trade with belligerents is legitimate and proper it is desirable that obstacles, such as interference with an arrangement of credits or easy method of exchange, should be removed."

Denies Press Knew of Change.

Lansing said these were his impressions of his conversation with the President, who authorized him to give them to such persons as were entitled to them. The document was marked "memorandum of a conversation with the press," but Senator Nye insisted that the press never received the information. Mr. Morgan produced records showing the New York World and New York Times had stories "on the highest authority" that there had been a change in the official attitude with respect to loans and credits, but Senator Nye said these were unsupported and appeared several days earlier, on Oct. 16.

Mr. Vanderlip said the National City bank relied not only upon the Lansing memorandum but also upon a letter from Ambassador Jusserand of France, which said:

"I think it is appropriate for me to tell you confidentially that from information the accuracy of which I cannot doubt you will find the competent authorities ready not of course to grant 'permission' which is neither asked nor wanted, but to abstain from objections."

Bryan Kept in Dark.

Senator Nye, however, insisted that whatever understanding the "competent authorities" may have had, the secretary of state knew nothing about it, for on Jan. 20, some three months later, he wrote to the chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, the late Joel Stone of Missouri, saying:

"War loans in this country were disapproved because they were inconsistent with neutrality. There is a clearly defined difference between a war loan and the purchase of arms and ammunition. The policy of disapproving war loans affects all governments alike, so that the disapproval is not an unneutral act."

The first public notice of the change in policy, Nye declared, was an official state department press release on March 31, 1915, saying, "While loans to belligerents have been refused, this government has not felt justified in interposing objections to the credit arrangements which have been brought to its attention."

Hints Stone Pro-German.

In this connection the committee introduced cablegrams purporting to show that Morgan & Co. kept the British government advised of the state of affairs in this country. One of them, from H. P. Davison of Morgan & Co., to Morgan, Grenfell & Co. of London, who allegedly turned it over to the chancellor of the exchequer, declared:

"Have information U. S. Senator Stone [chairman of the foreign relations committee] for years intimate with German government, who now probably inspiring his activities."

A cablegram from Spring Rice, British ambassador, to Viscount Gray, the foreign secretary, quoted President Wilson as saying 90 per cent of the American were in sympathy with the allies.

Another cablegram from Davison to the London Morgan firm said the Porter bill, authorizing the President to lay embargoes on loans and credits during the recess of congress, was not supported by the President and that Senator Elihu Root declared it had no chance of passage. This cablegram was marked for the information of the chancellor.

Ruling for Consistency.

Senator Nye observed that Mr. Lansing seemingly made his "artificial distinction" between loans and credits "in order to conform with Mr. Bryan's neutrality policy."

"That's an inference that could be drawn," replied Mr. Vanderlip.

Mr. Lamont said Secretary Bryan's "new and untried" policy was pursued for 60 days and then suddenly changed, "whether due to our wheat and cotton growers or what."

'These loans you made would not have been approved except for the change in the government's position, would they?" asked Senator Clark.

"We would not have thought of making those loans in opposition to the secretary of state," Mr. Vanderlip replied.

Senator Clark asked whether the witnesses agreed with the Bryan theory that money is the worst of all contraband. Mr. Morgan said he didn't believe so, that Germany was bottled up and couldn't have secured the things she needed if she had the money.

"I don't think there's anything you can do but quote the Bible: 'Money is the root of all evil,' mused Mr. Lamont.

"The love of money is the root of all evil," corrected Mr. Morgan.

RICHBERG SEEKS TO END LOWER COURTS' POWERS OVER LAWS

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Assailing the "assertion of supreme authority" by the judiciary, Donald R. Richberg tonight called on lawyers to urge that congress prevent lower federal courts from passing on the constitutionality of laws.

Making his first public address since retiring as NRA administrator, Richberg told the bar association of New York:

"Regardless of the conceded character and ability of the judges, it is, to put it bluntly, a travesty upon representative popular government to empower one man, serving as the judge of an inferior court, to annul, even temporarily, a law which has been enacted by a body of 531 men, constituting the supreme legislative assembly of the nation, and approved by the chief executive who is elected by all the people."

Saying congress had authority to deny lower courts power to pass on federal laws, Richberg suggested it might change the procedure so that those courts would merely take evidence and then certify the cases directly to the Supreme court for a quick final ruling.

BONUS BACKERS MOVE FOR QUICK ACTION ON BILL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—A report lauding the veterans' bonus bill was filed by the house ways and means committee today and sponsors of the measure planned to ask for a special house rule tomorrow which will permit immediate consideration of the measure and possible passage before the end of the week.

Members of the senate bonus block meanwhile agreed to postpone any action in the upper body until the house has passed its bill. The senate will alter the house bill, according to predictions, and a compromise then will be worked out in conference between representatives of the two bodies.

Veto Overrider Seen.

All indications were that the bill would be sent to the White House within a few weeks. A presidential veto is probable but the concensus is that it will be overriden by a two thirds majority in both houses.

The bill provides immediate cash payment to those holders of adjusted service certificates who want their money, while those who continue to hold the certificates will receive 3 per cent interest until the maturity date in 1945. This 3 per cent interest will apply upon a principal which already includes 4 per cent compound interest accruing since 1925.

Cost Put at 2½ Billion.

The three veterans' organizations backing the bill assert that it will not cost more than one billion dollars, but this assertion has been termed fantastic by numerous financial experts, who place the cost of the measure at nearer two and one-half billions.

Other criticism has been directed at the fact that the bill contains no provision that the bonus payment shall be considered a full and complete satisfaction of all claims against the government.

12 BILLION IN U. S. AID PAID VETS SINCE 1790, SAYS REPORT BY HINES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Since 1790 the United States has disbused for pensions and compensation a total of $12,185,682,752.97.

Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, so advised a house appropriations sub-committee in a report of his appearance before the group, which was issued today.

Hines said pensions or compensations are now being paid to 857,429 veterans and their dependents of six wars in which United States troops have engaged. Of this total 601,750 are living veterans and 255,679 dependants.

Four dependents of the war of 1812 are still on the pension rolls. No veterans of the Mexican war are listed, but 282 of their dependents are receiving government funds.

BRITAIN ORDERS MUNITIONS MEN TO FACE INQUIRY

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Leading munitions makers of the British empire have been ordered to appear before a royal commission on the private manufacture of arms, reconvening today.

It was expected the commission immediately would question Gen. Sir Herbert Lawrence, chairman of both Vickers, Ltd., and Vickers-Armstrong, Ltd., and Sir Charles Craven, managing director of Vickers-Armstrong.

Sir Charles' name already has figured prominently in the munitions investigations at Washington. Publication of one letter which he was alleged to have written was one of the factors influencing the creation of a British commission to investigate British munitions affairs.

ROOSEVELT AIDS WAIT FOR HIM TO POINT A WAY OUT

He Refuses to Reveal Idea of Course.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Threatened with the invalidation by the Supreme court of additional New Deal institutions, President Roosevelt, surveying the wreck of his AAA and NRA, now faces the dilemma of going into his campaign for reëlection with a seriously discredited record as chief executive.

In addition to the fiasco of collectivistic regimentation schemes the budget for the next fiscal year he submitted to congress yesterday turns out to be fragmentary and illusory, without substantial promise of reduction of the colossal New Deal spendings or definite progress toward balancing outgo with income.

Future Course Uncertain.

The administration record up to date, therefore, is one of costly failures to "make America over," in Prof. Tugwell's phrase, and of fiscal confusion worse confounded. Thus inflation remains a grave danger.

How the President, with that cleverness and resourcefulness for which he is renowned, will proceed to recoup his political fortunes in this hour of disaster for his policy is the big question in official Washington. The New Dealers, stunned by the sweeping Supreme court opinion that wiped out the AAA yesterday, are still running around in circles and waiting for Mr. Roosevelt to get his bearings.

The President appears to be no less at sea than the members of his brain trust, with whom he collaborated on the New Deal experiments pronounced unconstitutional.

Call All Farm Leaders.

One definite action on the part of the administration was taken today. Farm leaders from every section of the United States were called by Secretary Wallace to meet in Washington Friday and Saturday to see what, if anything, can be devised in the way of an agricultural program to offset the Supreme court decision.

The call for the meeting was announced this afternoon following a conference of Secretary Wallace and Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, with farm organization representatives in Washington. More than seventy farm leaders had been invited tonight.

The AAA planners are understood to have an embryonic plan to submit to the farm leaders, revolving around the idea of a domestic allotment. The operation would be financed by excise taxes imposed upon the processing of basic agricultural commodities. Supplementary would be a state-operated system of scientific farm management over which the federal government would attempt no direct control.

Seek to Curb Production.

The objective would be, as in the invalidated act, to curtail the production of the principal farm commodities in the interest of higher pre-unit prices, but it would be accomplished principally through local action.

The President's conference with the press this afternoon brought out the largest attendance on record. His spacious office was literally jammed to the doors with reporters alert to learn what the head New Dealer contemplates doing to meet the crisis. But he was not ready to say. He was, he said, still studying the majority and minority opinions in the AAA case.

The President opened his press conference with the quip that there was no news, except that Charles Michaelson, chief propagandist for the Democratic national committee, who was sitting near him, needed a haircut. A newspaper man retorted there must be some evidence of economy in the party.

Bombardment Begins.

Then the President settled himself back in his chair and jutted out his jaw as though he had placed a figurative chip on his shoulder and waited for questions on the AAA decision. He had not long to wait. The first question was: "What is the policy of the administration as the result of the AAA decision?"

With a smile he answered there was no news today on that. The next question sought an explanation of the declaration in his annual message that congress has the right to protect its own prerogatives in connection with the constitutional challenges. He answered that his message spoke for itself.

The questioner persisted by asking whether the message advocated keeping lower courts from passing on constitutional questions. Mr. Roosevelt replied that that part of his message was a recommendation to congress and told his questioner to follow the language of the declaration.

The President was asked whether any farm legislation was possible under his reading of the court decision. He again replied there was no news on that today.

Asked if he would address the farm leaders summoned by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace to consider the AAA decision, he said not that he knew of.

Persistence Stings Him.

Another questioner returned to the President's message, pointing out that the declaration of prerogatives had been construed as making the constitution an issue in the campaign. Nettled by the question, the President sharply retorted that he couldn't comment on interpretations.

Another newspaper man persisted with "What do you think of the Supreme court decision?"

After a hearty general laugh to which the President contributed a slow smile, he said the only news was what was had yesterday.

All of the official family, he added, were studying the two opinions—a study which will require a good deal of time. He said he expected to recommend an appropriation to carry out in good faith—as a matter of obligation—1935 crop control contracts.

The President explained that only one type of contract, that for winter wheat, related to a 1936 crop. As he recalled, those contracts, he said, were based on 95 per cent of the basic acreage so that the benefit payments will be very small. The department of agriculture is working on the equity due such contracting farmers.

"Doesn't Know" About Taxes.

Asked if fulfilment of the moral obligation will require new taxes, Mr. Roosevelt said he didn't know. Asked what amount would be sought in the appropriation, he again said he didn't know.

Asked if congress had power to meet the moral obligation, he replied impatiently that this could be done without any question. Questioned as to procedure, he said an act of congress would be required to carry out the contracts entered into in good faith last year.

A question as to whether the AAA was to be disbanded met with the sharp answer that nothing had been determined. Asked if he anticipated continuing legislation, he answered impatiently that there was no news on that.

Returned to the question of the cost of winding up contracts, the President was told that estimates ranged upwards of 250 million dollars. Mr. Roosevelt said he believed the amount was comparatively small, adding that the corn-hog, wheat and cotton benefit checks were almost all out. He said he did not know what the amount will be.

Refunding Up in Air.

Asked if he were going to continue his study today and tomorrow, the President replied hastily that he would continue it right along. Asked if there would be any refunding of processing taxes of almost 1 billion dollars already collected, he said he hadn't got to that question yet. He added there were so many questions involved he would have to take them up one at a time.

The President was asked if his speech tomorrow night at the Jackson day dinner of Democratic party leaders would discuss the AAA decision. He said he hadn't thought of it. He revealed that he has not yet written the speech but hopes to have it ready tomorrow afternoon.

In the light of the New Deal catastrophes everybody is wondering what the President will have to say at the Jackson day dinner and to broadcast to hundreds of other such dinners throughout the country, which were planned to celebrate the legislative and administrative triumphs of the Democratic party.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt is waiting to hear from Felix Frankfurter, Ray Moley, and other advisers, or to gauge public reaction to the Supreme court decision, is a subject of much conjecture. At his first press conference following the decision that wiped out the NRA the President said that the real comment would come from business, which he expected to be plunged into chaos. Business, however, leaped forward. The economic reaction to the AAA decision today was a fall of cotton, but a rise of hog prices.

Change Only Way Out.

The Supreme court's decisions in the NRA and AAA cases deepen the impression that the New Deal project of ordering of all activities of business and agriculture by a federal bureaucracy can be accomplished only by a radical change in our form of government. The logical move of the President would be the proposal of an amendment to the constitution conferring such powers upon the central government. With a two-thirds Democratic majority in both houses of congress, Mr. Roosevelt theoretically possesses the power to put through a resolution submitting such an amendment.

But recent events have indicated he has little stomach for such a move, though at the press conference in which he made his famous "horse and buggy" comment on the NRA decision he intimated that he was considering the clothing of the federal government with power over intrastate business by constitutional amendment or otherwise. Nobody could discover what he meant by "otherwise," unless it were some scheme to curb the Supreme court's power to invalidate New Deal legislation.

Own Party Opposed.

He has been silent on the question ever since. His own party evinced so much opposition to the suggestion that Mr. Roosevelt could not with certainty expect to get a constitutional amendment through congress. The Republicans are hoping and praying that he will raise the constitutional issue in the presidential campaign.

Senator Edward P. Costigan [Dem., Colo.] said that the sweeping character of the AAA decision indicates a constitutional amendment necessary to validate the New Deal. He has such an amendment pending.

Senator John H. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.] admitted that the Bankhead compulsory cotton control is doomed and other Democratic senators conceded that the TVA, the Guffey coal control, and the Wagner labor disputes acts are placed in jeopardy by the Supreme court's construction of the constitution. Senator James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.], a leading New Dealer, predicted that the court would kill the social security legislation.

In the District of Columbia Supreme court today 135 railroads joined in a suit contesting the constitutionality of the 1935 railroad pension act.

DIRECTOR OF BUDGET ORDERS GAG FOR U. S. BUREAU HEADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—A gag order prohibiting governmental department and bureau heads from discussing pending or proposed legislation has been issued by Daniel W. Bell, the President's budget director, it was disclosed today.

The censorship lid was clamped on until the policy of the President, the budget bureau, or the National Emergency council is asked and ascertained.

The order was a broadening of former administrative edicts enjoining federal officials from asking congress for appropriation items not adopted by the budget bureau as being not in accord "with the financial policy of the President."

Dispatched to the governmental units in circular form, Bell's order was dated Dec. 21, 1935.

SALARIES ABOVE $15,000 PAID IN U. S. ARE BARED

Congress Releases Data from 8,000 Firms.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The natural curiosity of man to know how much money the other fellow makes was partly satisfied today with the congressional disclosure of salaries paid all corporation employés in the country receiving $15,000 or more a year.

Such twelve month pay checks as $500,000 for William Randolph Hearst, $265,000 for Arthur Brisbane of the New York Journal, and $339,166.65 for Mae West were sprinkled among the 1934 salary lists made public by the house ways and means committee.

Charles M. Schwab's salary was listed at $250,000. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt received $16,000 from the Crowell Publishing company as contributing editor.

Submitted by the treasury, as required by the 1934 revenue act, the figures covered some 8,000 corporations, involving more than 18,000 pay checks.

Kresge Gets $107,000.

Small sums add up, one proof of which was that S. S. Kresge, chairman of the board of the S. S. Kresge company, received $107,000. Another proof that nickels run into money was shown in some of the salaries Mr. Kresge paid, among them $106,365 to C. B. Van Dusen, president, and $107,000 each to C. B. Tuttle, treasurer, and R. R. Williams, vice president.

Edsel Ford, president of the motor company and generally regarded as one of the nation's wealthiest men, was listed for only $90,036. P. E. Martin, a Ford vice president, received $107,341, and Charles E. Sorensen, general superintendent, $103,435.

John Francis Nylan, counsel for the Hearst newspaper and magazine properties, received $88,000. Merrill Goddard, editor of Hearst's American Weekly, received $161,222.

Walter Winchell's Salary.

Walter Winchell, columnist for the New York Daily Mirror, received $52,000; the president of the Mirror, Albert J. Kobler, $80,000. J. W. Connally, general manager King Features syndicate, $52,000.

The Silhouette Hat Section Has Been Enlarged

Silhouette hats, you know, are the finer tailored felts in men's graduated headsizes. In white and pastels, they are stunning for southern wear. They now occupy an entire room with four times the space they formerly had. Dobbs hats, sold exclusively at Carson's in Chicago, have been allotted a complete section all to themselves in this room because of their growing importance in fashion. Featured here are two new Dobbs designs—

They're the DOBBS for Cruise and Resort Wear

It's the Dobbs Miamian

Again the Dobbs Miamian for 1936 steals the advance-season show — this time with winged tucks, like speeding arrows, whipped into its crown! They exaggerate the freedom and grace of its curved brim; make Miamian one of the most significant hats you'll see. All colors. Graduated headsizes. $7.50.

It's the Dobbs Five Hundred

You can always count on the Dobbs Five Hundred for introducing ideas nobody else ever thought of! This year it's the Norfolk pleated crown—and a jewel-bright feather that's needle-sharp and curved like a scimitar. Pastel, bright and dark shades. Graduated headsizes.

SHIPPERS FIGHT NEWEST PLAN TO CONTROL RIVER

Proposal for Single Gates Draws Protests.

The sanitary district's new proposal to build flood control works at the mouth of the Chicago river brought forth vigorous objections from shipping concerns and other organizations interested in river trafic at a public hearing yesterday in the new postoffice building. The hearing was conducted by Capt. S. N. Karrick, acting war department engineer for the Chicago district.

The river mouth project is a substitute for a proposal made in November to build control works just east of the Michigan avenue bridge. This plan, however, was abandoned because of objections.

The new proposal provides for building a single set of gates about 1,250 feet east of the new outer drive bridge which is now under construction. Retaining walls also would be built to form a basin at the mouth of the river.

Fear Pollution of Lake.

The purpose of the measure is to prevent reversal of the current of the Chicago river. In flood times this would cause pollution of the lake water when the sanitary district is compelled to reduce the diversion of water from the lake to 1,500 cubic feet a second. This will occur at the end of 1938, as ordered by the United States Supreme court.

Practically all parties heard yesterday entered uncompromising opposition to the construction of a single set of gates, as this type of works would necessitate closing the river to trafic during flood times.

They insisted that any obstruction of trafic was unwarranted and could be eliminated by the construction of two sets of gates to form a lock through which vessels could pass, regardless of river level. Location of the control works 600 to 800 feet farther east than now proposed was advocated also in order to form a larger basin at the mouth of the river. The basin specified in the sanitary district plan, it was maintained, would be too small to permit proper maneuvering of large boats in passing through the gates.

Many Objections Posted.

More than 40 concerns and organizations entered objections, including the Illinois Manufacturers association, the Chicago plan commission, Chicago regional port commission, Ohio Oil company, North Pier Terminal, D. Sullivan & Co., Morton Salt company, Canada Atlantic Transit company, Anchor Storage company, Chicago Board of Trade, Illinois Central railroad, Lake Carriers association, Consumers company, and the Mississippi Valley association.

Ald. William A. Rowan [10th], chairman of the city committee on harbors, wharves and bridges, stated that the city favored control works, but added that no financial assistance could be expected from the city, which, he added, renounced any liability for damage to property along the river which might result from the project.

Sets Cost at $1,600,000.

Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary district, declared that the district should not be required to pay more than the cost of a single set of gates and retaining walls. He placed the cost of the present proposal at $1,600,000, whereas approximately $3,000,000 would be required to construct a complete lock and a larger basin.

The district's proposal has been taken under advisement by Capt. Karrick, who will forward his recommendation and record of the hearing to the war department at Washington for final decision as to whether a permit will be issued.

COAST CONGRESSMAN CONVICTED AS DRUNK DEMANDS NEW TRIAL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Representative Marion A. Zioncheck, Seattle, Wash., Democrat, today sought a new trial after a police court convicted him on a charge of being drunk and disorderly.

CONGRESSMAN ZIONCHECK.

Zioncheck said he would carry the case to the District Supreme court on appeal if his request for a new trial was denied by Judge Walter J. Casey, who convicted him after listening to testimony of several police officers, a Negro apartment house switchboard operator and the representative himself.

He remained at liberty on $15 bail pending his appeal for new trial.

Four police officers testified Zioncheck was drunk when arrested. The switchboard operator told the court that the representative plugged in the apartment house switchboard and rang all the telephones in the house.

Although the representative testified that he identified himself as a member of congress, all four officers said they did not know of his position until some time after he was placed in a cell.

FREE HUMPHREYS FROM FEDERAL PRISON TODAY

Murray Humphreys, former gang leader, who succeeded Al Capone as Public Enemy No. 1 in Chicago, will be released today from the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kas., where he has served most of an eighteen months' sentence for income tax evasion.

Humphreys began his sentence on Oct. 27, 1934, and by good behavior earned a reduction of 108 days in his sentence. Until next April 26, however, Humphreys must report periodically to Walter J. Urich, chief probation officer for the federal district court here, since his release now is merely conditional upon his good behavior.

After being a fugitive for eighteen months Humphreys gave up in 1934, pleaded guilty of evading $23,190 income taxes for 1930, 1931, and 1932, and was immediately sentenced and fined $5,000 by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. Edward J. Hess, Humphreys' attorney, said yesterday that he had received no word concerning his client's future plans.

Club Paramount Ordered Closed by Mayor Kelly

The Club Paramount, 16 East Huron street, which was raided New Year's eve after police had discovered gambling there, was ordered closed yesterday by Mayor Kelly on the recommendation of Police Commissioner Allman. Henry Goldstone, 415 Aldine avenue, who said he was the owner of the club, and John Drew, 19 East Ohio street, who was dealing blackjack, were arrested by the raiders on charges of possessing and operating gambling equipment. They were freed Jan. 4 in the Chicago avenue court when a motion to suppress the evidence was sustained on the ground that the police did not have a search warant.

WPA Worker Stabs Project Official and Makes Escape

Clarence Bean, 33 years old, 10135 Green Bay avenue, assistant superintendent of a WPA project at 56th street and Kilbourn avenue, was stabbed yesterday by a colored WPA employé following a quarrel over working hours. The colored man escaped. Bean's wound was not serious and he was allowed to go to his home after treatment.

HOPKINS ORDERS FASTER PAY FOR WPA EMPLOYES

Cuts in Overhead and Red Tape Also Demanded.

Several changes in the Works Progress administration have been ordered by Harry Hopkins, national head of the WPA, it was learned here yesterday. Within the next few weeks the Illinois organization is to undergo alterations to increase efficiency and reduce overhead costs.

WPA administrative expense in Illinois is estimated at more than $350,000 for January, with a staf of nearly 2,000 persons.

Because of complaints about the slowness of the pay roll system, Hopkins ordered that checks be delivered to workers on projects within three days after the close of each two week pay roll period. At present there is a lapse of seven days.

To comply with the new order the United States treasury accounts office attached to WPA is to be decentralized, with branches to be established in each of five downstate WPA districts as well as in Chicago. This will eliminate the need for mailing pay rolls to Chicago and awaiting return of the checks. Two shifts of office workers, and perhaps three, will be maintained in each branch.

Timekeepers on the 2,000 WPA projects in the state will be transferred from the planning and projects division to the department of finance and statistics in the Illinois organization.

The personnel department, which has grown into an elaborate inner organization employing close to 200 persons, is to be abolished as such. More than one WPA official has been heard to charge this department with interposing needless "red tape" in the way of progress.

An allocation of $500,000, increasing the total received to about $62,000,000, was received from Washington yesterday. With $12,000,000 contributed by governmental units sponsoring WPA projects, the program can be carried to about mid-March instead of to June 30, as was the first announced intention of Hopkins.

The uncertainty as to whether the program will then collapse for lack of funds has already resulted in the abandoning of a number of projects, it was learned.

"Why doesn't Hopkins or the President tell us whether we are going to receive more money than the $62,000,000?" said one official. "Their silence on this is causing havoc in our program.

"For example, of forty public swimming pools that were to be built by WPA labor, only two are being constructed, and they are in Chicago, where the sponsoring agencies have sufficient funds to complete them even if the program dies in March."

CANNON HEIRESS COURTSHIP TOLD BY EX-HUSBAND

Charlotte, N. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—F. Brandon Smith Jr., young real estate operator, told a Mecklenburgh county Superior court jury today that he courted the heiress, Anne Cannon, before her marriage to Smith Reynolds of the Winston-Salem tobacco family, and that he saw her frequently before she divorced young Reynolds.

Smith was the first witness in the second trial of his $250,000 alienation of affections suit against Anne's father, Joseph A. Cannon, Concord millionaire. Last year a jury awarded him $125,000 damages, but Judge W. F. Harding set the verdict aside.

The realtor married Anne after she divorced Reynolds in November, 1931. She divorced Smith two years ago in Arkansas, charging cruelty. Smith contends their love was broken down by her wealthy father's refusal to allow her to have custody of her daughter unless she came to his home to live.

Smith told the jury that he and Anne were sweethearts before her first marriage and that when she told him she loved him he believed her.

Smith testified he saw Anne several times each month during the two years he was at Darlington college and continued his attentions until the summer before she married young Reynolds in November, 1929.

Prior to her divorce from Reynolds, Smith saw her frequently, he said, and renewed his ardent courtship soon after her return from Reno.

Ickes Flies at Night to Reach Porto Rico Dinner

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Jan. 7.—To keep to his schedule on a hurried Caribbean trip, Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, flew tonight over the highest mountains in the Caribbean area in Hispaniola to arrive here for a dinner scheduled for 7:30 o'clock and delayed until 11 by Gov. Blanton Winship.

300 MINNEAPOLIS BUSINESS HEADS HIT ARMED RULE

Law and Order Fails, Is Their Charge.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Three hundred Minneapolis business men gathered here today and declared that "law and order does not exist in this city." They passed resolutions asserting that "forces of government supported by the taxpayers are being used, not to maintain order and decency, but to oppress law-abiding citizens who want only the right to work and to operate lawful business without unlawful interference."

They were referring to the contrast between the laxity of police and other law enforcing agencies in dealing with racketeers, gunmen, and hoodlums, and the dispatch and severity of Gov. Floyd B. Olson and Mayor Thomas Latimer, both elected by the Farmer-Labor party, in closing legitimate business concerns with troops when labor difficulties arise. In particular those attending the massmeeting were protesting against the enforced shutdown of the Strutwear Knitting mills here.

Closed Since Guard Action.

This plant has been closed since Dec. 27, when National Guard companies were sent there by Gov. Olson on the assertion of Mayor Latimer and Sherif John Wall of Hennepin county, that they were needed to prevent violence. Since the guardsmen have been encamped at the plant, however, they have prevented the 1,100 employés of the factory from returning to work and a state of siege in which none of the plant machinery may be operated by its owners and no goods may be taken into or removed from the plant has existed.

The massmeeting was called as an aftermath of the decision by Minneapolis citizens that conditions in the fields of crime, politics, and labor must be cleaned up. The decision was reached apparently over the weekend following the report by the Hennepin county grand jury that the city is in danger of being dominated by organized hoodlums and racketeers. It was this jury which investigated the murder last Dec. 9 of Walter Liggett, publisher of a weekly newspaper, who had been waging a lone hand battle against conditions.

Vote to Back Reopening.

After voicing their disapproval of the tactics of Gov. Olson and Mayor Latimer the business men voted to support any attempts the Strutwear officials may make to reopen their plant under the protection of the courts. A citizens' committee has been working to reopen the factory since it was closed and, according to reports circulated at the massmeeting, this group is about to back litigation in the federal courts to bring an end to the deadlock.

Immediately after this vote a third resolution placed the group on record as "unalterably opposed to the principle and practice of public officials utilizing either police or militia to deprive citizens of their constitutional right to work or to operate a lawful business, and that we take every lawful method of protecting this right."

MISS MENDELSON BECOMES BRIDE OF M. GOLDBLATT

Maurice Goldblatt, 42 years old, of 3314 Lake Shore drive, president of the Goldblatt Brothers department stores, yesterday married Miss Berenice Mendelson, daughter of Nathan Mendelson, 231 South Central avenue. The bride is a former stenographer in the office of the stores. The marriage license record gave her age as 22.

Mr. Goldblatt's office secretary, who made the announcement, refused to say where the marriage was performed, but at the Mendelson home it was said the ceremony took place in the home of Nathan Goldblatt, a brother, at 3400 Lake Shore drive. The couple departed later in the day for a honeymoon in Honolulu.

Mr. Goldblatt was awarded an uncontested divorce in the Superior court last June 27 from his wife, Sylvia, 38 years old. By the terms of the decree the parents were to share the custody of their two children, Noel, 9 years old, and Gloria, 4 years old, each having both of them part of the time.

Shoots Egyptian; British Officer Attacked by Mob

PARIS, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A Cairo dispatch to the newspaper Paris Soir said today a British officer narrowly escaped lynching after he had shot an Egyptian workman in the city. The incident led to new anti-British demonstrations, the paper said.

SAVAGE IS LOSER OF 1ST ROUND IN KLARKOWSKI SUIT

Demurrer to Slander Charge Upheld.

A judge cannot be sued for remarks made on the bench, Superior Judge Donald S. McKinlay ruled yesterday in sustaining a demurrer to the $100,000 slander suit brought against Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski by Attorney Joseph P. Savage. He gave Savage's counsel 20 days in which to file an amended complaint in the case.

Savage's suit against Judge Klarkowski is an outgrowth of Savage's dispute with his former law partner, Robert E. Crowe, over the assets of their dissolved partnership. Crowe filed a suit against Savage for an accounting of assets and evidence in this matter is being heard by Master in Chancery Samuel Epstein.

Background of the Case.

The accounting suit first came before Judge Klarkowski. Savage asked that it be transfered to another court, contending that he would not receive a fair trial. Judge Klarkowski at first refused to grant the change of venue, but eventually sent the case back to the Circuit court's executive committee. It was then assigned to Judge John Caverly, who directed Master Epstein to hear the evidence.

In sending the accounting suit to the executive committee Judge Klarkowski made a statement which Savage charged was slanderous and the attorney made this the basis of his $100,000 suit against the judge.

According to Savage's suit, Judge Klarkowski declared that Savage "has so demeaned himself in these proceedings as to demonstrate he is utterly lacking in character, decency, and conscience; that there are no depths so low to which he will not descend to gain what he thinks may be an advantage."

Judge McKinlay's Ruling.

In sustaining the demurrer filed by Judge Klarkowski's lawyer, Floyd E. Thompson, Judge McKinlay said yesterday:

"The remarks complained of were privileged and no action can lie against the defendant [Judge Klarkowski] on account of them. This ruling is, of course, based on the assumption that the remarks were made only while defendant was presiding in his courtroom. His affidavit in that regard has not been answered.

"However, counsel for plaintif [Savage] has asserted in argument that part of the publication complained of took place in other than a court proceeding. [The contention of Savage's counsel is that Judge Klarkowski's statement was given out in chambers and not from the bench.] For that reason, plaintif will be given 20 days to file an amended complaint which must specifically show when and where the defamation occurred, so as not to conflict with the rulings herein made."

JACKSON NOTE TO SON WARNS AGAINST DEBT

Injury and Insult Held Likely Result.

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Andrew Jackson was no believer in extravagance and thought that one should live always within his means, according to a letter which he wrote while president to his son Andrew Jackson Jr. The letter has come into the possession of the Rosenbach company of New York and Philadelphia and was given out for publication today in anticipation of the Jackson day dinner in Washington tonight.

As a matter of practical business, Old Hickory warned his son never to go into debt, for, he said, "a man indebted is a slave, & placed under circumstances with his creditors that may subject his feelings to injury & insult."

"Live Within Means."

"Therefore I wish you to live the life of a free man. Which you can always do, by living always within your real means—our real wants are few. Our ideal wants many—to procure the latter never to [go] in debt."

Jackson evidently had learned financial caution from unfortunate experience, to judge by another passage of the letter. "Twice," he wrote, "I have been ruined by securityship—therefore I would guard you against indorsing in bank for any one, or becoming security for any one—if your friend is in distress, and you have the means, loan or give to him what you can spare of either money or goods—if he is unable to return it, it never can distress you—widely difference when you become security—in the first case you part with what you have to spare, and remain free from debt—but where you enter into security you never expect to pay the debt or to be called on for it, and make no provision to meet it.

Tells Terrors of Debtor.

"Suit is brought & your property is sold by the sheriff to raise it—and always at sheriff's sale sold for much less than its value. When I say to you give your property to relieve a friend, but steer clear of securityship."

Detailed proceedings for running Jackson's Tennessee home, The Hermitage, were included in the letter. Jackson ordered that the cotton be "housed, ginned & balled & sent to market as early as possible . . . unless you can get for it fifteen cents pr pound at our landing and then sell at home."

The letter is dated Sept. 24, 1833.

KILLED BY AUTO FUMES.

Howard E. Wilson Jr., 21 years old, 2339 West 112th street, was killed by carbon monoxide fumes from his automobile yesterday while warming up the motor in a closed garage behind his home.

CHARGES FARLEY SOLICITED FUNDS OF U. S. WORKERS

Liberty League Cites Party Dinner.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Evidence to support a charge that Postmaster General Farley, as chairman of the Democratic national committee, personally solicited political contributions from federal employés in violation of the criminal code was presented today by the American Liberty league.

Some time ago the league pointed out that Farley, as a federal officer, was barred by the criminal code from, "directly or indirectly," soliciting, receiving, or being in any manner concerned in soliciting or receiving any "assessment, subscription, or contribution for any political purpose whatever from any other such officer, employé, or person."

The league added that invitations to the Jackson day dinner tomorrow night had been sent by Farley's national committee to other federal officers and employés with the accompanying explanation that the $50 per plate charge included a $45 contribution to the committee.

Phone Address Told.

"Evidence is now available that Mr. Farley personally did solicit such contributions from at least five federal employés," the league said today.

On the night of Dec. 7 Farley addressed the state presidents of the Young Democratic Clubs of America over a nation-wide telephone circuit, the league stated. Each state president answered "Here!" as the name of his state was called.

Then, Farley spoke to them and included the following remarks:

"In order that every Jackson day participant may feel that he or she is indeed being of material assistance to the Democratic party, the price of your dinners should be worked out on a basis which will permit forwarding a part of what every diner pays to the Democratic national committee."

Five Included in Call.

Included among the state presidents who answered "Here" to the roll call were the following men, who all hold federal jobs:

A. J. Zirpoli, San Francisco, Cal., assistant United States attorney for the northern district of California.

Charles F. Brannan, Denver, Colo., an employé of the federal resettlement bureau.

Donald Martha, Fargo, N. D., assistant United States attorney for North Dakota.

Albin P. Lassiter, Monroe, La., works progress administrator for the Fifth congressional district of Louisiana.

Patrick Cooney, Madison, Wis., employed in the bureau of the mint, treasury department.

Tacoma, Wash, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Fire following an explosion today destroyed the Waterside Milling plant of the Balfour-Guthrie company, with a loss estimated at $250,000. Gay Kaseler, 35, was seriously burned.

URGES FURNITURE MEN TO ABANDON ANTIQUE STYLES

New Types at Right Price Called Trade Key.

"Antiques" were put under fire yesterday as 15,000 furniture buyers, manufacturers, and guests assembled in the American Furniture Mart, 666 Lake Shore drive, and at the Merchandise Mart for the semi-annual furniture show.

Kem Weber, Los Angeles furniture designer, declared that with the exception of a few "die-hards" in the industry no one believes that there is either profit or progress in the reproduction of antiques. They have lost their authentic value by reproduction and handmade things cannot be copied by machine and retain their charm and character, he said.

Urges "a Bit of Fresh Air."

"What we want," said Mr. Weber, who addressed the semi-annual meeting of the American Furniture Designers' institute in the American Furniture Mart, "is new furniture. If we can build one good chair for the right price, then the rest of the equipment will sell itself because of the bit of 'fresh air' we have introduced.

"It is utterly wrong to believe that we must make our new furniture to live up to the old. It is up to the old stuff to try to live up to what we bring forth in new furniture."

"Simplicity Always Beautiful."

Modern furniture was defended by Charles Messer Stow, interior decoration editor of the New York Sun, who said it was beautiful "because simplicity is always beautiful, whether it be in human character or in the lines of a chair."

Ross Crane, interior decoration authority, is conducting a laboratory clinic on furniture and interiors at the Merchandise Mart.

Meanwhile six floors of the Stevens hotel are occupied by the ninth annual National House Furnishings exhibit, sponsored by the National House Furnishings Manufacturers' association.

DEMOCRATS HERE TO GIVE JACKSON DINNER TONIGHT

Democrats of Chicago and Illinois are to hold their Jackson Day banquet tonight at the Drake hotel. Part of the proceeds of the dinner at $25 a plate are to be forwarded to the Democratic national committee. A large attendance is expected.

While Mayor Kelly is to attend the Chicago dinner, Pat A. Nash, organization chairman, is to be present at the Jackson Day dinner in Washington. Tickets to this affair are $50, the bulk of which is to go to the national committee.

The Young Democrats of Cook county also will give a Jackson Day party tonight—a dance at the Morrison hotel.

JAFSIE TELLS ALL!
HERE FOR THE FIRST TIME CONDON ANSWERS HAUPTMANN—PRODUCES NEW EVIDENCE AND GIVES HIS HIDDEN KEY TO THE MYSTERY

"MY OWN STORY"
by JAFSIE... DR. JOHN F. CONDON

Liberty now scoops the world with one of the most sensational stories of all time . . . Jafsie's own story, told in the words of the one man who holds the key to the entire Lindbergh kidnapping mystery. In it, Jafsie reveals facts never before printed, evidence that did not come out at the trial. Jafsie has dared to open up and tell all!

The Lindbergh case produced some strange characters . . . but none so mysterious, so full of human interest as the 72-year old Bronx school teacher whose testimony doomed Bruno Richard Hauptmann to the electric chair.

Millions of people are asking themselves: Is Hauptmann guilty or innocent? Did he have an accomplice? Is Condon really as eccentric as he has been painted?

Jafsie's story is one of the oddest, most gripping revelations you've ever read. Don't miss it . . . you'll laugh, you'll thrill, your blood will chill at this amazing disclosure by this strange old man. In this week's issue of Liberty. Out today.

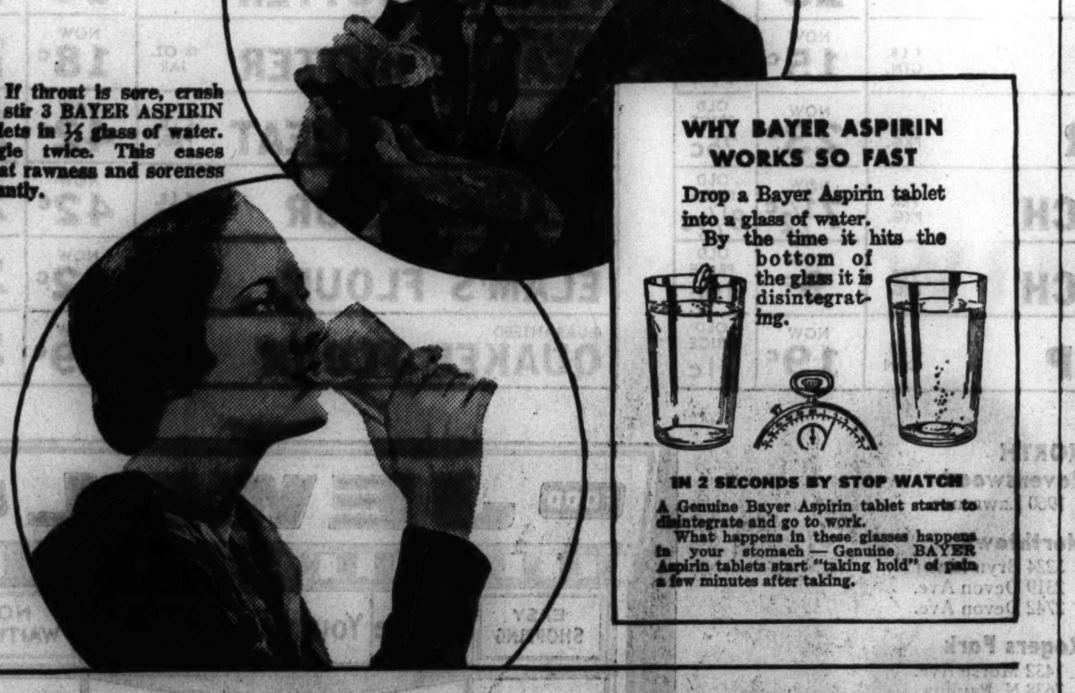
Instantly You Catch Cold

Do These 2 Things

For Fast Relief, Remember These Pictures



1. Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN Tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN Tablets in ⅓ glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness and soreness instantly.

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a glass of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH

A Genuine Bayer Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach — Genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

Two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a full glass of water.

Three Bayer Aspirin tablets, crushed and dissolved in ⅓ glass of water as a gargle. Gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back to permit this medicated gargle to reach the irritated membranes of the throat.

Your doctor will approve this treatment as perhaps the quickest, simplest way known to fight cold and sore throat.

The Bayer Aspirin taken internally will combat a cold almost instantly, and ease the usual pains that accompany one. The gargle will ease sore throat in a few minutes. For it acts like a local anesthetic in relieving pain and rawness.

When you buy, though, see that you get real BAYER ASPIRIN tablets. For they dissolve almost instantly in the stomach and thus start working almost instantly. And they dissolve completely enough to use as a gargle. Watch out for this.

JAPS PROTEST NEW 'INSULT' TO IMPERIAL ARMY

Chinese Fire on Officers at Peiping Gate.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, China, Jan. 7.—Japanese officers, alleging "an insult to our imperial army," today protested the firing of several shots by Chinese guards at a motor car loaded with Japanese officers at Peiping's east gate yesterday. The officers were returning from Tungchow, which they had visited to confer with officials of Yin Ju-keng's independent "government" of East Hopei province within the demilitarized zone.

The Japanese found the gate closed after 11 p. m. The Chinese guards refused to open it without a written order from their superior officer, whereupon, the Chinese alleged, the Japanese opened fire, to which the Chinese replied. However, there were no casualties and ultimately the Japanese were permitted to enter. Their protest was submitted to the new Hopei-Chahar autonomous council in Peiping.

Chinese-Japanese animosities also flared at Tientsin when a detachment of sixty Japanese troops seized the Peiping-Mukden railway station, removed the Chinese flag and substituted a Japanese flag. Japanese troops patroled Tangku, the port of entrance to Tientsin, all of yesterday and today.

Military Has Free Hand.

The action is supposed to have been in retaliation for the alleged looting by Chinese soldiers of two Japanese shops on the night of Jan. 4 when the Japanese flag was torn and trampled. The Japanese previously warned that unless the Chinese controled unruly troops they would undertake their own policing.

It was stated that Tokio has given military authorities here a free hand to settle issues "on the spot." Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, chairman of the Hopei-Chahar council, accompanied by a large staf, went to Paoting today to assume office as chairman of the Hopei provincial government.

This is his third important office recently, the other two being chairman of the Hopei-Chahar council and garrison commander of the Peiping-Tientsin area.

The Chinese yesterday executed three so-called political offenders, aged 50, 27, and 24 respectively. It was alleged they were "plotting against constituted authority."

Take Over Chahar.

KALGAN, Chahar Province, China, Jan. 7.—(AP)—An invading Manchukuan army, with most of northern Chahar under control, is busily installing a Manchukuan administration. The Japanese advised invaders proclaimed that taxes from now on are payable to Manchukuo. Manchukuan authorities also were taking over postoffices and other vestiges of the old Chinese administration.

Dispatches from Kweihwa, Suiyuan province, said a wave of uneasiness was spreading through that capital with Chinese reports of imminent civil war in Inner Mongolia. A clash was reported between Fu Tso-yi, governor of Suiyuan, and the Mongolian prince, Teh Wang, chieftain of the allegedly Japanese influenced "Mongolian Autonomy league."

Chinese reports said the governor was rushing armed forces westward along the Peiping-Suiyuan railroad, gathering materials to be used in fighting the Mongol army of Teh Wang, which was reported concentrating in the northern part of the province.

GIVE COLONIES TO NAZIS, BRITISH BANKER URGES

YORK, England, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Viscount Downe, industrialist and banker, urged the British government tonight to return to Germany colonies taken from her after the world war.

He said at the annual meeting of the York County Savings bank:

"Surely we have learned the lesson from war that we cannot with impunity upset the economic structure of the world and get away with it. I wish our government would have the courage to return to Germany colonies taken from her after the war."

Claims Tablet of 4000 B. C. Tells More About the Flood

LENINGRAD, U. S. R. R., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Russian expert I. Ravrevy announced today he had succeeded in deciphering a 5,000 year old tablet casting new light on many Biblical events, particularly the flood. The tablet was discovered in Syria in 1930 by a French expedition and was inscribed in a language heretofore impossible to decipher.

Russian Youth Is Urged to Spread Communism by War

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 7.—The usually efficient Bolshevik censorship has slipped again, it was learned today, on the eve of the league of nations inquiry into the Russian complaint against Uruguay for abruptly breaking diplomatic relations.

The Moscow Pravda published a speech of A. V. Kosariev, leader of the communist youth movement, in which he informed the congress of Kolhoz workers in Moscow that the youth of Russia is looking forward to serving under the leadership of Dictator Stalin and under the command of Marshal K. E. Voroshilov in the Red army. He said the army would shortly be involved in battles to spread the doctrins of bolshevism throughout the world.

Must Spread Doctrins by Arms.

The older generation Bolsheviks, according to Kosariev, succeeded in organizing bolshevism in Russia, but he asserted the youth of Russia is faced with the historical problem of spreading the doctrins abroad, not through merely singing songs, but through learning the technique of modern warfare. They must prepare to decide the fate of communism throughout the world, he said.

Pravda reported that the orator was interrupted frequently by stormy applause and that Commissars Stalin, Voroshilov, V. M. Molotov, president of the union council of people's commissars; L. M. Kaganovitch, commissar of communications, and others seated on the platform acknowledged ovations.

Gives Uruguay New Evidence.

Kosariev's speech was not unusual, but the fact that Pravda published the text verbatim before the league investigation provides Uruguay another piece of piquant evidence against Moscow.

The countries bordering on Russia are intensely interested in the outcome of the complaint to the league. The Polish, Lithuanian, Estonian, and Finnish governments are ready to supply evidence, should Uruguay require additional documentary material support for her claim, that the officials representing the soviet government also act as representatives of the communist internationale.

Probe Brazilian Red Plot.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Jan. 7.—Brazilian police today probed further into the radical activities of Harry Berger and Machla Leucsky Berger, identified as his wife. The couple was arrested, it was announced, on Dec. 26 as leaders in a communist plot to take over the Brazilian government.

The couple, who were in possession of apparently authentic United States passports, were known here for their wide acquaintances, their hospitality and refinements.

Capt. Miranda Correa, police chief, declared that documents "with grave bearing on the relations of the United States and soviet Russia" would be turned over to Washington soon.

It was revealed that Brazilian and United States officials have been in unofficial contact for more than a week on the subject of Berger's citizenship.

NEWFOUNDLAND BOY GONE MONTH; FEAR FOUL PLAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, Jan. 7.—Developments in the mysterious disappearance Dec. 9 of Peter Walsh, 9 years old, today led to the suspicion that the boy was killed by an auto and the body was hidden by the driver.

The lad left home at Bay Roberts, Dec. 9, bound for a grazing field to drive cattle home. Twenty minutes later he was seen on the road, and that was the last.

Last Sunday 600 men combed the vicinity of his disappearance including five miles of the shore.

5 DIE IN GENERAL STRIKE CLASHES IN BUENOS AIRES

Rioters Burn Street Cars, Buses; Many Injured.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A day of strike violence here in which five persons were killed and many injured caused President Agustin P. Justo of Argentina to hurry tonight to the capital by airplane from Cordoba.

Federal troops aided police in keeping order. The violence resulted from an attempted general strike and Justo hoped his presence here would have a quieting effect on the situation.

All available police were moved into the suburbs and a detachment of troops from the federal arsenal was sent to the central police station.

Burn Buses, Wagons, Street Cars.

Rioters in the streets and highways, a survey showed tonight, burned 12 buses, three milk wagons, five street cars, several railway cars, three city garbage wagons, and four food carts.

They also removed some of the rails of the Central Buenos Aires and Pacific railway lines.

As one of the persons injured in the day's fighting died tonight, the death toll reached five. Three policemen were shot to death in the suburb of Villa Urquiza in a clash with rioters who attempted to halt trains and buses. An army conscript was fatally injured when he was struck on the head with a stone while riding on a street car.

Business in Suburbs Stops.

In the suburbs of Moron, Liniers, and De Voto all commerce was stopped throughout the day.

Police broke up one manifestation by using tear gas bombs. Late today they said the situation was entirely calm. Authorities emphasized that the disturbances in the suburban districts of Buenos Aires did not extend to the center of the city.

Strikers, a policeman, and a bus conductor were among those wounded during the day's riots.

Independent bus drivers joined in the call for a twenty-four hour general strike in sympathy with 20,000 stone masons who walked out three months ago. When employés of the large British owned street car and bus lines refused to leave their posts they were attacked by the independent strikers.

Many arrests were made as authorities sought to put down the violence. Headquarters of the stone masons' union was closed by police. Permits previously granted for various labor meetings were withdrawn to prevent further fighting.

Despite the call for a general strike, most business activity remained normal. Some construction, textile, and shoe factory workers joined the walkout.

EACH OF DIONNE QUINTS HOLDS A $24,000 STAKE IN GAINING TRUST FUND

CALLANDER, Ont., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Each of the Dionne quintuplets now is worth $24,000 in her own right, their guardians announced today.

Between them, the little sisters have $120,000 in government bonds in a trust fund. The money has been accumulated since the Ontario government took charge of their affairs a year ago. The sisters now are 19 months old. If they live to be three years of age they will have about $300,000 under present contracts. Then, officials explained, the interest from the fund alone will support them.

About $35,000 has been spent for the quintuplets in the last year, including approximately $1,000 monthly in operating costs at their model hospital home. The babies' fortune is being built up by income from motion picture contracts and from royalties on postcards, calendars, coats, bonnets, and dolls.

DELEGATES GET PLAN TO REVEAL NAVAL SECRETS

Study Proposals to Trade Data on Warships.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 7.—The British, French, and Italian proposals for establishing what would amount to a clearing house for information on the five leading navies of the world were issued to the delegates to the naval conference today and will be discussed at tomorrow's committee meeting.

The effect of these plans would be to eliminate secrecy in naval construction. Each power would be obliged to give early information to co-signatories about every new war vessel laid down. Tonnage, speed, armament, and many other details of fighting power hitherto regarded as highly confidential would have to be revealed.

These proposals go far beyond similar clauses in existing treaties, and it is foreseen here that they may not appeal to certain powers with particular naval secrets to guard.

Britain O. K.'s Plan.

On the other hand, the British admiralty, which has a vast store of technical knowledge based on wartime experience, declared itself ready to impart such "secrets" on a reciprocal basis.

While these proposals are not unimportant, the conference has made no headway toward a new limitation agreement. The chief cause of delay, it is said, is Japan's determination not to divulge her building plans until her claim to parity is recognized, while the United States refuses to discuss the Japanese claim.

The Japanese delegation is taking the conference very seriously and seems prepared for a long session. Since the Christmas adjournment its membership has grown from twenty-four to thirty.

The increase in naval expenditures revealed in the new American budget aroused much comment among the delegations. In addition, 70 million dollars in one year is regarded here as proof that the United States is resolved to maintain naval supremacy over Japan. It is suggested that the publication of this figure in Washington at the present juncture is something more than a mere coincidence.

Japan Opposes Naval Plans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Jan. 7.—Qualitative naval limitation without quantitative limitation will merely precipitate numerical competition between countries possessing a similar type of armaments, and consequently Japan cannot agree to discuss one without the other.

This is understood to be the stand of naval officials at present. The navy also opposes the French plan proposing the declaration of building plans.

The Tokio Asahi declared the navy is convinced it is impossible to concentrate on disarmament now when the peace machinery of Europe has been cracked up by German rearmament and the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Eiji Amau, Japanese government spokesman, said today Japan wants the United States to "remove the claws from its Pacific fleet" and so be like "crabs on the American Pacific seaboard, which, unlike those on the Atlantic seaboard, have no claws." By claws, he explained, he meant offensive ships such as battleships and plane carriers.

Every Mother in Chicago To Receive Trial Package Vicks Colds-Control Aids

Mothers in Chicago will be keenly interested in the free trial packages of Vicks Colds-Control Aids now being delivered by special messenger to every home here.

These free trial packages bring you not only Vicks Va-tro-nol, unique aid in preventing many colds, and Vicks VapoRub, modern external method of treating colds; they also bring complete details of Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds, the practical home guide to greater freedom from colds.

Proof in Clinic Tests

Vicks Plan has been tested in three series of clinics conducted over a period of three years, among 14,702 people. These tests indicate gratifying results in fewer, shorter and milder colds for those following Vicks plan.

Especially interesting to mothers are the results from the clinics among 5,118 school children. Children following Vicks Plan lost 40.20% fewer days from school on account of colds.

Naturally, results varied with different groups. Some groups made even higher records—savings up to 75.30%. The saving of 40.20% was the average for all groups following Vicks Plan.

Prove It for Yourself

In your own family group, too, individual results from following Vicks Plan may vary. But the high average of success in these clinics suggests its very real possibilities for your household—possibilities that only your thorough trial of the Plan can disclose.

That's why this trial package with details of the Plan, and samples of Vicks Aids to Better Control of Colds, is being sent to your home. Test the samples—follow the Plan—then watch results!

If you fail to get your free package within the next few days, write to Vicks, 500 Milton St., Greensboro, N. C., and one will be sent to you, postpaid, by return mail.

There is only ONE market For Big Business

ADVERTISERS who have achieved leadership have all recognized this one simple truth: There is only ONE market for big business.

It is the only market big enough and rich enough to absorb the products of industry. It is the only market that can make a business GREAT.

Amid the confusion of conflicting claims and promises, of talk about this market and that market, the leaders have kept their vision clear.

There is only ONE market!

It is simply a market of people—the people who buy goods. How else can you classify them? Who buys twenty million automobiles? Who buys seven million electric refrigerators?

There are not enough bank presidents to buy them; not enough bookkeepers to buy them. There are not enough doctors, or lawyers, or salesmen, or mechanics to buy them. There are not enough people of any one class to buy 28½ billion dollars' worth of merchandise a year. But together, all these people consume this vast volume. Together they represent the nation's buying power—the greatest source of wealth in the world.

This is the market the leaders sell. It is the only market big enough for big business. No advertiser ever became great without it.

Where is the World's Richest Market?

The national advertiser's problem is clear: How to reach most effectively and economically the people who buy goods? There are various ways of doing it. There is one simple, direct way.

For note this significant fact: more than 80% of all the nation's commodities are bought by the people living in a clearly defined and comparatively small territory.

Take the United States by counties and you find that ONE-FIFTH of the counties buy FOUR-FIFTHS of the nation's goods. Take the United States by towns and cities and you find that ONE PER CENT of them, with 10,000 population and over, account for 70% of retail sales.

Here is the richest market in the world. Here is the concentrated buying power of the nation.

And here, in the great trading areas, The American Weekly concentrates its more than 5,500,000 circulation. It reaches from twenty to fifty per cent or more of all the people living in 614 of the 995 key cities of 10,000 population and over. It dominates, as no other publication does, in these important retail centers where people BUY GOODS.

Why These Millions Read and RESPOND

How has The American Weekly achieved this dominating position?

Clearly, only an irresistible editorial appeal could attract one-fourth of all the English-reading families in America. The appeal of The American Weekly is fundamental and universal. It is rooted deep in human nature, woven of the sixteen basic elements of interest that find a response in the minds and emotions of all mankind.

Taste in fiction may vary, but in the realities of life all find a common meeting ground. And it is the moving drama of life itself that is portrayed in The American Weekly—portrayed so simply that anyone may understand, yet so authentically that college professors and scientific authorities read and commend. Truth stranger than fiction makes this the most interesting, the most universal of magazines.

Reader interest has gained for The American Weekly the greatest circulation in the world. Reader interest gives it extraordinary responsiveness to advertising. More than five and a half million families read and respond. That is the power of The American Weekly to move merchandise. That is why the leaders use it to sell the richest market in the world.

"The Newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and lead public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."—Chicago Tribune.

THE DECISION AND THE ISSUE.

In an opinion, delivered by Mr. Justice Roberts for the majority of the court, the Agricultural Adjustment act is held unconstitutional as an invasion of the reserved rights of the states. "The act," the court finds, "is a statutory plan to regulate and control agricultural production, a matter beyond the powers delegated to the federal government."

In this finding the court declares that "congress has no power to enforce its commands on the farmer to the ends sought by the Agricultural Adjustment act. It must follow that it may not indirectly accomplish those ends by taxing and spending to purchase compliance. The constitution and the entire plan of our government negative any such use of the power to tax and to spend as the act undertakes to authorize. It does not help to declare that local conditions throughout the nation have created a condition of national concern; for this is but to say that whenever there is a widespread similarity of local conditions congress may ignore constitutional limitations upon its own powers and usurp those reserved to the states."

This result would be, of course, entirely congenial to the conceptions of government governing the New Deal, which is a comprehensive project to centralize all power in the federal government and reduce the states to the status of federal districts existing for the purpose of effectuating the federal will. This process has, in fact, been carried forward as far as possible, as we have seen very clearly in Illinois. It is of momentous importance in the defense of local and individual liberties that the Supreme court has now interposed its veto upon it.

The issue, of course, covers much wider ground than the experiment in federal regulation of agriculture. As the court points out: "If the act before us is a proper exercise of the federal taxing power, evidently the regulation of all industry throughout the United States may be accomplished by similar exercise of the same power."

The establishment of this new plan of government is justified by its proponents upon the grant in the constitution of power to lay taxes "to provide for the American defense and general welfare." The opinion points out, quoting the greatest commentator on constitutional law, Mr. Justice Story, that a power to tax for "the common defense and general welfare of the United States is not in common sense a general power. It is limited to those objects. It cannot constitutionally transcend them."

It cannot, in short, be used to override state sovereignty and to accomplish an absorption in practical effect of all powers of regulation and control in the central government. The contrary theory urged by the government and supported essentially in the opinion of the dissenting minority would open the way to this transformation of American government and to the improbably "peaceful revolution" which the New Deal has announced and is endeavoring to accomplish. The logic of such an interpretation of the welfare clause and its certain eventual effect would sweep away every constitutional restraint upon the power of a central rule. By employing taxation as bribe or coercion for compliance to a federal project or purpose, virtually any restraint for the preservation of local and individual liberties could be evaded and in effect nullified.

This need not and would not stop with economic objectives. Under the guise of general welfare and to render taxation and appropriation effective to promote, say, the growth and profitable disposal of cotton, it might provide for virtually enforced labor in the cotton field as a condition of federal aid. To overawe opposition or purchase up submission to its will, appropriations ostensibly in aid could be used to bring the press into subserviency by grants to newspapers willing or compelled by financial weakness to waive their constitutional liberty. That this is no fanciful theory has been abundantly shown in the attitude of the President and his advisers in the newspaper code controversy. Appropriations in ostensible aid of colleges could be conditioned upon racial, religious, or political tests.

In short, once the breakdown of the constitutional restraints upon government under pretense of providing for the general welfare in the exercise of taxation and spending of public money is tolerated, the whole fabric of our free society is undermined and will be brought down. The very list of acts cited by the dissent indicates how far we have already gone on this road, the road to autocratic power.

The underlying issue is whether we are to have constitutionalism and government by law or Hitlerism. The President in his ill-fated but most significant interview on the Schechter case decision revealed his impatience with the constitutional checks upon overweening executive ambition and no further advertisment is needed by this time that his régime is determined to do away with any restraint upon their impromptu projects or their policies subversive of the American system of limited government. The propaganda of this régime, from its birth from the wreckage of pledges upon which Mr. Roosevelt was elected, has been a persistent disparagement of American institutions and principles. No one can doubt the issue confronting the American people today, and it is an issue which they must decide. They still have power to decide it as a free people. If they are to remain free they must sustain the limitations upon government which their predecessors, the founders of the constitution and the republic, devised for the defense of freedom.

THE MASSACRE.

When the Grim Reaper summarized the activities of his arch-weapon, the automobile, in the city of Chicago during the year 1935, the totals read: "Killed, 787; injured, 17,846." Though an improvement on the record of 1934, these staggering figures exceed the casualties of the Union army in the bloody battle of Gettysburg, when 17,684 soldiers were either killed or maimed in the wholesale slaughter that is often cited as the "turning point of the civil war."

The progress made in 1935 through the efforts of our motor clubs, the Trafic court, and this newspaper that resulted in a reduction of two hundred deaths as compared with 1934 gave rise to certain hopes that the public was becoming sufficiently conscious of the slaughter to minimize the trafic toll under existing conditions. The reading of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S "Massacre Clock" is an ironic dashing of such hopes. Twenty-one dead and 296 injured during the first six days of the year; a continuation of the pace would make the 1935 toll look inconsequential.

The horrible character of the situation is acknowledged, but the cause is a moot question. One authority says slippery streets; another says speed. Contributory factors they may be, but it is obvious that there is something more basic; something definitly wrong with our system of handling the flood of trafic on our streets. It is apparent that if the city is to halt the massacre measures must be adopted for protecting first the pedestrian, second one motorist from another, and finally the motorist from himself. The answer lies in elevated highways, where the accidents that produce ninety-eight per cent of the fatalities would be impossible. The three agencies previously mentioned can aid in educating the public to help in meeting present conditions, but the construction of safety roads is a matter that awaits the action of the city council. Perhaps our aldermen will acknowledge the burden in 1936.

A TIMELY REMINDER.

The American Taxpayers' league has done well to call attention again to the enormous new burden of taxation which was imposed upon the American people on New Year's day. The new taxes are intended to finance the so-called social security program. The levies will begin at 1 per cent of pay rolls and will rise rapidly until 1949, when employers will be taxed 6 per cent of their total pay rolls [the equivalent each year of 3 weeks' pay for all employés] and employés will be obliged to turn over 3 per cent of their wages [equivalent to 1½ weeks' pay]. The total exaction will exceed the aggregate net income of all corporations reporting income for taxation in 1933.

It is well that these facts have been brought out anew because they have been insufficiently grasped by the American people. The social security legislation was enacted under pressure from Mr. Roosevelt, who was himself under pressure from the Sinclairs, Coughlins, Townsends, and Huey Longs. The President was afraid they would steal his popularity and therefore yielded to them. The plans were drafted without adequate consideration of objectives or of ways and means.

It is to be hoped that the league's activity will awaken employers and employés to the situation which confronts them and that, together, they will press for a reconsideration of the financial aspects of the schemes before too much damage has been done.

WALLA WALLA!

Walla Walla, Washington, reports a record for 1935 of no deaths from trafic accidents, no murders and no manslaughter cases in a population of 16,000. Until other parts of the country are heard from this is the American model for the year to be celebrated in song and story. How did the Walla Wallans do it? Did they plan it or did it just happen? Can the trick be borrowed? Can the example be followed? Has Walla Walla a superior clergy, bar, magistracy, police, municipal corporation and citizenship, or merely no automobiles, guns or other lethal contraptions?

If fortune smiled upon the ordinary run of folk it is enough to note a blessing. If the Walla Wallans did something to bring the blessing to themselves they have beaten the Tennessee Valley authority by several generations. They have produced a planned society worthy of any American's study and admiration.

Editorial of the Day

OHIO AND ILLINOIS.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Gov. Davey of Ohio has signed the rigid automobile drivers' license bill passed by the legislature of his state in its current special session. This will be good news for the people of Ohio. Ten years from now many of them will still be living who otherwise would have been killed by reckless drivers, deprived under the law of the right to operate a car. At the same time it is news which will bring regret to many residents of Illinois—regret not that Ohio has taken this forward step, but regret that the Illinois legislature has not seen fit to approve a similar measure in its present special session. Gov. Horner asked for it and many persons and organizations have worked for it. A state with the crowded highways of populous Illinois should have such a law, by all means.

BACK TO THE FARM.

Come, Agrarian, let me take you by the hand and lead you around the farm and teach you all over again how to raise things. Now we will go first and visit the little pigs. Nay, nay, agriculturist, lay not your hands upon the ax and the spade. The Supreme court says you will no longer be given a large salary every month for the pigs you don't raise. Hereafter you will be paid only for the pigs you do raise, if and when you can sell 'em. So put aside the ax and the spade and grab hold of that big bucket of swell swill I see standing beside the kitchen door and come down to the pig pen and give all the little piggies a good dinner. Farming under the AAA has changed a good deal from what it used to be. In the old days a farmer got up early and milked the cows and plowed the east forty and fixed the windmill and curried the horses and did a lot of other chores. Under the AAA farming consisted in getting into the tin lizzie, riding into town, going to the movies, and then calling on the AAA agent and getting a nice big check after you proved you hadn't done anything.

Now that's all going to be changed. Over here I want to show you your plow. You've only used it to plow things under—cotton if you lived down south, wheat, corn, and little piggies if you lived north. Now you must use your plow to loosen the ground so that things will grow and the crops will ripen. Oh, I'm not fooling you; you're going to get money for raising things, not for destroying them. Yes, indeed, believe it or not; it may seem strange to you, but we're going back to first principles and raise things instead of plowing them under.

DOWN IN THE CORNFIELD, Hear that mournful sound; No more checks for doing nothing, AAA's in the cold, cold ground.

IN SILENT CONTEMPLATION.

In silent contemplation I have knelt
Before an image made of light and shade,
Half dreamed, perhaps, and half projected art,
Born of a longing futile and sublime.
Such is the mourner's recompense, who knows
Too well indeed the shadowed purple patch
Between his finger tips and covered eyes.
Enough, yet not enough—longing in vain
Is folly, and yet has a martyr's tinge
In keeping with its gold antiquity. . . .

What I have known of love brings to me now
Far less of keen delight than I had thought
Would be the residue when the bright flames
Had flickered on. So puny is this bliss
(Precarious egg shells) that I wonder how
This being that I am presumes to build
An ivoried city on the flimsy site . . .
And yet there comes an hour when nothing fills
The emptiness, but a warm babbling stream
Of saving phrases from another's mouth. . . .

Too much of thought! I have within the core
A lust for action no gods deign to grant.
When I have filled the night with silent cries
The darkness will reëcho nothingness
With an immensity I could not have
Were life to be more kind. This living trips
So mincingly on its two well bound feet
I doubt not there is more to be inferred
From the sledge hammer blows of day on day
Than a sheer rhythm, fruitless and absurd. . . .

JESSUP.

BACK TO NATURE! Farmers will now be paid for raising cotton, wheat, and hogs instead of being paid for not raising them.

JOE LOUIS is to fight again. Over in France the soldiers wore on their wrists what we called "dead meat checks." It was a small metal disk bearing the name of the man who wore it and the name of the person to whom, in the event of death, the remains should be shipped. I think it would be a perfectly swell idea for all the opponents of Joe Louis to wear a dead meat check on the wrist. The name of the wearer is, of course, immaterial, because that's well known before he enters the ring. But if he is going to fight Joe Louis he should have the name and address of the person to whom he would like to have the remains shipped.

AAA DECEASED! NRA dead! Hey, boondogglers, this way out, and make it snappy.

BOY IN SURF.

Past surf the ocean blisters in slow waves.
A lad runs with the undertow; he dives . . .
The reared and stationary water topples
Above him; closing over him, it grapples
Together in its long rush toward the shore.
The boy beats through the green to air once more . . .
His hair is black and slippery on his head,
His throat is gleaming. In his darkly red
Mouth the sharp salt has a wild clean taste.
He dives again. (The band about his waist,
Soles of his feet, and armpits which are bare
Show whiter than white gulls in colored air).

Always above this motion, poised birds shrieking
This pendent surf forever falling, streaking
The beach with limpid foam. An eager wind
Curls ever the charged wave, frets fitful sand:
Yet in another summer's loud surf-shatter
Shall these same ardent limbs match boisterous water?

RAYMOND HOSKEN.

THE SUPREME COURT DECISION probably won't help us white collar birds. We haven't been given government checks every month for what we didn't do. Gosh, I'd like to be paid, like the farmers were, for what I didn't do. I estimate offhand that I ought to get from the government something like ten million dollars a year. And then some.

MR. ROOSEVELT proposes. The Supreme court disposes. And that's that. R. H. L.

PAINFUL FEET.

THERE are bushels, acres, millions of feet. Stand on the street for a few minutes some day and watch the feet go by—just the feet, mind you! You will probably not be arrested if your period of observation is brief.

Here they come—some drag by slowly; heart disease, probably. Other steps are quick and jerky, still others steady—springy. Here is one limping [what's the trouble—corns, bunions, weakened arches?] Pigeontoed walkers, straight walkers, and splayfoot walkers—all pass. There goes a jocky; here comes a soldier. A seemingly endless tramp, tramp of normal feet? Not so, unfortunately, for rare is the man or woman with perfect feet.

Nevertheless, the feet serve their owners in a very remarkable way. They will stand a tremendous amount of strain, sustain the weight of the body, and regulate the forward, balancing motion used in walking. Yet they may weaken or become deformed, with the result that pain is present even when the feet are not bearing weight.

The bones of the foot are held together by important ligaments and muscles, and the shape of the foot depends upon the relationship of these structures. If the muscles become weakened ligaments will stretch and the natural contour is lost. Bones may press one against another, resulting in great distress.

Flatfoot is not always painful, although it may be. By flatness we mean loss of the normal curve of the longitudinal arch. The foot of a ballet dancer is nearly always flat when standing, and these graceful persons rarely complain of painful feet. Training has lengthened the ligaments, but the muscles are in excellent tone and as such hold the bones apart.

Few of us realize that an acute, painful foot often follows an infection with symptoms similar to those that characterize rheumatism. Sometimes after a long illness a patient will walk too soon, before the muscles have acquired sufficient power to hold the bones in proper position. In any appreciable wasting of the foot muscles, due to any cause whatsoever, active strengthening and supporting measures are often required to maintain the normal shape of the foot.

Another condition, known as foot strain, follows stretching of the longitudinal arch through overexercise. Too little exercise, that is, a period of inactivity, may be responsible. Take the example of an individual who is confined to the house for a period of a few weeks and who walks but little. The spirit moves and a cross-country hike is the order of the day. Ligaments are strained and weak muscles are weakened still further. The outcome is aching and considerable local swelling. For relief the patient on walking will turn the heel bone outward instinctively. Comfort can be secured only by raising the inner border of the shoe approximately one-third of an inch or by extending the heel forward on the inner side.

Most feet may be kept in working order by means of a few simple exercises. These consist in turning the feet inward and grasping objects with the toes. Regular practice will be required until marbles and pencils can be lifted from the floor with the toes. Exercises such as rising on tiptoes and standing on the outer borders of the feet are helpful. The patient is then instructed to walk on the outside of the feet with the toes turned in and again on tiptoe. When sitting he should cross his ankles so that the feet are turned in.

Supports are often of great help, particularly pads that are glued to an inner sole. These are known as metatarsal pads and are designed to raise the heads of the metatarsal bones, the edges of the pads fitting just back of the ball of the foot. Arches worn inside the shoe to lift the longitudinal arch are needed but seldom.

Corns, bunions, calluses [from unequal pressure], and many other conditions may prove disturbing, interfere with walking, and affect the disposition. I know a few erstwhile sour, crabbed individuals who were restored to sunny equanimity through the correction of painful feet.

WATER AND SUGAR.

A. B. J. writes: My baby will not take water without sugar. Do you know of a substitute for sugar?

REPLY.

You should train your child to take water without sugar. A small amount of sugar in his drinking water now and then will do no harm, but you should not use it as a regular thing. If he will not take water without sweetening, minute quantities of saccharin can be used in place of sugar.

DEPENDS ON CAUSE.

W. F. writes: My urinalysis shows pus cells "four to field." What course should I follow?

REPLY.

Pyuria, or pus in the urine, is due to an infection in some part of the urinary tract. Practically every specimen of urine contains some pus cells. Specific treatment depends on the cause. However, an abundant fluid intake and vaccines are of value in many cases.

BIRTHMARK.

N. A. writes: Is there any way to remove a birthmark on the face?

REPLY.

Treatment by a skilled plastic surgeon or a competent dermatologist is advised.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Regarding a lot in Mount Greenwood, I get the tax bills and they are being paid by me, but I have no deed for same or guaranty policy. 2. I want to transfer title of lot or sell same to a neighbor, and wish to know what papers I must have. 3. The lot was in possession of my father until a year and a half ago, when he passed away. His estate has been probated. 4. I have no papers to turn over except tax bills and special assessments. I have been down to the county's offices and found the lot was still in his name before and after estate was probated. How can I acquire the necessary papers in order to transfer lot to buyer? J. W. F.

1. The mere fact that you are paying the taxes would not give you a title.

2. In order to be in a position to give a good title you must acquire a good title yourself.

3. If you mean that your father had a good title, then the technical legal step would be to probate his estate, but if this is the only asset you may be able to persuade the purchaser to waive probate.

4. Even after probate there would be no point to your turning "papers" over to him. What you would give him would be a new deed executed by you. If an abstract or Torrens certificate is required, take this up with the recorder's office. If a guaranty policy, take it up with the title and trust company.

ZONING VIOLATION.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—[Friend of the People.]—We live in a residential neighborhood. Our neighbors to the north do wood carving in back of their home in a two car garage and also in the basement. This factory is operated day and night and at all hours. Also Sundays. My husband works all night and cannot sleep because of the loud noises and drilling, which goes on for hours. We cannot keep tenants for the same reason. These neighbors are doing commercial work, and when I complained to them was told they could make all the noise they wished and no one could stop them. Can I have something done about this? J. W.

Occupant has been notified to discontinue operation of wood cutting machinery and the use of premises for commercial purposes.

MAY OBTAIN PAPERS.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—[Friend of the People.]—A friend came to Quebec, Canada, in September, 1920. When he arrived there he received a message that his cousin had met with a fatal accident and was not expected to live, so he came here to be with his cousin. This party did not pay any head tax. He stayed here and applied for and received his first papers shortly after. He would like to know if he could get his second papers. F. S.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand.—By electing a Labor government to take the place of the overwhelmingly repudiated moderate coalition, New Zealand has embarked on her greatest experiment of the century.

Labor never has held office in this country. When Labor spoke confidently of obtaining a majority in the recent elections the political prophets smiled. New Zealand, in spite of its liking for experimental legislation, was not as radical as that, they said. She had a habit of dislodging the government at almost every election, but she always swung to the other moderate party. Both Reform [Farmers] and the United party [Liberals] stood for practically the same thing. They differed merely on the question of who was to spend the government money and they provided a useful alternative to allow the electors to vent their dissatisfaction without going over into the radical camp.

It was true that these two parties had moved together into the same camp in 1931 for the purpose of presenting a common front to the depression. However, another moderate party, the Democrats, had arisen to fill the rôle of the alternative to Labor. It seemed that their policy of sanctity of contract, which the government had ended, would surely appeal.

But to the electors it seemed otherwise. They cast their votes for the radical party and gave it 75 per cent of the seats in the house of representatives.

The astounded country, seeing Labor at the helm, found it had indorsed the policy of a party which announced its intentions as follows:

To guarantee all export prices, to end exchange inflation, to create state health insurance and a state-directed medical service, to "assume control of the public credit," which means taking over the Reserve Bank of New Zealand and making it a state bank; to restore all wage cuts, to reintroduce the Arbitration court over industry, and to give the country's 50,000 registered unemployed jobs.

These were the immediate election promises of the Labor party. Although they have the virtue of being merely an aspect of the party's general policy of socialization, Michael J. Savage, leader of the new government, set to work to restore public confidence.

These reassurances were so comforting that a minor run on the state savings bank which began the day after the election came to a sudden end.

But the fields of big business, finance, and trade remained nervous. The first reaction in London, where New Zealand raises most of her loans and where half of her securities are held, was sheer dismay. Conservatives advised Labor not to take undue risks.

There was good reason for this feeling of uneasiness, for the banks had fought Labor. The financiers feared the giant new mortgage corporation which had been established by the previous government as one of its last acts, and the business men, trapped when the moderate administration raised the exchange rate, saw themselves being hit again by Labor lowering it.

Only the industrialists, happy in the memory of Labor's promises of a high tarif and visioning state subsidies in the pronouncement that the unemployed would be put back to work, openly expressed their belief in a new era of prosperity.

While the country wondered whether Labor intended to move cautiously, former Finance Minister Coates revealed that the moderate government left a large sum in accumulated reserves which is available for the financing of socialist plans. This has shaken the belief that a financial shortage will force the Labor party to tread a cautious path.

EDUCATION.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Being only an ordinary American citizen, and having like millions of other chaps started out in life with virtually nothing, except a desire to hoe my own row, own my own home some day, and have a family, and having like numberless other chaps achieved this aim, I was really very much amazed last night, as I listened to the President's address, to learn that our American industrial and commercial situation was such a terrible thing—that is, before the present administration took hold.

Having, like millions of others, both American and foreign born, managed somehow or other to get by in spite of the oppression spoken of, I really thought things were pretty good, generally speaking. Like a few million other chaps of the common garden variety, I am just waiting for next November to roll around so that I can toddle to the polls and cast my vote. And boy, won't I cast it! And there won't be any Democrats on my ticket. W. T.

HIS MEANING WAS CLEAR.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Headlines in this morning's paper say "Roosevelt Raps Italy and Japan." I listened to President Roosevelt speak over WGN last night and I did not hear him mention either Italy or Japan once in his speech. How is it you can print such false headlines? Can we ever get the truth?

ROBERT MCELLIGOTT.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—I heard the President's speech last night. How dare you distort the news as you have in the morning edition? How dare you actually mention Italy and Japan? O yes, you state they were hit as disturbers, but you know very well that the average reader will understand that in exactly the way you wish it to be understood. Apparently nothing would suit you better than to stir up ill feeling against specific nations. ELIZABETH WHITMAN.

EVERYTHING EXPLAINED.

Oak Park, Ill., Jan. 5.—Your editorial on the President's address at the opening of congress exposes your hypocrisy perfectly. You denounce the address for its content, timing and broadcasting arrangements. With the large percentage of metropolitan newspapers being controled by a few individuals of immense wealth and opposed to the President's policies, and particularly because your paper and others of your stripe have been conducting a vilifying and nauseating campaign against him, the President was both wise and logical in choosing the method for delivery of his address.

It is quite evident that you and other papers following policies similar to yours realize that their day of molding or influencing public opinion is over. You are bitter in the realization that your large circulation simply means that you are meeting the demand for the news of the day, and through this circulation get your advertising patronage, but your editorial opinions do not count for much, because the President and other public men through radio can talk direct to the people and reach almost half of the population of the country, thereby effectively nullifying your own propaganda.

HERMAN MOMENT.

CONCERNING AUTOCRATS.

Maywood, Ill., Jan. 5.—The most remarkable thing about the President's message to congress is its utter complacency. The whole country is in a ferment about the wild gyrations of the New Deal, but the President sees only its transcendent perfections. He sweepingly condemns those other autocrats across the sea, and at the same time bitterly assails the "minority" in the United States which dares to question his autocratic methods.

But after all, is it a minority? Not according to the latest returns of the Literary Digest. REPUBLICAN.

THERE WAS MORE TO FOLLOW.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 4.—The morning after President Roosevelt's address I looked high and low in our favorite Chicago newspapers for criticism. And lo and behold, what did I find? Criticism of the time of the speech and criticism of the place where the speech was given. I gathered, therefore, that the speech, itself, was well-nigh perfect.

CHRIS A. BOUKIDIS.

FROM AN OPEN LETTER.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Thanks for refreshing my memory by your numerous verbatim quotations from the earlier radio talks between thee and me. But why did you neglect to repeat from your campaign talks? Those quotations wherein you gave your solemn word you would reduce federal expenditures 25 per cent and abolish the hateful bureaus and jobholding parasites coincident with election? Why?

However, pay no heed. I am just another one of those guys who is "hiding under the cowardly cloak of generalities."

Your pal, BILL MAYOR.

COMPARISONS.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—The President spoke no truer words when he told congress [and possibly the public]: "We have returned the control of the federal government to the city of Washington." That city is overtaxed with brain trusters, New Deal magicians, and obedient congressmen who have taken the right of self-government from the people and concentered it therein. We fully agree as to this, just as the rubber stamp congressmen fully agreed with and vigorously applauded the President when he told them what a swell job they had done at the last session. If applause is a barometer of attainment, they [the congressmen] certainly admitted that they were good.

He then painted the decade of unmatched prosperity which followed the retirement of the Wilson administration as black and forlorn, with civilization blotted out through wild speculation, but did not mention the fact that he, as a promoter, deals in the exchange of German marks, and also acted as a director of Camco, an oversized gum slot for vending merchandise, which in its prospectus for the sale of stock emphasized that profits would be enormous through the elimination of labor. Now, to the contrary, his heart cries out in anguish for the unemployed.

Labor certainly does not want prewar periods as a yardstick to measure comfortable living conditions. The workingman did not possess horses and buggies in the same proportion as he did automobiles from 1920 and thereafter for a decade. This is the comparative period labor has in mind and still Mr. Roosevelt attempts to deliberately mislead the people by saying that this was an unthinkable, despicable, and unbearable period for American humanity.

What comparable period has the President in mind? Is it of the past, present [11 million people unemployed], or future? Surely the ouija board must be consulted. S. F.

ON TAKING IT.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—News headlines say "Democrat Seeks to Close Mails on Straw Votes." The last Literary Digest poll was in their favor and was greeted with broad smiles by the little boys in Washington. They like to play tag as long as the game is going their way, but when some one says, "Boys, you're it," they just can't take it. FEMALE VOTER.

ETHIOPIA JOYFUL; SEES VICTORY AS RAIN BEGINS

African Nation Observes Its Christmas.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Continuous heavy rains in the north cheered the Ethiopian people today as they celebrated their Christmas.

Natives were confident that the rains, bogging up the soil, will compel Fascist invaders to fall back from their advanced positions about Makale.

The day is known as "Ganna" by the Ethopians. An imperial service was held in the Little Church of St. Gabriel's in the lower palace compound. Crown Prince Asfa Wosan represented his father, Emperor Haile Selassie. The emperor attended services at his field headquarters at Dessye.

Service Lasts Five Hours.

The crown prince, standing most of the time with the aid of a golden cane, listened with immobile features to a five hour service which began at dawn.

Priests, in multi-colored striped and brocaded robes and bejeweled crowns, chanted praises of the imperial armies fighting, as they cried out, for God and emperor against the invaders.

Ethiopia's foreign "brain trust" was strengthened today by the addition of another American, John H. Spencer, 30, formerly of Grinnell, Ia.

Spencer, a specialist in international law, arrived last night. He will be an assistant political adviser to the government. Everett Andrews Colson, an American, is the emperor's financial adviser.

Son of Grinnell Professor.

Two European advisers, Gen. Eric De Virgin and Jacques Auberson, recently departed, leaving Colson's tasks more arduous.

Spencer, who has spent the past three years in Europe, was recommended for the post by Prof. Pitman Benjamin Potter, American who was an Ethiopian representative on a commission which sought to conciliate the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia before the war began.

Spencer is one of the four children of Prof. Edward Buckham Taylor Spencer, Carter-Adams professor of Greek since 1916 at Grinnell college. The elder Spencer served as professor of ancient languages at Moores Hill [Ind.] college, professor of Latin at the University of Denver, director of the Collegio Metodista of Rome, Italy, and professor of classics at Grinnell college before becoming Carter-Adams professor of Greek.

Italy Sends More Troops.

ROME, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini fed more manpower to his war machine in Africa tonight. Several thousand members of famous Alpine divisions left for the plateaus of Ethiopia.

Four thousand Alpine troops were aboard the Conte Grande, which sailed last night, and it was followed tonight by the Conte Rosso with 2,500 Alpine artillerymen. To replace them Il Duce created new militia units for duty in this country.

The official war communique said today, "Nothing to report on the Eritrean and Somaliland fronts."

Seven British Warships Arrive in Greek Waters

PIRAEUS, Greece, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Four British destroyers—Escort, Electra, Express, and Exmouth—arrived today in the harbor of this seaport of Athens. Three other British destroyers, the Escapade, Esk, and Eclipse, arrived off Poros Island in the gulf of Aegina.

RICKETT GOING BACK TO ETHIOPIA; SAYS OIL CONCESSION STANDS

ROME, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Francis M. Rickett, the Englishman who obtained an Ethiopian oil concession, the terms of which were never carried out, because of the intercession of the American state department, said tonight the concession still "stands pat."

Rickett said he would start for Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, tomorrow, by way of Athens, to look after the concession, which he said he had not discussed with Rome officials.

Friends of Rickett had said earlier they understood the promoter was here on business—but they were unable to state its nature. Rickett was reported to be seeking some arrangement either with the Italian government or with capitalists here.

TURKS PROTEST ITALIAN MOVES IN NEARBY ISLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Jan. 7.—Italian activity in the Dodecanese Islands, which has long been the object of serious suspicion in Turkey, continues to be watched with interest.

The Italian ambassador here has denied reports of Italian military preparations in the Dodecanese. The fact remains that the extraordinary attention paid by the Italians to these islands has been the subject of Turkish diplomatic protest. Turkish apprehensions have been so keen that millions of dollars have been spent in fortifying the regions opposite to these islands.

Only recently did Italy undertake to keep Turkey informed of the military activities in the Dodecanese. On the island of Leros, for instance, the entry to the port is guarded by anti-submarine nets. Foreigners are not allowed to land there and the use of cameras, even from steamers in the vicinity, is strictly forbidden.

CLAIM NEW NAZI BATTLESHIP TOPS 2 SISTER CRAFT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—Military experts said today that the pocket battleship Admiral Count Spee, which was placed in commission yesterday, far out classes the sister ships Admiral Scheer and Deutschland, which have been the object of admiration in navy circles throughout the world.

Its guns carry a distance of 16 miles, its Diesel motors enable it to travel easily 11,510 miles at a speed of 28 knots and still be in fighting trim at the end of the voyage.

The Admiral Count Spee carries six 28 centimeter guns with a penetrating force equaling that of the British 35 centimeter guns. It also has eight 15 centimeter guns as well as four torpedo tubes of a diameter of 50 centimeters. Catapult equipment and two seaplanes also are on the battleship.

DUCE AND LAVAL SEE ENVOYS; HINT NEW PEACE MOVE

Europe Veils Diplomacy in Fog of Secrecy.

[Special to the London Daily Telegraph and the Chicago Tribune.]
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Jan. 7.—Today was the first anniversary of the signature of the Rome pact by Premier Mussolini of Italy and Foreign Minister [now premier also] Laval of France. The pact ended a period of friction between Italy and France which had prevailed since the Paris peace conference.

The occasion was marked tonight by a series of inspired articles in the Italian press. It was also marked by the revival of diplomatic activity believed to be connected with Laval's attempt to find a solution of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Mussolini conferred with the Italian ambassadors to Paris and Brussels. While in Paris Count Charles de Chambrun, French ambassador to Italy, had a long conversation with Laval.

Peace Move Seen.

Nothing was made public concerning the object of these visits beyond the fact that Mussolini received from his ambassadors the gold wedding rings given by Italians in Paris and Brussels.

It is generally believed that the talks presage a renewal of peace negotiations. This time, however, secrecy will be maintained. There will be no spectacular conferences and no journeys of statesmen from one capital to another.

It was recalled as a good omen that a year ago Laval said in Rome:

"Our understanding has become a reality. We give all governments a chance to join us in an endeavor which has one goal, the organization of peace.

Virginio Gayda, editor of the newspaper Giornale d'Italia, emphasized that this reference to a coalition has not fallen through by reason of any fault on the Italian side.

Criticizes U. S. and League.

Gayda said President Roosevelt and the members of the league of nations have not given Mussolini credit for his efforts to draft a Danubian pact, which he said would have been a guarantee of peace.

Il Duce's task, Gayda continued, was broken off owing to the Ethiopian war, which in itself, he said, was the outcome of the impossibility of Italy's collaboration with Ethiopia. Italy had full rights to "collaborate" by virtue of the Italo-Anglo-French treaty of 1906, Gayda declared.

This, the editor complained, has been changed to an absurd form of struggle in Europe. Through the intervention of imperial interests and occult forces at Geneva, he charged, the world has been split into two camps. Italy's case in Ethiopia has been distorted, he said, and the causes for yet another war are being multiplied. Italy, he said, cannot collaborate for the peace of Europe until it has won its own just peace in East Africa.

Well Dressed Man Found Shot to Death in Box Car

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Dr. B. J. Wyland, deputy coroner of St. Joseph county, tonight was investigating the death of a well dressed, unidentified man whose body was found in a box car at North Liberty, southwest of here. The car arrived in North Liberty earlier today from Gary. Bullet wounds were found in the man's head. A revolver, with one cartridge fired, was found at the side of the body.

YANK HELD IN NAZI PRISON 6 WEEKS; U. S. PROTESTS

Criticism of German Rule Is Victim's "Crime."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 7.—A 61 year old American sea captain, who was held incommunicado and in solitary confinement in a Nazi prison from Nov. 15 to Dec. 25, was the object of a vigorous protest lodged with the Bavarian government today by Charles M. Hathaway Jr., American consul general in Munich.

The sea captain is Paul Herberger, formerly of Seattle, Wash., whose letters to the consul from the prison were not forwarded and who was fed only bread and thin soup during the entire time of his arrest, according to an affidavit in the American consulate at Munich.

The Nazis admitted their sole charge against Herberger was "making statements harmful to the third reich in a letter to his sister in Sweden which was intercepted in Hamburg."

Victim Quoted Bismarck.

The consul general has the text of the incriminating letter. In this letter Herberger quoted this famous phrase by Bismarck, the iron German chancellor: "The people who are least governed are the best governed."

The letter added:

"We now are governed here more than ever before. The governing has absolutely no end. On top of all the press is gagged and no public discussion is allowed—criticism is out of the question."

Herberger also referred to two preceding letters, which did not reach his sister.

"This is not surprising," he wrote, "in the freedom of the third reich. I guess the censor did not like them and they disappeared."

These passages are the "seditious utterances" which the Nazis claim waranted the arrest of this American citizen.

Suffered Illness in Cell.

Herberger suffers from rheumatism and while imprisoned he suffered heart attacks. The prison authorities finally called a doctor and in the last days of his arrest he was given the company of an arrested beggar to watch him in case of renewed heart attacks.

Herberger, who was born in Saarlouis, Prussia, emigrated to the United States in 1903. He became an American citizen at Seattle in 1912. He served with the United States naval department and United States geodetic survey from 1909 to 1918, operating between Alaska and the Philippines as a mate and captain. He holds a United States captain's license.

In 1921 he returned to Germany with his life's savings and bought a farm near Garmisch. He was taken into "protective custody" on Nov. 15 by the GSP [secret police] after this organization had received word from the Hamburg postoffice of the confiscation of the letter to his sister. When he was released on Dec. 25 he was handed a letter ordering him to leave Germany by April 1.

The secret arrest of an American citizen, American authorities said, is a violation of a written promise given by the Bavarian government to foreign consuls in Munich that they would be informed of all arrests of their nationals in Bavaria. This promise was given a year ago.

May Not Be U. S. Citizen.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 7.—(AP)—United States immigration and naturalization service officials said today they believed the Capt. Paul Herberger ordered by Nazi police at Munich to leave Germany was the same man whose American citizenship was canceled here on July 25, 1921.

Judge Edward E. Cushman in United States District court signed the order canceling Paul Herberger's itizenship, naturalization officers said, on the grounds he obtained it in Seattle on March 9, 1912, by fraudulent representations.

The cancelation order was entered after a hearing in which Herberger was accused of unpatriotic utterances during the world war.

CHICAGOANS JOIN THRONGS MAKING WINTER CRUISES

Leave on Round the World Trips This Week.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

Loaded with travelers intent on seeing all there is to see, two ocean liners, the Cunard-White Star's Franconia and the Canadian Pacific's Empress of Britain, left New York yesterday on cruises around the world. A third, the Reliance of the Hamburg American Line-North German Lloyd, is to sail tomorrow. Still another ship, the Stella Polaris, will leave Jan. 21, and, under charter by Raymond-Whitcomb, Inc., will cruise westward as far as Cadiz, Spain.

Because of unsettled conditions in northern Africa, all four will take the southern route around Africa. Sightseers thus will visit such places as Cape Town, Johannesburg, and Madagascar. The time for the journeys is to vary between three and one-half and nearly five months, and in one instance the distance covered will be more than 34,000 miles.

Chicagoans Book Passage.

In each case Chicago is well represented in the bookings. On the Franconia, for instance, are Frederick C. Little, Miss Mary Venrick, Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. L. B. Brady, Miss Ann Lee Brady, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Richter, Miss Charlotte Kramer, Mrs. Martha B. Bintliff, and Mrs. Paul J. Kalman.

Among the passengers on the Empress of Britain are Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Beachy and Mrs. Edward W. McCready of Oak Park, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Boyd Pixley, W. K. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. Spencer L. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin L. Bear, Miss Mildred E. Frick, Miss Mary Sullivan, Mrs. F. P. Sullivan, and Mrs. Adelaide S. Ames, all of Chicago. Kenneth A. Cook of this city is going along as one of the cruise directors.

On the Reliance will be Mr. and Mrs. Percy Eckhart of Kenilworth, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hurlbut, and Miss Marguerita Lorraine Wallen of Evanston, Mrs. Bennett Griffin, Mrs. E. W. Rowe, Miss Mary L. Crumpacker, and Mrs. Martha Baur, all of Chicago, and Mrs. A. Lindsley of Kenilworth.

Cruise the Caribbean.

With the holidays out of the way, other Chicagoans are turning their attention toward the West Indies, Mexico, South America, and Europe.

On the Kungsholm of the Swedish-American line when it embarks on a Caribbean cruise today will be Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Horan, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Curran, Mrs. Frederick W. Blocki, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Jaffe, Mr. and Mrs. David Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Greenberg, Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Golan, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Doyle, Arthur Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg, Mrs. Frances Koppelman, Miss Elinor Koppelman, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Gilbert, Miss Ilo M. McGrath, A. F. Geahart, B. E. Bogeaus, and George L. Simmonds, all of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. G. F. McLaughlin of Lake Forest, and Mrs. O. C. Kraemer of Park Ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert K. Havemeyer of Riverside are on a cruise on the Grace liner, the Santa Rosa, from New York to Los Angeles by way of Colombia, Panama, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, and Mexico.

Plan Rail Trip to Mexico.

A number of Chicagoans expect to leave a week from today for a rail trip to Mexico City. From there they will motor to Acapulco, on the west coast of Mexico, and thence go on the California of the Panama Pacific line to New York via the Panama canal and Havana.

On the French line's Champlain, just returned from a trip over Christmas and New Year's to the West Indies, were Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Morton, their daughters, Betty and Suzette, and son, Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Morris and sons, Edward III., Nelson, and William, and Mrs. Morris' brother, George Conover; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stern and sons, Mayer and Arnold; J. S. Cook, and W. D. Trueblood.

Mrs. Carolyn M. S. Fox of Chicago sailed yesterday on the American Export liner, the Exeter, for Mediterranean ports.

Mrs. Howard Linn is due to reach the British Isles today on the Manhattan of the United States lines. She took along her car, her chauffeur, and her maid, and plans to visit both Ireland and England before returning in the spring.

Reach England Today.

Traveling on the Georgic of the Cunard-White Star line, Mrs. Robert M. Jeffries and her daughters, Virginia and Helen of Highland Park, also will reach England today. They will spend four months in London.

Arriving in New York yesterday on the Aquitania from Southampton were Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pollock and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen.

Chicago travel officials said yesterday that the holiday travel had taxed transportation companies in nearly every American city, crowded the piers with tourists taking the short cruises, and sent 40 per cent more people traveling than traveled a year ago.

This month there are to be 75 regular and 14 special cruises to the Caribbean, the West Indies, the gulf ports, and South America. Advance reservations exceed by nearly 30 per cent those of last year. Ocean travel to South America will eclipse all January records and may score a new all-time high in Latin-American tourist trade. On the Pacific coast the bookings to the South seas and the orient are the best in five years.

HUGE SEA WALL DEFIES STORMS FOR GALVESTON

Island City Lays Plans for Texas Fete.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Galveston, Tex., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—On this low sand island, thirty-six miles long and two and one-half miles wide, is a city of 55,000 population, protected from Gulf of Mexico storm waters by a concrete wall seven and a half miles long and seventeen feet high. On the beach in front of this wall, on the board walk and hundred foot pavement behind, and atop this wall will be held many of the festivities of the Texas centennial this year.

Galveston, with a past under six flags and under the pirate rule of Jean La Fitte, has a history rich in subjects for pageantry and these opportunities are not being overlooked in plans for a gala year.

In June will be held an oleander festival with float parades and with a coronation of a queen selected from beauties representing various cities of the south. This will take the place of the formerly annual bathing girl review.

In August will be an historical pageant depicting Galveston under French, Spanish, Mexican, La Fitte, Texan, and confederate rules.

MRS. JARDINE TAKES STAND IN ANNULMENT SUIT

Mrs. Dorothy Jardine, 7761 Sheridan road, daughter of the late Charles G. Ferguson, wealthy real estate man, testified yesterday before Superior Judge Oscar F. Nelson in a hearing on her suit to annul her marriage to Charles F. Jardine, an accountant.

Her suit is based on a general attack on the legality of Nevada's six week divorces. Mrs. Jardine testified that her husband won a divorce from his former wife in Reno. The contention of her attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, is that the Reno divorce was illegal and therefore his client's marriage to Jardine is void.

Mrs. Jardine, who has been married three times before, said she divorced her third husband in Chicago in 1928. In 1931 she and Jardine went to Reno. He established a six weeks' residence there and won a divorce from Marie Josephine Jardine of Long Beach, N. Y., and married his present wife four days later in Evanston. Mrs. Jardine said she left her husband in February, 1935, after being advised his Reno divorce was invalid.

Jardine, who is now employed by a mining concern in Nevada, is expected to be in court this afternoon when the hearing is resumed. He is contesting the annulment action.

TRAVEL QUERIES ANSWERED

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

What would it cost to take a two weeks' vacation in Mexico? G. B.

There are a number of all-expense tours from Chicago for around $200.

How big is the Washington monument, what is it made of, and what did it cost? L. W. A.

It is 555 feet and 5 inches high and stands on a base 55 feet square. The lower walls are of granite, faced on the outside with marble. They are 15 feet thick up to about 500 feet. The upper walls, of marble only, are 18 inches thick. It is estimated that about 23,000 stones were used in the shaft's construction. The cost was slightly more than $1,000,000.

When does the Columbus leave on its cruise around South America? T. N.

Feb. 11.

Please tell me something of the history and location of the Solomon Islands. D. J. O'C.

The Solomons, 900 miles northeast of Australia, are among the most remote of the Pacific Islands. Yet, save for the Ladrones, and perhaps the Marshalls, they were the earliest found by Europeans. They were discovered, strangely enough, from Peru, where adventurers, thirsting for more gold, had heard rumors of a continent close by to the west. Lost for 200 years, they were rediscovered in 1767.

Is Nova Scotia largely French, or English, or Scotch? E. B.

Because of Longfellow's "Evangeline" the country is popularly supposed to be mainly French and English. But it is primarily Scotch. The opening of its parliament is accompanied by the skirl of bagpipes, and several newspapers there are printed partly in Gaelic. In the Nova Scotian county of Inverness 72 per cent of the inhabitants speak Gaelic, while less than half of the people in the similarly named county in Scotland can talk that tongue.

What is there to see at Angkor, in Cambodia, Indo-China? C. F.

The greatest ruins in the far east, exceeding even the Temple of Borobodoer in Java. Except for the Taj Mahal, there is nowhere else such a perfect example of old time architecture.

Mrs. Norman Armour's Leg Broken in Skiing Mishap

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Norman Armour, wife of the United States minister to Canada, suffered a broken right leg in a skiing accident yesterday, it was disclosed today. Mrs. Armour fell as she was descending a hill at Rockcliffe park. The bone was set at a hospital and she was then taken home. She is the former Princess Myra Koudacheff of Russia.

PRIZE BEEF TO BE SERVED IN SCHOOLS TODAY

Chicago High school pupils will be served five and one-half tons of prize beef in the school cafeterias throughout the city today, F. O. Washam, director of the lunch rooms, announced yesterday. The beef is from animals which were raised by 4-H boys and girls and all of which won blue ribbons at the recent International Live Stock show in the stockyards. Prices will remain the same for the special serving, 15 cents for roast beef plate lunch and 10 cents for a sandwich, Mr. Washam said. Thomas H. Crist, clerk in the school board's bureau of lunch rooms, supervised distribution of the meat yesterday. Between 100 and 200 pounds were exhibited at each school yesterday as a preview to the serving.

NINETY DAYS FOR MOTHER OF FOUR.

Mrs. Rose Hoekstra, 42 years old, 3701 Home avenue, mother of four small children, was sentenced by Judge George B. Weiss in the Women's court yesterday to serve ninety days in the Bridewell for obtaining money by fraudulent checks.

BESTOW DEGREE ON ARCHBISHOP OF YORK HERE

At a special convocation yesterday afternoon at Seabury-Western Theological seminary, Evanston, the honorary degree of doctor of sacred theology was conferred upon the Most Rev. William Temple, a primate of the English church and archbishop of York. Bishop George Craig Stewart of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago presented the distinguished candidate, and the Rev. Dr. Frederick C. Grant, president of the seminary, read the citation and placed the academic hood on the visiting prelate's shoulders. Archbishop Temple opened a series of three lectures on the Moody Foundation at the University of Chicago last night under the title of the relationship of philosophy to theology. He will address the English Speaking union this noon at the Union League club.

OPEN VERDICT IN HOLDUP KILLING.

The inquest into the death of Peter Payor, 64 years old, shot to death on Dec. 11 while resisting robbers in his tailor shop at 1939 North Hoyne avenue, was closed yesterday with a verdict of murder by persons unknown.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Hemp Fiber Snarl

January 7, 1936.

A SNAG has been struck by the Tribune Experimental farms in attempting to find some processor who can mechanically spin and weave hemp fiber into cloth. Successful spinners and weavers of flax, cotton, and wool have been asked to take the hemp fiber produced at the Wheaton farm last summer and spin and weave a sample of linen. So far none has been found, although inquiries have been made at some of the biggest mills in the United States.

The search will be continued with the hope that some processor can be found who will tackle the job. The farm manager is now trying to find an expert who can garnett, spin, and weave the hemp fiber into fabric by hand.

In addition to the Tribune farm there are many other operators of midwest farms interested in seeing what can be done to develop fiber crops in the United States. Farmers have demonstrated that they can successfully grow hemp in almost unlimited quantities for fiber. Recently they have been encouraged by the progress that has been made in mechanically separating the fiber from the woody portion of the plant. Chemists also have demonstrated that they can blanch the fiber satisfactorily.

Farmers, inexperienced in the garnetting, spinning, and weaving, are surprised that some one is not able to take the fiber of hemp and weave it into cloth. All of these processes have been highly developed by specialists and have been in use for generations. Samples of the Wheaton farm hemp fiber, mechanically decorticated and chemically branched, were sent to various mills, but the operators found it could not be handled by machinery ordinarily used in spinning and weaving flax, cotton, and wool.

A representative of an eastern mill, after having a sample of the Wheaton farm hemp tried out by expert linen men, wrote, "We are sorry to write you that it would necessitate a very drastic change in the mill's spinning machinery to spin this class of fiber."

A midwestern woolen mill representative who had been asked to spin and weave the hemp fiber wrote, "We regret that we have no equipment which will enable us to manufacture into yarn and cloth fiber such as your sample. Our equipment manufactures yarn from wool only."

Similar comments from representatives of various kinds of fabric mills indicate that farmers who are interested in raising hemp have an unsolved but fascinating and profitable job for some technician to tackle. Hemp production centers are being developed, and decorticating machinery is being set up to separate the fiber and take the place of the old retting or rotting process. But until hemp can be spun and woven into cloth the market outlet for this crop will be greatly limited in the United States.

The manager of the Wheaton Tribune farm expects to continue to grow hemp and other fiber crops and will persist in his efforts to find some one with ingenuity enough to develop spinning wheels and looms that can be successfully used in making fabric out of American grown hemp fiber.

SCOTLAND YARD AGENT ON STAND IN DRAKE TRIAL

Hartzell's Deportation by England Told.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Detective Inspector Arthur Bishop of Scotland Yard, London's crime investigation headquarters, went on the stand in Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan's courtroom yesterday as one of the last witnesses for the government in the Drake estate mail fraud case.

Inspector Bishop related from memory a conversation with Oscar M. Hartzell, chief of the 41 defendants in the trial, just before Hartzell was deported from England in the spring of 1933. Hartzell had lived in England since 1922 on the proceeds of collections from investors in the mythical Drake estate on this side of the water.

With the evidence of Charles Challen, London barrister, on the legal phases of the nonexistent estate and that of Prof. Arthur Lyon Cross of the University of Michigan on the history of the Drake estate, the government is expected to close its case today.

Hartzell Listens Tensely.

Hartzell, now serving a Leavenworth prison term on a previous conviction of Drake estate frauds, leaned forward from his place at the defense table as the dapper, smiling detective stepped briskly to the witness stand. It brought back to him his glamorous days and nights in London, where American dupes provided him with an income of $2,500 a week.

Inspector Bishop is young looking, with high, rather bald forehead, blue eyed, slender and alert. He was carefully dressed in a gray suit, with spats. His detail in the Yard, he said, is on forgery, counterfeiting and frauds. He said that the only mark of identity he carried was a card. He identified Hartzell smilingly.

The defendant looked at him gloomily and all the forty other defendants leaned forward with deep interest. Jurors and spectators who had been nearly asleep all day awoke to new interest in the famous case.

Tells of London Quiz.

On Dec. 12, 1932, Inspector Bishop said he went to Hartzell's residence at 14 Washington Mansions, Battle street, London, with Chief Detective Inspector Wesley, on instructions from the director of public prosecutions. Wesley questioned Hartzell and Bishop took the replies in shorthand. Excerpts from the questions asked Hartzell in London and his replies were read by Bishop on the stand here yesterday. Hartzell said he was an American citizen and had lived in London since 1920.

Q.—How do you make your livelihood? A.—My money comes from America.

Hartzell was told that complaints had come from Americans concerning his claims regarding the Drake estate, and then was asked:

"Are you the Drake heir?"

"No."

Silent on Drake Status.

Q.—Are you the supposed heir? A.—That I cannot divulge.

Q.—Have you any agents in America? A.—Yes, I have 21 people in various parts of America. There are eight or nine who have been sending money since 1922.

He mentioned two of these as Amos Hartsock and Lester Ohmart. Ohmart is a defendant and Hartsock was a government witness. Hartzell told the detectives that he "came over with a crowd that held an interest in the estate but found they were not straight and severed connections." Since then he had received many thousands from his own agents, according to Bishop.

Q.—Is this the money you live on? A.—Yes, I borrow from it and make a note to pay six per cent interest. I have promised that in the end they will receive 500 per cent.

Where Cash Was Banked.

Q.—Where is it banked? A.—At the American Express and The Midland Bank, Haymarket.

Q.—Where is the Drake estate? A.—I cannot tell you off hand. It is all over the place.

Q.—On Nov. 15 last, Hartsock told a body of citizens in America that you had established the identity of person entitled to the estate. A.—I cannot divulge. You can get it at the home office. I have an assignment.

Q.—Have you ever seen this person? A.—No.

Q.—How do you know that he exists? A.—From people who have done business for me. It is a great mystery.

Mail Fraud Order Told.

Q.—Have there been any legal proceedings? A.—About Dec. 8 the Washington authorities notified six of my men that a mail fraud order had been issued. I cabled about it. I do not give a damn for all the officials. I have no use for America or Americans. They have treated me badly. I am practically British. When this all is ended my name will become Drake and I will be a British subject.

After the report of this conversation the deportation order was issued by the home office, Inspector Bishop said. Hartzell said at first that they could not deport him, but he was taken to Brixton jail and said later he was ready to go. He was deported Feb. 9, 1933.

Dr. Charles Perry Powell of the staf of the library of congress was put on the stand to translate the 400 year old will of Sir Francis Drake, written in Elizabethan English.

Postoffice Inspector Robert Lewis, who investigated the Hartzell case in England, was on the witness stand most of the day.

PRICE REDUCTIONS ON SEAGRAM'S FAMOUS WHISKIES

You get every penny of Tariff Saving — AND MORE!

A Statement of Policy from the House of Seagram

In the spirit of international goodwill and cooperation evidenced by the recent Tariff Treaty, Seagram fulfils its obligation by passing on to the consumer the full benefit of tariff reductions. For this Seagram claims no credit. It is its duty to the American public.

But Seagram has gone much further. In furtherance of that same spirit of goodwill, Seagram has made substantial additional reductions in price in order to make the luxury of these finer whiskies available at prices so reasonable that they come within the reach of the great body of the American public.

CAPT. COLWELL, VETERAN HERO OF NAVY, DIES AT 79

Participated in Rescue of Greely Expedition.

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Capt. John Charles Colwell, whose long service in the United States navy included such colorful exploits as the rescuing of the Greely expedition in the arctic and the halting of the Cuban revolution of 1904, died today at the age of 79 years at the home of his son, Kent G. Colwell, at Morristown, N. J. He will be buried in the Arlington National cemetery at 11 a. m. Thursday.

Himself a hero, Capt. Colwell was the son of a hero. His father, Capt. James S. Colwell of the Union army, died leading his company into action at the battle of Antietam. The younger Capt. Colwell was born at Carlisle, Pa. He entered Annapolis and was commissioned on his graduation in 1874.

Present at Greely Rescue.

In 1883 and 1884 he was a member of expeditions dispatched to rescue Greely and his expedition marooned in the arctic. Capt. Colwell's ship was sunk in the ice on the first attempt. The second succeeded, and he was present when Greely, then a lieutenant, was found with the remnant of his command at Camp Clay, Ellesmere Island.

During the Spanish-American war Capt. Colwell served as naval attaché at London and Paris.

In 1904, when the Cuban revolution was at its height, Capt. Colwell sailed the U. S. S. Denver into Havana harbor. Both the government and revolutionary forces offered to surrender to him, but Capt. Colwell declined, saying that he did not have authority to accept any surrender, but he persuaded the rival factions to declare an armistice.

Palma Government Deposed.

Secretary of War Taft and Assistant Secretary Bacon arrived at Havana and sought to settle the trouble. Mr. Taft was at first inclined to favor the government forces but regretted that he could not hear the other side. Capt. Colwell invited the revolutionary leaders aboard the Denver, where they discussed the revolt with Mr. Taft. As a result the American secretary deposed the Don Tomas Palma government.

Capt. Colwell was retired in 1910.

SUES TO REALLOT SON'S SHARE OF KUBIN $1,000,000

Suit to construe the will of Otto Kubin, former president of the Atlas Brewing company, who died in 1929 leaving an estate estimated at $1,000,000 in trust to his widow and five children, was filed in Circuit court yesterday in behalf of Adelaide Kubin of New York City, a daughter.

The bill asks the court to instruct the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee, to apply $30,000 now held as the share of Robert Kubin, a son, as well as other sums due him in the future, against notes totaling $105,056 which the son signed in favor of the estate.

The money, according to the bill, was due the estate for securities which Robert Kubin was alleged to have wrongfully taken from a safety deposit box of his father and dissipated. Named as defendants in the suit are the widow, Mrs. Vlasta J. Kubin of the Knickerbocker hotel, and the other heirs.

Find Prignano's Estate Valued at Only $700

State Representative Albert J. Prignano, who was murdered Dec. 29 in front of his home at 722 Bunker street, left an estate valued at only $700, it was disclosed yesterday. The widow, Mrs. Jean Prignano, and her attorney, Samuel A. Rinella, appeared before Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge, and obtained letters of administration for the estate as Prignano did not leave a will. The police are holding Santo Verrusso, alias Angelo Lazzia, as the principal suspect in the murder. He was sent to the County hospital under police guard yesterday. He has a stomach ailment.

Mrs. Albert Marquis Dies; Wife of Who's Who Editor

Funeral services for Mrs. Harriette Gettemy Marquis, wife of Albert N. Marquis, editor of "Who's Who in America," who died Monday night, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of the First Congregational church of Evanston. Interment will be in Rosehill cemetery. Mrs. Marquis, who was 65 years old, died at the Evanston hospital. She lived at 1500 Forest avenue, Evanston. Mrs. Marquis was born in Monmouth, Ill., and graduated from Monmouth college.

Joseph Richard, Ottawa Clothing Merchant, Dies

Joseph Richard, 68 years old, a clothing merchant in Ottawa, Ill., for the last twenty-five years, died in the Presbyterian hospital here yesterday after a short illness. He is survived by his widow, Bessie, and three children. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the chapel at 7206 Stony Island avenue. Burial will be in Jewish Waldheim cemetery.

L. E. Spellman Dies; Liquor Dealers' Chief

Larchmont, N. Y., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Louis E. Spellman, who was elected president of the National Wholesale Wine and Liquor Dealers' association two months ago, died tonight in his home here. His age was 63.

Robert Fletcher, 88, Dies; Head of Engineering School

Hanover, N. H., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Prof. Robert Fletcher, 88, director emeritus of the Thayer school of civil engineering at Dartmouth college, died today of pneumonia.

27 LOSE LIVES AS GALES SWEEP NORTH EUROPE

Hurricane on Irish Sea Claims 14.

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Twenty-seven persons were known dead tonight in shipwrecks at sea and accidents in northern Europe since Sunday. France was ravaged by floods.

It was feared the death toll in the Irish sea, where a hurricane struck over the week-end, may be at least a dozen more because of reports of the disappearance of coastal vessels.

Ten died in the foundering of the drifter Shore Breeze, three were killed aboard the Blue Funnel liner Ulysses by a big wave, and one person was washed from the fishing boat Feasible, all in the Irish sea.

Transport Wrecked.

Nine were drowned off Hangoe, Finland, when a military transport was wrecked. Four were drowned near Hamburg, Germany, in the collision of a tug and a launch.

The coastal steamer Dromaine, which took on a pilot off Newcastle, Northern Ireland, Sunday, and has not been seen since, is believed lost with a dozen men aboard.

Flooded rivers menaced hundreds of cities and towns in France. There was only boat trafic in the streets of Nantes, where the River Loire was at its highest since 1910. Lyon and Avignon were inundated by the water of the Rhone.

Halt Barge Trafic.

Parisian authorities halted all barge trafic in the Seine, where floods destroyed produce piled on wharves. A mild flooding of some inland parts of England was not serious, but more rain was predicted.

The liner Pearlmoor, which sent out an S O S from the Irish sea Sunday, reached Barry, Wales, safely. The Cunard-White Star liner Ausonia reached Tilbury docks, Essex, although she was reported by the Exchange telegraph agency to have sent out S O S messages last night.

AID FOR CHICAGO HEART DISEASE SUFFERERS TOLD

Heart disease does not necessarily mean sudden death, as the layman sometimes supposes, and there are many sources of livelihood for the partially disabled cardiac patient, Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, executive secretary of the Chicago Heart association, said last night in her annual report to the association in the Picadilly studios, 410 South Michigan avenue. "The persons afflicted with heart disease often live long and useful lives," she said.

Dr. Robert B. Preble, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Dr. Don Sutton, Dr. Italo F. Volini, and Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan were reelected directors of the association. Dr. G. K. Fenn, Dr. C. C. Maher, and Dr. Philip Rosenblum were elected new directors.

Valentine seals, the sale of which finances the activities of the association, are available at its office, 203 North Wabash avenue.

JOSEPH ZIMMERS' FUNERAL SERVICE TO BE TOMORROW

Funeral services for Joseph B. Zimmers, 61 years old, 6901 Oglesby avenue, secretary-treasurer of the Herron-Zimmers Molding company, who died on Monday in a Milwaukee hospital, will be held tomorrow morning from the chapel at 7659 Jeffrey avenue to St. Philip Neri church. Burial will be in Holy Sepulchre cemetery. Mr. Zimmers had lived in Chicago thirty years. He was a member of the Calumet council, Knights of Columbus, and of the South Shore and Olympic Field Country clubs. Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Wilma Miller Zimmers; a son, John Henry, and a daughter, Mrs. Joan O'Neil.

Mrs. Helen Rhodes, Song Composer, Dies in London

LONDON, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Rhodes, Franco-British composer, died here today. She was 78 years old. Mrs. Rhodes, whose professional name was "Guy d'Hardelot," in 1896 accompanied Mme. Calve to America on a six months tour. Since she had resided in London. Besides songs in French she composed "Little Boy Blue," "Say Yes," "I Know a Lovely Garden," "A Song in My Heart," and "Two Little Shoes."

KILL THAT COLD

Give It No Chance to Survive Thru the Use of Half-way Measures!

Treat a cold to kill it, not to coddle it!

Many a cold lightly treated turns into something worse.

Hit a cold "where it lives"—in the system! That means to take an internal treatment.

Hit it with a cold medicine, not with a preparation good for all kinds of ailments.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment you want.

First of all, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for colds.

Second, it is internal medication and of fourfold effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in the treatment of a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

That's the fourfold treatment a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet.

Adopt the course of wisdom. When a cold threatens, waste no time with makeshift remedies, but go at once to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets immediately, two at a time, every four hours.

Used in time, Bromo Quinine tablets will often stop a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed of action you want.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Every drug store sells Bromo Quinine at small cost. Be sure you get what you ask for.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Loretta Lee will soon enjoy the distinction of being the first radio songstress having sponsored programs on all three networks—W-G-N-Mutual, NBC, and CBS. This daughter of a New Orleans jurist has been featured this season with Isham Jones' orchestra on the W-G-N-MBS "Good Evening Serenade." Lately she has been singing with Al Goodman on the "Hit Parade" on NBC, and she is to sing with Carl Hoff's orchestra on a second edition of "Hit Parade," to be launched over CBS. Odd thing about it is that before Oct. 1, 1935, Loretta had never appeared on a commercial show. Radio is funny that way!

Helen Hayes has earned herself the monicker "radio rebel" at NBC headquarters for her defense of "dead air" which has been strictly taboo in major league broadcasting circles for some time. The term does not refer to stale atmosphere but rather to those empty moments when simply nothing comes out of the loud speaker.

"Brief pauses on the stage are often more effective than the most dramatic lines," Miss Hayes explained. "Brief silence has been the stepchild of radio heretofore, but now that I have my own show I hope to gain recognition for it."

NBC had an unexpected stretch of accidental "dead air" on WMAQ Monday evening at 7:30. The engineers made an error, piping Nelson Eddy out over WLS-NBC for about two minutes instead of WMAQ. Thus the Pickens sisters were crowded off the air altogether for a brief interval and stony silence held sway on WMAQ.

A Hollywood concern is negotiating with Wayne King for his services in a picture tentatively titled "The Waltz King." The Waltz King, incidentally, expects a crown [or perhaps croon] prince before summer. The Kings have a daughter approaching the age of 3, Penelope, whom they call Penny.

Fred Waring has decided to keep Snoonie, his whimsical girl interrupter, on his program for some time to come. Thus there will be both cheering and wailing among you listeners. . . . There's a new team on the air: Morton Downey and Budd Hulick, late of Stoopnagle and Budd. Downey does the singing and Hulick runs the orchestra on those 11 p. m. Monday and Friday broadcasts over CBS from Downey's night club in New York. Downey will be a guest of Paul Whiteman next Sunday night, too.

Horace Heidt has had a sort of Horatio Alger rise since he came to Chicago. Comparatively unknown locally when he arrived here last May, he will get $7,500 for playing one week at the Chicago theater, starting St. Valentine's day. That's what radio does. . . . Judge John Gutknecht of Trafic court, who presides over those WBBM Trafic court broadcasts, revealed yesterday that he averages about 400 fan letters a week and that he employs a full time secretary to handle all correspondence in connection with his broadcasting activities. . . . Phillips Lord's new "Gang Busters series," which Clara, Lu 'n' Em's sponsor is to pay for, will be aired over CBS beginning at nine next Wednesday night.

Jack Hylton has been so busy with his broadcasting activities and one-night stands that he hasn't yet had time to visit the network headquarters in New York city. Last night, however, he started off for a 48 hour sightseeing jaunt to the east. He will return Friday.

DR. N. P. COLWELL DIES; A VETERAN MEDICAL LEADER

Dr. Nathan Porter Colwell, 65 years old, 520 Gregory avenue, Wilmette, medical leader who had practiced in Chicago for more than 30 years, died at home of a cerebral hemorrhage Monday after an illness of three weeks.

From 1906 until he was retired in 1931 Dr. Colwell had been secretary of the council on medical education of the American Medical association. Since 1931 he had been devoting part of his time to preparing a history of medical education.

Born in Osceola, Ia., Dr. Colwell graduated in 1900 from the Rush Medical college and immediately entered practice, also serving several years as an associate instructor and assistant dean in the college. He married Miss Agnes Louise Peterson of Chicago in 1903. She and their son, Nathan Jr., and daughter, Mrs. Ethel Florence Carlson of Chicago, survive.

From 1913 to 1930 Dr. Colwell was a collaborator with the United States bureau of education. From 1915 until his retirement he was managing editor of the Federation Bulletin of the Federation of State Medical Boards of the United States.

Besides belonging to the American Medical association, Dr. Colwell also held memberships in the Chicago and Illinois medical societies, and the Chicago Institute of Medicine. He was a member of the University club, and of the Alpha Omega Alpha fraternity of the University of Pennsylvania.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow in the First Congregational church in Wilmette. Burial will be in Mount Olive cemetery.

JOHN E. HELMUS, RETIRED ARMY OFFICER, IS DEAD

John Edward Helmus, 62 years old, who served thirty-five years in the regular army before his retirement as a lieutenant colonel on Feb. 28, 1935, died of pneumonia last night at his home, 8752 South Ada street. Lieut. Col. Helmus served in the Spanish-American war, the Philippine insurrection, and the world war. He was born in Louisville, Ky.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Helen L. Helmus; a daughter, Jean L. Helmus, and a sister, Mrs. May Hoertz. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the chapel at 63d street and Harvard avenue, with the William B. Warren Masonic lodge in charge. Burial will be in Oak Woods cemetery.

Fred M. Brown, 71, Dies Aboard Suburban Train

Fred M. Brown, 71 years old, 5723 Kimbark avenue, a department manager for the Edward Hines Lumber company, died suddenly yesterday of a heart attack on an Illinois Central suburban train, from which his body was removed at the 56th street station. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mabel Hulme Brown, and three daughters. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in the United church of Hyde Park. Burial will be in Forest Home cemetery.

Colors in New Prints Score Style Success

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Hunting for prints or printed daytime dresses that can be worn immediately is a favorite shopping recreation right now! We sleuthed about and discovered a grand new collection of dresses that are new and defintly different. Small patterns and startling and refreshing color contrasts make them real finds.

Every one who craves blue and green get-togethers is going to cheer for this collection, for some of the best looking blue and green prints of the season are to be found in both one and two piece models.

There is one print of tiny twin green leaves spaced widely against navy blue. As for new patterns, look for the number "six" outfit, made of rustling silk paper taffeta in two pieces. The background color is wine red and white sixes are scattered all over it. The skirt is fine plaited and the long tunic blouse top is plain but made with a dashing flare to the long peplum of the top. Another numerical maze is in a print covered with 1936 in varying colors against a dark background.

Another unusual model is of dull red with tiny three leaf clovers in chartreuse green. The outfit is plaited from shoulder seam to hemline. The sleeves are short, a new venture for in-between season clothes.

Two piece ensembles with a plain one color skirt have perky little fitted jackets of print to match the short sleeved top of the plain skirt. There is a clever black and emerald green duet, featuring a dark skirt, a splashing green and black printed silk top and the ruffled long sleeved outer jacket.

And unless you are completely immune to what's high fashion, don't buy a new dress unless it boasts plaits and plenty of them. Printed and plaited, the newest and smartest of daytime clothes are just what you need for a winter wardrobe that has lost its freshness.

Fashion photograph . . . a linen suit for resort wardrobes in smart pale gray trimmed with yellow linen lacings, matching buttons and ascot scarf. Accessories can be either yellow or white or dark gray. This outfit is available in a Chicago shop.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

We could weep when we see women who don't make the most of their eyes. We wouldn't for the world want all the women in it to waltz around with beaded lashes and slathers of vivid shadow, but we always will maintain that a bit of discreet eye makeup does more for the average face than any beauty aid save perhaps lipstick.

Eyebrow grooming does wonders, too. Not plucking to a thin, harassed line, you understand, but simply making the most of the natural line. Messy brows make a face look grimy in some mysterious fashion; shaping and clearing the space just above the nose spruces up the entire facial effect.

We entreat every woman we meet who passes up the beautifying advantages of eye makeup just to try it; converts are easy because the effect is thoroughly successful about nine times out of ten. "Paleness" about the eyes, by which we mean the effect when eyes are not striking, is a beauty ill of which you're apt to be unconscious until the great day when you dissipate it.

Use mascara by all means if the lashes are colorless, and don't be completely wary of shadow. A tiny bit, deftly blended and in the right shade, is in perfect taste and plenty attractive to boot. Your mascara can be brown or black if you're conservative; after the start you can work into such exciting shades as amethyst, jade green, or Persian blue. These last, by the way, aren't as flamboyant as you might expect.

The newest mascara trick is to use two shades in the combinations that work out best for the individual. Blackened lashes with the faintest suggestion of green on the tips is supposed to be very tosh; so is brown topped with blue. Try it some time.

Roosevelts to Hold Reception Tomorrow for Supreme Court

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The nine Supreme court justices, all of whom ruled against NRA and six of whom in their AAA decision yesterday foiled again another presidential project, will be the guests in honor of whom President and Mrs. Roosevelt will hold on Thursday night the second of the four state receptions annually given at the White House.

Led by Chief Justice Hughes, who concurred in the decision read yesterday by Justice Roberts, the members of the Supreme court, accompanied by their wives, will "lead the line" as usual at Thursday's judiciary reception.

Two smart new dresses you can knit

The height of fashion—yet quick, simple knitting jobs—are the two-piece dresses described by Jean MacDonald, Tribune knitting editor, in the Women's Section of next Sunday's Tribune.

Both dresses are shown in color, after photographs specially posed in the Tribune color studio.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

How the male—AND the female—of the species are going to go for this!

For "Captain Blood" is built of the sort of red-blooded, romantic adventure stuff that the whole world loves!

The picture, based on the novel by Rafael Sabatini, details the history of Dr. Peter Blood, who, desiring nothing so much as peace and the opportunity of serving his fellow man, is, by strange fate, transformed into the greatest pirate of his day, and, flying the Jolly Roger, sails the high seas, his hand against all men and all men's hands [so he believes] against him.

Events transpire in the days when England was ruled [and like to be ruined] by rascally James II., and the picture deals smashingly with the Monmouth uprising, the West Indies, where tyrants tortured their slaves, and the Spanish main, where that gay, brainy, gallant and indomitable Irishman, Dr. Blood, and his loyal company of escaped slaves sail the seas in their commandeered pirate craft and desperately and swashbucklingly carve precarious fortunes.

The story opens with the sight of Dr. Blood attending strictly to business in England, where he has established a practice. He answers a night call—and is seized, falsely accused, and convicted of treason. . . . He, with the men whose leader he later becomes, are shipped to Port Royal as slaves. . . .

Here the interest of cruel Col. Bishop's lovely niece Arabella saves him from hard labor, and his own skill makes him indispensable to the gout-ridden governor of the isle. His brain—and the personal magnetism which makes him master wherever he goes . . . turn the trick of a most spectacular escape. . . .

This Errol Flynn! The young Irishman Lily Damita married! Where, O where has he been keeping himself all our movie lives! One of the handsomest things you ever saw on two legs, alannas, and, dear me, what an actor!

His is a positively electrical personality, charged, among other things, with a flashing humor. Loving or fighting, he has what it takes. His tender scenes with Olivia De Havilland are fascinatingly romantic—and his duel with that picturesque rival pirate commander, Capt. Levasseur, over the same lady is one that will set your pulses pounding.

The cast supporting the amazing Mr. Flynn is the answer to an astute producer's prayer. Director Curtiz handled his crew with rare intelligence and proved himself a master of both mass effects and detail. The sea battle between warring pirateers is too long drawn out, I thought, but it is so colorful—so entirely thrilling—that I make the criticism half-heartedly.

Dialog is racy and punchful, and there's a swing and zest about the whole production that's irresistible.

See you tomorrow.

Salon—
1936 Recamier—
Notice.

WHEN a young woman dropped in at a small gathering recently and engaged the hostess in a whispered conversation, a passage in a book about Mme. Recamier criticizing this very practice came to mind. A description of the manner in which Mme. Recamier conducted her salon, as described in an anonymous book published in 1861, follows:

"Tête-à-têtes in a low voice were entirely discouraged. If any of the younger habitués took this liberty they received a gentle chiding in a real tête-à-tête when everybody had gone. There were generally from six to twelve persons. Mme. Recamier sat on one side of the fireplace, the others round in a circle. Two or three stood against the chimney piece and spoke loud enough to be heard by all. Whoever had an observation to make contributed it to the common stock. Mme. Recamier spoke little, but threw in an occasional word; or if a new person entered who happened to know anything of the subject going on she would instantly question him, that the others might be aware of it; otherwise it was his place to try and understand. If any one in the circle was likely to have any special knowledge she would appeal to him with an air of deference; if he chanced to be unknown and shy, her manner raised his spirits. Some, who before they frequented the Abbaye could only talk to one or two persons, soon learnt to put their ideas into the compact form fitted for several. The number who were thus drawn into the conversation secured this advantage that talking of the weather or one's health, or any other egoistical topic, could scarcely be indulged in for long. Sometimes a chance visitor would come in. If a lady, she would sit down by Mme. Recamier and in a low voice tell her something extremely unworthy of so much mystery. Meantime the circular conversation was going on and Mme. Recamier could not attend to it. On one occasion of this sort, after the lady was gone, she complained of having lost the thread; some one said of the whisperer, 'No doubt it was from timidity.' 'When people are too timid to speak they should be modest enough to listen' was her answer—which ought to become an axiom."

* *

A LADY of our acquaintance, having read the book, decided to conduct a small social evening as much like Mme. Recamier did as possible. She invited in a few of the French intellectuals of the town, and Fernand Leger, the famous painter of abstractions, was among her guests. She felt the evening was turning out a complete success and that she was a 1936 Mme. Recamier, but was astounded when the elevator man told her that three times the tenant below had complained of the noise in her apartment.

Dancers Rebel at Film Ban on Leg Pictures

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The agreement by which the larger film studios a year ago stopped taking bathing suit pictures of their young contract actresses has not been wholly satisfactory to the girls. A bunch of the good looking youngsters who are under contract at Twentieth Century-Fox, many of them as dancers, have the following to say, with Dixie Dunbar and Shirley Deane as spokeswomen:

"Marlene Dietrich still has photographs taken showing her legs. Marlene Dietrich is a great star. Are Marlene's legs better looking than some of the girls in our group? Then why can't we have our photographs taken, too?"

Miss Dunbar, who is light footing her way from dancing jobs to a more prominent station as a film featured player, says: "There is nothing in itself immodest about having your legs shown when it is part of your profession as a dancer. When such photographs are taken in good taste and without attendant vulgarity it aids a girl in furthering her career as a dancer. It proves she has charm."

Arline Judge and Rochelle Hudson, both of whom have made the successful climb from dancers to leading women, sided with Miss Dunbar. So did Alice Faye. They said such photographs hadn't hurt them a bit in getting ahead in films.

Helen Laughlin, dean of women at the University of California at Los Angeles, agreed to act as technical adviser on college sequences in Producer Goldwyn's film, "These Three," but she accepted with these words: "It's about time somebody taught the movies how to present an American college as a real college instead of a madhouse."

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Elbert Faust of 1425 Davis street, Evanston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean, to Samuel Mahon of Ottumwa, Ia., son of Mrs. John Keith Mahon. Miss Faust attended the Maywood School for Girls and Northwestern university. Mr. Mahon was graduated from Swarthmore college. The wedding is planned for the spring.

The Stage

A revival of Ibsen's drama, "Ghosts," recently staged in the east with Mme. Nazimova in the rôle of Mrs. Alving, will come to the Erlanger theater on Monday, Jan. 20, under the sponsorship of the American Theater society. The engagement will be for two weeks only. It will be followed on Feb. 3 by Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in "The Taming of the Shrew," whose engagement also will be limited to two weeks.

Mrs. Atterbury Connelly Is Bride of W. W. Keith

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The marriage of Mrs. Elizabeth Atterbury Connelly and Walter Winchester Keith was announced today. The ceremony took place yesterday. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. W. W. Atterbury of Radnor, Pa., and the late Gen. Atterbury, former president of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The marriage license showed she was a divorcée. Keith was divorced last summer from his second wife, Mrs. Edith McCormick McAdoo Keith. He previously was married to Miss Florence Montgomery of Cleveland, O.

WEDDING

At 10:30 o'clock this morning in St. Mary's of the Lake church Miss Marian Cecile Grupe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Grupe of 4300 Lake Shore drive, will become the bride of Frank J. Hagarty Jr., son of Frank J. Hagarty of the Edgewater Beach hotel. A large reception and breakfast will follow immediately after the ceremony at the Edgewater Beach hotel, and Mr. Hagarty and his bride will leave afterwards for California to be away until Feb. 1. Among those present at the wedding will be the mayor of St. Louis, Bernard F. Dickmann, and the mayor of Kansas City, Mo., Bryce B. Smith.

Mrs. Gordon Kenneth Bishop of New York will attend her sister as matron of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Nancy O'Brien, Mrs. Jane Loftus, and Miss Kathryn Kearns. Bertram Loftus will serve Mr. Hagarty as best man and ushering will be Edward Bertrand, J. P. O'Connor, and Bert Fisher.

Season's Debs Enjoy a Rest from Parties

Pauline Palmer and Parents Going to London.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHAT does a debutante do when the debutante season is over is a question that one hears frequently, especially at this time of year. There is no stock answer, for she may do any one of several things: go back to her studies, go away for a rest, stay at home and rest [buds always feel that there is nothing to do at home but rest after the holidays], or take up some sort of cultural or charitable activity.

One of this year's crop is busy learning the art of housewifery, the former Mary Armstrong, for she now is Mrs. Arthur Clayson Swallow Jr. of Milwaukee. Their elopement to Crown Point three days after Christmas provided a romantic thrill such as Alice Bradley and William Davey provided a year ago when they startled every one by eloping to Waukegan four days after Christmas.

Miss Pauline Palmer, the Potter Palmers' debutante, is going to England to see the marvelous exhibition of Chinese art now on display at Burlington house in London. This remarkable collection, the finest of the sort ever assembled, is well worth a trip to England if one is interested in Chinese art, say all the critics, and Miss Palmer will have the opportunity of seeing it under the tutelage of two students of the art of China, for her mother and father both are collectors of Chinese antiquities and know a great deal about them. Mr. Palmer, in fact, has sent several rare specimens of pottery to the London exhibit.

Russell Tyson, Miss Kate Buckingham, and the collection of the late Edward Sonnenschein of Glencoe also are represented in the Burlington house collection.

Miss Palmer and her parents are leaving Chicago Saturday to sail next week and they plan to spend five or six weeks in London, so the debutante will have a liberal education in Chinese art before she returns to Chicago, for the Palmers do not plan to visit any other country on this trip and they will concentrate on the exhibition in Burlington house.

Joan McArthur Goes to Florida.

Miss Joan McArthur, the Selim W. McArthur's debutante, left yesterday for Sanibel Island, Fla., where she will pursue her special studies in marine biology, part of her work at Bennington. It is safe to say that in Florida, no matter how hard she tries to be serious, the days could not be all work and no play for Miss McArthur. She may stop in Washington and New York, on her way back to college in Vermont next month, to visit the collections in museums in the two cities. Chicago will not see Miss McArthur again until next fall for she will go directly from Bennington to Mackinac Island where her parents have a home, and where they usually spend the summers.

Miss Peggy Clow, daughter of the Kent S. Clows, is resting at home. Her mother left for Palm Springs, Cal., yesterday, taking the Clows' youngest child, to be away for ten days. Another Lake Forest debutante, Miss Clarice Hamill, also is at home. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Hamill, have no plans for the remainder of the winter.

Miss Valeria Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, went back to Mt. Vernon Seminary Junior college yesterday and her parents are leaving in two weeks for Jamaica. Mr. and Mrs. Harris plan to spend two months on the island.

Mary Wood Will Visit Honolulu.

Miss Mary Wood and her mother, Mrs. Robert E. Wood, are going to Honolulu late this month or early next month, but several other debutantes are not quite as lucky, for the only plans they have for the present, at least, are to remain here in Chi-

Rosemary Kemper at Smith

Miss Rosemary Kemper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Kemper, has returned to her studies at Smith college after the gay Christmas holiday vacation, spent with her family in Winnetka. Miss Kemper made her formal bow to society at a tea early last fall. The engagement of Miss Eleanor Kirkland to Miss Kemper's brother, James S. Kemper Jr., was announced during the holidays.

Laughs Greet Film Bernhardt Made to Insure Immortality

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Sarah Bernhardt, playing Queen Elizabeth in a motion picture which she had described as representing "my one chance for immortality," was exhibited here today and won roars of amusement in her most tragic scenes.

The picture, made in 1911, formed part of the first program of a survey of the history of the motion picture circulated by the Museum of Modern Art Film Library.

Described as an exhibition of "primitives," the program included a peepshow version of the execution of Mary Queen of Scots, a brief comedy of wash day troubles, an incomplete film version of "Faust," and two movies which after thirty years still are hailed as fine examples of the art. The last two are the George Melies 1902 production of "A Trip to the Moon," and "The Great Train Robbery," made in 1903 by the Edison company, with "Bronco Billy" Anderson.

I'll Never Tell

By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

Julius Saranack is murdered in his home, Hillfoot, in Callingham, England. Eight uncut diamonds of no great value are missing. Two days previously Torrance Esdale, childhood sweetheart of Gerald Saranack, the murdered man's nephew, had appealed to her American boss, Hartlandt Massiter, to give Gerald an engineering job in Mexico. Gerald is expected back from Spain in two days. Massiter tells Torrance the job to be filled requires a married man. Though they had quarreled before he left, Torrance writes Gerald her plans for their marriage.

INSTALMENT III.

JILTED.

Torrance sealed the envelope—thought of addressing it to his club. But perhaps he would not go to his club on his way through London. However, he would be certain to go straight to Uncle Julius.

"Gerald Saranack, Esq., care of Julius Saranack, Esq., Hillfoot, Landkey road, Callingham, Kent."

She slipped downstairs and put it in the hotel post box, knowing the afternoon post had gone. But it would get to Callingham long before Thursday morning.

"Excuse me, miss, Mr. Massiter says to say he's having dinner quietly in his own room, miss, and will you please consider yourself at liberty until tomorrow midday."

Torrance was amused. Nothing, apparently, could convince her romantically minded employer that she was not feeling all bridey and fluttery and that she was never much given to day dreams, anyhow. Or did he think she would like a few hours off to buy a trousseau?

"I can see about letting my flat," reflected Torrance practically. "I'll write to Garman & Tuly and tell them the tenant can come in at the end of the month. Or would Mr. Massiter think that too cold-blooded?"

When Torrance took the midday letters out to her employer on the terrace next morning she expected a return to a purely business atmosphere, but Mr. Hartlandt K. Massiter—though he dealt ably with his correspondence—seemed more concerned with her future than his own.

"You know you've got me worried," he confessed, pacing up and down in the pale winter sunshine. "I lay awake half last night wondering what you'll say to me if I don't find this young man of yours suitable, after all."

"I shall apologize to you for wasting your time and to Gerald for obtaining a husband on false pretenses, and I shall get on with my job."

"Then there's another thing. Whom have you two children to turn to if I fire you, out there in Mexico?"

"Well, there's Gerald's Uncle Julius. Old Julius Saranack. He hasn't much money, but he'd give us board and lodging till Gerald got something else."

"Mr. Julius Saranack. I know the name, surely? Not wealthy, did you say? Odd. I thought—O, well, if he is behind you you will not be entirely without friends, should the need arise!"

"But you won't fire Gerald for anything to do with mining machinery. He's perfectly wonderful——"

"So I have already inferred. But I might sell out next week."

"O, but you mustn't! . . . You wouldn't really play a trick like that, would you, Mr. Massiter?"

"Certainly not, Miss Esdale! My one purpose in life is to see this matrimonial venture well on its feet. Why, I haven't been interested in a wedding for years! I just can't tolerate its being so quiet, though. Almost secret. I want you to let me——"

"O, will you be my witness?" cut in Torrance, circumventing the offer of a long and costly wedding feast. "I should like that immensely. I was wondering who to ask. Gerald will have Uncle Julius, of course, but I——"

"What's the matter, Miss Esdale?"

"Nothing," she answered excitedly. "Only here is Uncle Julius—standing by the steps there. I wired him yesterday—I'm afraid he's mistaken the date and thinks the wedding is this morning. How furious he'll be! May I introduce him? He's a type of the grand old school and you'll like him."

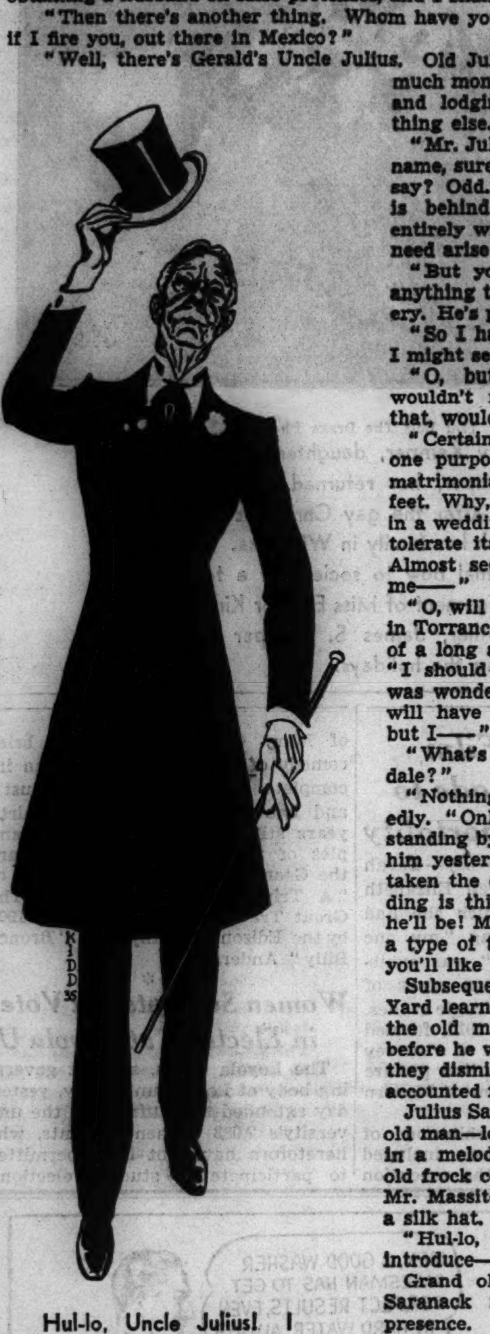
Subsequently, of course, Scotland Yard learned all about this visit of the old man to Torquay—the day before he was murdered. But, oddly, they dismissed it as "satisfactorily accounted for."

Julius Saranack was a picturesque old man—looking like a retired judge in a melodrama. He wore a rusty old frock coat and, as Torrance and Mr. Massiter approached, he raised a silk hat.

"Hul-lo, Uncle Julius! I want to introduce——"

Grand old school or not, Julius Saranack ignored the American's presence.

"What's all this, Torrance? What's all this? Here you and Gerald have been engaged for years and now he suddenly writes me that he has married some English girl in Spain. What's it mean? Eh?"



Hul-lo, Uncle Julius! I want to introduce——

Mr. Massiter walked right on into the hotel.

"I don't believe it."

"If you are going to faint," urged Uncle Julius unhappily, "should you not come inside? There is nowhere to sit down here—and it is too cold for me to stand about at this time of year. . . . The news nearly made me faint myself, Torrance. I am still, I think, considerably dazed. That Gerald should marry any one but you——"

"I don't believe it."

"That is what I felt. At first I concluded you must have quarreled with him—dismissed him. He must, I thought, at least have believed himself free. Then, less than an hour later, I received your telegram, inviting me to—well, well, I received your telegram. What happened, eh? When did you see Gerald last? How did you part?"

"What you want is a clinging, fluffy little thing who'd keep on telling you what a marvel you are" . . . "Perhaps you're right. Perhaps that is what you want." . . . "Then go and find her!" . . . "Perhaps I will."

"We must either go inside or walk up and down for a while, Torrance. I cannot risk a chill. I suggest going inside. You do not look able to walk."

"I'm all right. Honestly, I'm not going to faint."

She jerked away from him to the stone balustrade and leaned against it. She wasn't even going to scream or cry or curse. She was seeing the whole of their life together—hers and Gerald's as though she were drowning. She was conscious so far only of a vast and rushing surprise. She felt as though she had fared out to sea in a fine stout ship and seen it crumble to rotten timber and founder under her feet, and that within sight of port.

"I don't believe it."

"Walk up and down with me, Torrance. The movement may restore your self-control. Shall I send for some brandy?"

She shook her head and fell into step with the old man. Up and down the terrace they walked in heavy silence.

"I don't believe it."

Uncle Julius was peering at her anxiously. It was a pity she could not think of anything else to say but that which was the stark truth—she could not yet believe that Gerald had taken her at her word and married some one else. Later on she would come to accept it, no doubt, but in the meantime Uncle Julius was losing patience. He was always impatient when he was bewildered and hurt and sorry.

"There doesn't seem much use in discussing it, Uncle Julius. I admit Gerald and I quarreled just before he left for Spain, but we so often had—arguments. I didn't take them seriously. Apparently he did."

"I shall alter my will! I shall disinherit the young fool! There will be very little over by the time the death duties are paid, of course, but that little shall be yours. I will teach him to insult you—to insult me——"

"Dear, it's absurd to take that attitude! Gerald's of age and can earn his own living—he must be allowed to marry whoever he likes. Besides, it's not fair to the girl. She's sure to be—our sort—if Gerald—loves her. You'll get to like her. You'll end by agreeing that she makes him a better wife than I should have done. Some men are genuinely happier with the fluffy, clinging type——"

"How d'you know anything about her type? Have you met this girl?"

"No. I was guessing."

"A good guess. I did not read all he had to say—too utterly taken aback—but I did see something about her being stranded in some isolated Spanish village; penniless governess, I understand, and turned to him for help and protection. Felt she really needed him. That kind of thing."

"Yes. He'd—respond to that."

"He is bringing her to Hillfoot on Thursday. I have wired the servants to be back by tomorrow—that is Wednesday—night. And I shall go down some time tomorrow and talk to my lawyer-fellow."

Mrs. Garner Wears Chinese Costume at Senate Ladies' Party

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. John N. Garner became a social sensation today when she donned her Chinese costume to receive Mrs. Roosevelt and the cabinet wives at the first senate ladies' luncheon. The gorgeous oriental garb is high necked, slender lined, and slashed of skirt.

The gown was a gift of Mrs. H. H. Kuh, wife of China's minister of finance, to Mrs. Garner on the recent oriental trip. So artistically was the black satin embroidered that even the little buttons of the frogs holding its high neck were rosebuds.

The youngest senate wife present was the bride of last autumn, Mrs. William McAdoo, wearing a trim black suit, touched with white, small hat with a suggestion of a veil.

Dewes; and Miss Husband is Mrs. Robert Stevenson's daughter. Miss Hutchins is the debutante in the James C. Hutchins family.

Miss Frances Glore returned to New York on Monday to resume her studies at Miss Hourigan's. The day before she left Mrs. T. Philip Swift gave her a luncheon and skating party as a farewell.

Miss Barbara Morse is another Lake Forest debutante who has returned to school, but there is a sad tale to be told about her older sister, Miss Priscilla, who made her debut last year. Priscilla got scarlet fever a week or two before Christmas and has been in a contagious diseases hospital ever since. She is returning to the Morses' home next Monday, so during her convalescence she will be able to see her friends. Miss Barbara is a student at Sarah Lawrence.

Barbara Barnhart Studies Painting.

Among those who have resumed their studies at home is Miss Barbara Barnhart whose ability in oils and water colors grows as she completes each picture at the Ropp studios. Miss Barnhart studied painting for two summers in Lake Forest and when she moved in town last fall she continued with her classes, and her mother, Mrs. Wilder Barnhart, is only one of several who are interested in the budding artist's work. The Barnhart apartment in East Walton place is filled with easels, crayons and paints for the debutante's younger brother, Russell, who is in the third grade at the Boys' Latin, shares his sister's enthusiasm.

Miss Barnhart is going to cooking school as well as art school.

Miss Ellen Allen, the Porter Allens' attractive daughter, is marking time at home until Feb. 1 when she and her parents will go to Delray, Fla., for two months. The S. Edwin Earles are planning to go south to Tryon, N. C., in a few weeks where they will remain through spring vacation and where their debutante daughter, Miss Elsie Earle, will join them for her school holiday. Miss Earle will be graduated next June from Sarah Lawrence.

Mary Alice Bacon Plans Visit in East.

Miss Nancy Bastien, the Alvin E. Bastien's debutante; Miss Mary Alice Bacon and Miss Nancy Forgan all are at home for the next few weeks at least. Miss Bacon, daughter of the Edward Richardson Bacons, is leaving Feb. 1 for Boston to spend ten days with her sister, Mrs. Charles Porter Atherton; and after she is in the east she will make further plans for the remainder of the winter.

Miss Forgan is at home in Lake Forest with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Forgan, and her sister, Miss Louise Forgan, until the middle of February when she will return to Bennington college. Miss Nancy's days are not all leisure, however, for in the long vacation from college she must study at least part of every day, special work on one subject.

Miss Anne Harding, daughter of the junior Charles F. Hardings; Miss Esther and Miss Elizabeth Buchen, the Walther Buchens' debutantes; Miss Anne Burnham, Miss Grace Barnum, Miss Margaret Bell and Miss Mary Jean Bartelme have gone or are going back to school very soon. Miss Burnham, daughter of the Gerald Burnhams, left yesterday with other Chicago Vassar students, and Miss Bartelme, niece of Mrs. Dorothy Bartelme, also entrained yesterday, bound for Sarah Lawrence. Miss Bell, who is the Laird Bells' daughter, went back to Bryn Mawr on Saturday. Miss Barnum is not going east to resume her studies until the end of the month when she will enroll for the second semester at William and Mary college in Virginia.

Others Return to Schools.

Miss Carlotta Lagorio and Miss Florence Hermes are others who have returned to school. Miss Lagorio left last night for the Bennett school and her mother, Mrs. Frank Lagorio, is leaving later this month to visit her sister, Mrs Anne Hall, at St. Petersburg, Fla. Miss Lagorio probably will go to Bermuda for the spring holidays, and Frank Lagorio Jr., a student in the senior class at Dartmouth, will join his mother in Florida at that time.

Miss Hermes is another student who probably will spend the Easter vacation in the Bermudas. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hermes, and she left yesterday for Vassar.

Debutante Ruth Brown and her mother, Mrs. William B. Brown, and sister Miss Janet Brown, have exchanged the snow and ice of Wheaton for the sunny skies of California. They will not return home until the first part of May.

Joan Ryerson Back at Studies.

Miss Joan Ryerson, daughter of Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson, left yesterday for Cambridge, Mass., where she is studying.

Miss Joan Smith, Miss Joan Ford, Miss Shirley and Miss Loraine Logan all have returned to their schools, Miss Smith and Miss Ford to Vassar, Miss Shirley Logan to Sarah Lawrence and Miss Loraine to Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Logan, parents of the debutante sisters, are leaving for Florida before the end of the month.

Miss Ann Lynch and Miss Madalon Search, who bowed together at a luncheon, both are resting at home, but at the end of a month or so their paths will separate for Miss Lynch, daughter of V. Reges Lynch, will go to California at that time and Miss Search, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gist Search, plans to go to New York.

Miss Joan Sutter, daughter of the Alvar R. Sutters, will take a West Indies cruise with her mother at the end of the month. Miss Eleonore Thompson, the junior John R. Thompsons' debutante, has returned to Smith; and Miss Ruth Tilden, daughter of the Averill Tildens, has gone back to Sarah Lawrence.

Miss Harriet Welling Leaves for Vassar.

The John Paul Wellings' debutante, Miss Harriet Welling, left yesterday for Vassar. Her mother and father have no plans for the rest of the winter. Miss Marjorie Kelly, one of the Carl Kellys' two debutantes, is leaving today for Palm Springs where she will spend the last ten days of her holiday from the University of Southern California. Miss Patricia Kelly has returned to Sarah Lawrence.

Miss Babbs-Anne Burton returned to the Finch school in New York yesterday.

The Thomas S. Bulgers' attractive daughter, Miss Katherine Bulger, has taken up her work at Northwestern, and Miss Evelyn Shuman, the John R. Shumans' debutante, also is studying at the university.

Miss Patricia Forsyth Kelly and her mother, Mrs. George Arthur Kelly, left Monday night for Florida where they will spend a month or so.

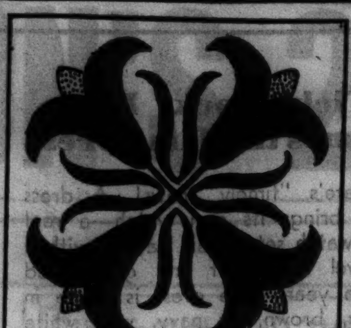
Luncheon Today for Archbishop of York.

The English Speaking Union will give a luncheon today at the Union League club for the archbishop of York. At the speakers' table with the Archbishop and Lady Temple will be Bishop George Craig Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, Lewis Bernays, British consul general, and Mrs. Bernays, Edwin C. Austin, president of the Union League club, and Mrs. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard, C. R. Whitworth, Donald P. Welles, president of the union, and Mrs. Welles.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner J. Stilwell this afternoon are giving a cocktail party that is in the nature of a housewarming. Mrs. Stilwell's furniture only lately has arrived from her former home in London and has been disposed about the Stilwells' apartment at 1260 Astor street. On Friday Mr. and Mrs. Stilwell are leaving for New York, where Mrs. Stilwell will visit friends for a fortnight. Mr. Stilwell is returning in a few days.

Mrs. William S. Monroe will give a tea this afternoon at her Elm street residence for the committee in charge of the Women's Trade Union league benefit which is only two weeks away. The committee has taken over the matinée performance of Trudi Schoop and her comic ballet on Sunday, Jan. 19, and already many boxes and blocks of tickets have been sold.

Lily Quilt Block One of Favorite Older Patterns



Yellow Lily Block

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

One of the old quilt blocks always greeted with cheers and a hearty welcome is the delightfully charming "Yellow Lily Block." The original quilt was made of yellow, orange, and dark green. Color variety today allows the quilt maker to select a pale yellow background with a darker yellow for the lily and a fresh leaf green for the foliage. Finishing the quilt is a 10½ inch border and a ¼ inch binding. The completed coverlet measures 93 by 105 inches.

To Doubt Your Child Is to Rock Whole World

Youth Must Feel Secure in Parents' Esteem.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Parents, in their efforts to cultivate their children all the virtues, sometimes go too far. Their anxiety often leads them into making a great issue of something which is not serious. The result is sometimes genuine unhappiness to the child.

I have wanted to write in this connection for a long time and a recent letter gives me the opportunity. It reads, with some necessary changes, as follows:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: My little girl, 6 years old, said she needed a ruler. I gave her five pennies, and she went to school early, for the express purpose of going to the school store.

"After an interval, she came dashing back for bathroom attention, and put her books and everything on the kitchen radiator. In my haste to help her I didn't pay much attention but have a vague memory of the pennies being among her articles.

"When she returned from school I asked about the ruler and she said she had not gone to the store and had put the pennies on the radiator when she returned, in a hurry. If she had, she must have taken them again when she went back to school.

"The point is that she cannot, or will not, tell me what she did with the pennies, and, being a mother, I am afraid of a bad trait developing.

"Before her bed time I threatened not to 'tuck her in,' and she felt badly, but would not change her story.

"I will appreciate your advice in this matter greatly."

The answer [in part] may be of interest to other mothers of young children:

Do you mind if I tell you that you are making altogether too much fuss over what is a very simple matter? In the first place, you are wrong to doubt your little girl's word and constantly to question and punish her. It is quite possible that she forgot or lost the money. I am virtually certain that your small daughter has not done anything that you should worry about, and I think you will make a great mistake if you pursue this any further.

Punishing her is absolutely out of the question. Even if she did take the pennies it would not be the right way to handle her. If I were you, I would simply tell her now that you believe she told the truth and both forget it. She must feel that you have faith in her; and I think you should feel much in the wrong and in need of squaring yourself with her by proving in some way that you believe her and believe in her.

Do not get yourself all wrought up over the idea that this is the way young criminals are made, because it is not. I am writing in this way both to comfort you and for the sake of your small daughter.

We have a fully written leaflet on how to handle untruthfulness in both young and older children. A stamped, self addressed envelope will bring you leaflet, called "Untruthfulness — Its Causes and Cures."

Two Fabrics Smartly United

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

This trim frock, equally suitable to slim or heavier figures, offers a grand opportunity to combine two types of fabric. One might use pebbly material for the skirt and jumper effect in the bodice, and use plain silk crêpe for the sleeves and remainder of the waist, including the pert collar. For this arrangement soft shades, such as beige and gray, would be most attractive. Printed and plain fabrics also combine successfully.

This frock, adaptable to many and varied social occasions, style No. 3215, is designed for sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 2⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with 1⅛ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Woman Who Is Chic Outshines One Rated as Merely Pretty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One of the noted stylists says that following the ideal of the "pretty woman" is responsible for the downfall of many an average woman. The question in my mind is whether the average woman ever thinks of pretty women today. One rarely hears the expression applied to an adult, and to few of the moving picture stars who are supposed to have quite a monopoly on looks. Once in a long time one does meet up with a professional woman who might be referred to in the old-fashioned wording. But a pretty woman, in this day of ours, suggests faint praise, somehow. I may be wrong. Men use the word more often in describing a woman than does our own sex. We favor "smart looking," "stunning," "chic," or "beautiful."

Our style informant explains "chic," not only as the desirable thing but as embracing not only dressing, but the way one looks, walks and thinks. And it is branded as a cultivated art more often than a natural one. Perhaps that's why a "pretty woman" suffers. She's born that way and is herself not responsible for her appeal, whereas the chic one succeeds through force of her own cleverness.

Anyway, prettiness is something one's ancestors had to pass on and, obviously, ancestors were not notoriously generous in this respect insofar as the great body of women is concerned. Few are pretty but many are smart, chic, and clever. True, some women do just as the stylist charges. They try to look pretty with fussy blonde hair pulled out around the face or done in cascades of helter-skelter curls. They go in for pastel shades and pastel trim, hats that are coy, and frocks that are too girlish for the years they cover. The consequence is that prettiness is lost in a cloud of dowdiness.

For our day, then, smartness or chic is the best ambition on which to pin one's hopes. Either word implies first, last, and above everything else, the personal grooming preached from every beauty pulpit. Then, building costume plans around a basic color. If brown is to be the motif, or blue or wine, consider no color that does not harmonize with the basic shade.

Curb that impulse, we are warned, to load ourselves down with accessory tidbits that take the punch out of an otherwise smart outfit.

Cooking Editor Takes Up Cause of Pork Chops

Cites Method to Assure Delectable Results.

"Filling the Cookie Jar," a booklet of unusual cookie recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Simple food, well cooked—are you sick of our yapping about it? Mashed potatoes yesterday, and today we're up in arms about pork chops!

If you belong to the "any dub can fry a pork chop" school of thought, there's nothing for you in these paragraphs. You either know already how to cook a pork chop so that it's at once crisply brown and tenderly flavorsome, or else—but we'll not go into that.

The secret of a well cooked pork chop is that, after a few minutes of quick browning, it has been finished slowly, so as best to bring out its rich flavor. If its fat has been cooked away rapidly, not only is the flavor sacrificed but the chop itself is likely to be overly browned and tough before it is cooked through.

Incidentally, if you're interested in the more detailed "whys" and "hows" of pork chop cookery, as well as in the answers to many other meat questions, we hope you either have, or are planning to own, our new 52 page booklet, "Modern Meat Lore." By mail, 23 cents, remember, or a paltry 20 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices. Among its many recipes are some dandies for Arabian Pork Chops, savory with tomato, green pepper, onion, and rice; Pork Chops with Crushed Pineapple; Pork Chops Dixie Style, rich with corn and pimiento, and directions for that epicurean delight, Baked Stuffed Pork Chops. [Enough sales talk—back to the subject!]

One of the simplest ways to add extra savor to the pork chop is to give it the benefit of a little lemon juice and cheese. Brown the chops lightly on both sides first, for this. Then sprinkle them with salt and pepper, and lay them in a baking dish. Over each one pour a teaspoon of lemon juice, and then an even, thin coating of grated cheese. Cover the casserole, and put the whole into a moderate oven for 45 minutes.

Then there's the brown rice and tomato soup version—equally simple and ever so good. The chops are browned in a hot skillet, and then laid in a large, shallow baking dish. On each goes a spoonful of cooked brown rice, well seasoned, a dot of butter, and a can of undiluted tomato soup is poured over the whole. Cover this and bake it for 45 minutes, and you have a dish that asks only a vegetable to round it into the main course of your dinner.

An easy version of the baked stuffed pork chop uses only dried prunes and a bit of lemon juice—simplicity itself! Get thick chops for this and have the market man cut a pocket in each one. Before browning, fill each pocket with three or four cooked, pitted prunes. Sew or skewer the pockets shut, and brown the stuffed chops in a hot skillet. Add a half cup of water and two tablespoons of lemon juice to the bottom of the skillet, sprinkle the chops with salt and pepper, cover the skillet closely, and either bake in a moderate oven or simmer gently on the top of the stove for 45 minutes, adding more water if necessary.

According to CULBERTSON

SIMPLE PROBABILITY.

A blind opening lead cannot always hit the bull's-eye. As I have said before, the supermen of bridge reach double-dummy perfection in this important department only about 80 per cent of the time. Considering the obstacles to be overcome, this is a magnificent record.

On those comparatively rare occasions when they go astray, it often is possible for their partners, after the dummy becomes exposed, to rechart the proper course before real damage is done. That was what North did in today's hand.

West, dealer.
East-West vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Double	Red'ble	2 hearts
Pass	Pass	2 no tr'p	Pass
3 no tr'p [final bid]

The bidding was not particularly bad. North's take-out double was weak, of course, but against vulnerable opponents, and with a conservative partner, not greatly to be criticized.

South, with little information from the bidding, tried to hit his partner's probable suit by opening the eight of clubs. Dummy played the jack and North's king won.

At this point a shift was clearly indicated. Few players, indeed, could fail to recognize the opening lead for a short-suit opening, but even fewer, I fear, would have made the proper return. A heart lead to dummy's weakness was superficially persuasive but, on close analysis, unsound. In order to make three tricks in hearts, South would have to hold two honors. In diamonds, however, three tricks could be made by finding South with only one specific card—the queen. On this good reasoning, North shifted to the ten of diamonds, and the jig was up for declarer. Now no line of play could deprive the defenders of three diamond and two club tricks, for the contract's defeat.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Has dummy the right to warn declarer he is about to play out of the wrong hand?

Answer: No. Dummy has no right to direct the play in any way.

Young Mother Who Steps Out Brings Sorrow

Forsaking Home for Thrills Causes Unhappiness.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"There's a man who is married and has a family of children all grown up. He is in love with me. He doesn't get along at home because his wife nags and finds fault with everything, although she has a lovely home and money.

"I'm married and have two small children. I think a great deal of the man. My husband is something like his wife, only instead of nagging he hates to see me enjoy myself. If I dance by myself when the radio is on, he starts in his crabbing.

"The man, I shall call Bob, has taken me out several times and has given me the admiration I have missed and some gifts . . ."

And so on. That's enough of the letter to get the drift of the silly one's mind.

When a woman gets stepping-out ideas in her feet, she surely does not have to work hard to imagine a case for herself. If all one can raise in protest against a hubby is his kicking at one's dancing alone, our vote goes to the husband.

But isn't it a ridiculous picture? A wife and mother of small children going out of her way to make trouble for all concerned, and in a direction from whence no blessings can possibly come. The fathers of grown families, solidy entrenched in a domestic set-up, aren't looking for wives via the divorce route. They're looking for a bit of excitement, a last fling as it were, and the silly victim is the one who gets the bitter end of the deal.

WEAK, RUNDOWN, NERVOUS, SKINNY!
How NATURAL IODINE Builds Worn-Out, Pale, Sickly Folks Into Strong, Red-Blooded Men and Women!
Kelpamalt, New Mineral Concentrate from the Sea, Rich in NATURAL PLANT IODINE, Feeds Starved Glands — Must Build Rich, Red Blood, Put on Lbs. of Solid, "Stay-There" Flesh, Give Steady Nerves and Day-Long Energy in First Week or Trial is Free!
Here's new hope and encouragement for thousands of even naturally skinny, weak, worn out, haggard-looking men and women whose energy and strength have been sapped by overwork and worry, who are nervous, irritable, always half sick and ailing. Science says the principal cause of these rundown conditions is "GLANDS STARVING FOR IODINE." When these glands don't work properly, all the food in the world can't help you. It just isn't turned into flesh. The result is, you stay skinny, pale, tired-out and rundown.
The most important gland—the one which actually controls body weight and strength—needs a definite ration of iodine all the time—NATURAL ASSIMILABLE IODINE—not to be confused with chemical iodides which often prove toxic. Only when the system gets an adequate supply of iodine can you regulate metabolism—the body's process of converting digested food into firm flesh, new strength and energy.
To get NATURAL IODINE in convenient, concentrated and assimilable form, take Kelpamalt—now recognized as the world's richest source of this precious substance. It contains 1,300 times more iodine than oysters, once considered the best source. 6 tablets alone contain more NATURAL IODINE than 480 lbs. of spinach or 1,387 lbs. of lettuce.
Try Kelpamalt for a single week and notice the difference. See flattering extra pounds of "stay-there" flesh appear in place of scrawny hollows. Notice how much better you feel, and if you don't gain at least 5 lbs. in one week, the trial is free. Kelpamalt costs but little to use. Try it today.
It's Glands Starving for Iodine That Keep Folks Rundown and Skinny!
Comparison of Minerals in KELPAMALT vs. VEGETABLES. 3 Kelpamalt Tablets Contain:
1. More Iron and Copper than 1 lb. of spinach, 7½ lbs. fresh tomatoes, 3 lbs. of asparagus.
2. More Calcium than 1 lb. of cabbage.
3. More Phosphorus than 1½ lbs. of carrots.
4. More Sulphur than 2 lbs. of tomatoes.
5. More Sodium than 3 lbs. of turnips.
6. More Potassium than 6 lbs. of beans.

Coats That Made Their Fashion Reputation at Much Higher Prices—Now $83

In this group are coats that have had one triumph after another all season. They were among the most-in-demand styles of the season at their original prices—and they have staged such a success at their new "lows" that reinforcements have been necessary. There are many styles especially flattering to the woman who wears half sizes, but regular women's sizes are included, too.

The caracul sleeve coat has been piling up spectacular records of success all season. It has a youthful and becoming small collar of caracul, and comes in black only.

The smartness of small fur collars has become a fashion fact this season—as proved by this smart coat—which has Persian lamb on its sleeves, as well. Of an exceptionally fine woolen, in black.

Not sketched—a coat of llama cloth, notable for its warmth and durability as well as for its smooth, soft, light-weight texture. It is trimmed with a flattering collar of Persian lamb.

BOSTON'S 2D PERIOD GOALS BEAT HAWKS, 2-0

HOLD FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR C. A. STONEHAM

Son Will Take Over New York Giants.

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Although the death of Charles A. Stoneham served for a short time to revive reports—heard off and on for many years—that the Giants would now be surely sold, opinion in local baseball circles today seemed almost unanimous that not only will there be no sale but no serious change of any sort is contemplated in the club's policy.

HORACE STONEHAM
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Private funeral services will be held Thursday morning. Interment will be Thursday afternoon in Jersey City, where Stoneham was born 59 years ago.

The Giants' administrative affairs will continue pretty much the same as they have been for the last year or so, with the only change being that the youthful Horace C. Stoneham, son of the magnate who died last night at Hot Springs, Ark., will become the official instead of the acting head of the organization.

Expect Directors to Meet.

Neither Treasurer Leo Bondy nor Secretary James J. Tierney would confirm this today, stating that it was impossible at this time for either to say anything regarding future developments. It is generally understood that the procedure will call for a meeting of the board of directors at which time young Stoneham will be elected president inasmuch as he is expected to be the chief beneficiary in his father's will. In further support of this is the fact that in the oft repeated rumors of "Giant sales" which for many years enlivened winter baseball news, the elder Stoneham invariably emphasized his denials with the statement that his main desire for remaining in baseball, aside from the enjoyment he derived, was the hope that some day he would be able to leave the club as a legacy to his son.

Terry to Stay.

Manager Bill Terry will be retained. In fact Terry, already vested with more authority than is usually assigned to baseball managers, is expected to become an even more powerful figure in the Giants' "front office."

Terry and the younger Stoneham have been close personal friends for many years. In fact, it is well known to a few close to the organization that Horace, even though he played a most inconspicuous part in the matter, actually played a prominent part in the financial decision which led to the appointment of Terry following the retirement of the late John J. McGraw because of ill health in 1932.

According to this story, the club's officials considered three candidates after it was decided that McGraw's successor would be a playing-manager. They were Terry, Travis Jackson, the shortstop, and Freddie Lindstrom, the outfielder.

Younger Stoneham Consulted.

Eventually discussion simmered down to a question of Terry and Lindstrom, at which point the elder Stoneham asked his son for his opinion. The latter finally cast his choice with Terry and when asked his reason is understood to have replied:

"You can make up your mind right now that whichever of the two you name, even though they are good friends, you'll have to trade the other before the year is out. And while Lindstrom is admittedly a great player it will be easier to replace a centerfielder than a first baseman of Terry's caliber."

How subsequent events bore out the young man's foresight is well known, for Lindstrom, after a rather indifferent season during the balance of the 1932 campaign, was traded the following winter to Pittsburgh.

If he ascends to the presidency, as is generally expected, Horace, who is 32 years old, will become one of the youngest club owners in the history of the major leagues.

PLAYERS PAY RESPECT.

Hot Springs, Ark., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—A group of major league baseball players today paid their last respects to Charles A. Stoneman, president of the New York Giants, who died here last night. The body was sent tonight for burial in New York.

Among those who visited the funeral home where the body of the magnate lay were Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, and two of his teammates, Al Simmons and Tommy Bridges. Two members of the Chicago Cubs, Woody English and Bill Jurges, were present. The players are wintering here.

Stoneman had come here in the middle of last month for treatment. He was suffering with nephritis. He was in a coma for a little more than 24 hours before he died.

Stoneman's son, Horace, and Ernie Ciberg, an official of the Polo Grounds, accompanied the body of the magnate to New York.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

AL SIMMONS has celebrated his first day with each of the five teams he has played in organized baseball by hitting a home run. . . . He will try to make it six in a row with Detroit on opening day. . . . There are no important fights scheduled for Miami this winter. . . . Madison Square Garden's Miami bowl was heavily damaged by the hurricane and it will cost approximately $65,000 to rebuild the arena. . . . Bobby Grayson averaged 4.1 yards in the 1934 and 1935 Rose Bowl games against Columbia and Alabama, but he made only 1.8 against Southern Methodist. . . . If Bob Zuppke and Bo McMillin don't leave Southern California at once the natives are apt to tear them limb from limb for their sarcastic remarks about the quality of Pacific coast football. . . . From a Los Angeles contributor comes this defi: "If half the teams in the Big Ten conference could wipe the earth with Stanford, as Zuppke and McMillin say, why doesn't a representative of that organization come to the Rose Bowl some year and try it? It was fifteen years ago that one man, Brick Muller of California, chased Ohio State right out of the bowl and no Western conference eleven has had the courage to come back since." . . .

Six years ago there were no skeet shooters in America because there was no skeet shooting. . . . Today there are 15,000. . . . Bill Foster, editor of an outdoor sports magazine, is credited with originating the sport. . . . His face became red on several occasions when he missed birds on the wing while on hunting trips. . . . Everybody expected the editor of an outdoor magazine to make a kill every time he pulled the trigger. . . . So to improve his eye Foster rigged up a trapshooting apparatus and pointed his gun at the clay birds from twelve different angles. . . . He called it clock shooting because the stations from which he shot were located somewhat in the order of the numerals on a clock. . . . Finally the clock was cut in three-quarters and Foster and his friends started shooting from eight different angles. . . . They called it skeet shooting and it caught on in a hurry. . . . The first national tournament was held in Cleveland last summer. . . .

Mike Kreevich, outfielder purchased by the White Sox from Kansas City, made only two errors in 131 games last season. . . . Jake Nagode, center on Northwestern's basketball team, was a member of the Waukegan High school quintet that went to the finals of the state tournament. . . . After a series of defeats members of California's touring basketball team vowed not to turn down their hat brims in front until they won a game, thereby showing considerable originality. . . . The accepted penalty has been not to shave. . . . Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at Michigan, middle west representative on the football rules committee, is asking coaches in this territory for any suggestions that will benefit the game. . . . The committee will meet next month. . . . Berkeley Bell, now touring with the professional tennis troupe, uses an average of 150 racquets a season. . . . Ed Lewis and Man Mountain Dean were born on the same day, June 30, 1891. . . . The brother of Army's football captain, Bill Shuler, plays center on the Del Monte, Cal., High school eleven.

Al Duvall, Loyola [Los Angeles] tackle, who was rated by sports writers one of the best on the coast, eats only one meal a day and that is at 10 o'clock at night. . . . Sammy Stein, wrestler, will submit to an operation shortly for trachoma and doctors predict he soon will enjoy normal sight again. . . . Charles W. Bidwill, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, will spend the winter in Miami. . . . James and Grace Madden, who were picked for the Olympic figure skating team without the formality of competing in the eliminations, will pay their own way to the games. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Paddy Harmon was planning to build a five million dollar sports stadium on the west side. . . . Andrew L. Smith, head football coach of the University of California for ten years, died on the coast from pneumonia. . . . Al Espinosa and Chick Fraser were tied for first place in the $10,000 Los Angeles open. . . . Eddie Shea was matched to fight Louis Kaplan for the featherweight title.

Whitehead Is No. 5 Among Satisfied Sox

BY EDWARD BURNS.

J. Louis Comiskey, president of the White Sox, yesterday announced that Johnny Whitehead, his promising bloodsweating behemoth, and something of a pitcher, had returned a signed contract. Mr. Comiskey made no announcement relative to the young Texan's efforts to curb an enormous appetite, a victual urge that was blamed for his foldup after a grand start last season.

The Sox boss, however, has recently received reports from hired appetite discouragers who have been keeping tab on Johnny's intake. They say that the large pitcher has been showing admirable restraint.

Curves Wrong Place.

Whitehead, it will be recalled by most fans, was the talk of baseball when he won his first eight major league starts. It took him a month to turn in that noble string, a month in which he found that big league hotels serve rich viands for those who have progressed beyond the ham and egg stage of menu interpretation.

Johnny began getting curves on his anatomy which slowed down the curves and other foolers he had been throwing. After he won his eight straight, he lost six straight. He finished the season with a record of 13 victories and 13 defeats and went to Texas for the winter, pledged to get and keep in shape.

Five in Fold.

The Sox now have signed five athletes, the manager, James Dykes, Ted Lyons, Luke Appling, and Tony Piet being the other four.

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs spent his second day in salary conferences with Owner P. K. Wrigley, virtually completing the job of determining what Cub players are to be offered. It was intimated that there had been few if any slashes and that several of the younger players had been given substantial increases. All of the contracts will have been mailed out by Friday, as announced when Grimm came here for his pow-wows.

AURORA TO SEND TEAM OF 13 TO SILVER SKATES

Notification Cards Sent to Contestants.

The largest team from out of town which will compete in the Silver Skates Derbies sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at Garfield park Saturday and Sunday will be composed of 13 boys and two girls from Aurora, Ill. They were entered by Elmer A. Moos and will represent the Aurora Skating club board of control. This organization will sponsor the western outdoor speed championships at Mastodon lake on Jan. 16.

Ted Welch and Rose Vyanek of Cedar Rapids, Ia., have entered the boys' junior and girls' senior Derbies, respectively. Their entries were submitted by L. D. Dennis of the Cedar Rapids Ice Skating association, whose son, Robert Dennis, won the boys' intermediate championship last winter at Lincoln park.

Eleven Teams Listed.

Eleven teams are listed in the final group of entries received Monday and which were mailed prior to Sunday's deadline. One of these by J. C. Novak of Douglas park is an additional entry of 39 boys and 28 girls. Douglas park is seeking to win the silver trophy which will be awarded to the team which has the largest number of skaters actually competing in the Derbies.

Jerry Brunker of the Top Hat Social club, 3030 North Luna avenue, writes that 74 members of the club will compete for Silver Skates. The other team entries, which complete the lists eligible for the races this week-end, follow:

Kosciusko park [Chicago Park district], Arthur L. Schwartz, director, 52 boys and three girls.

Dvorak park [Chicago Park district], Norman P. Volz, instructor, three boys.

Rogers Park Beach club, S. J. Leone, 36 boys and three girls.

Agassiz playground [board of education], Herluf Henko, instructor, 61 boys.

McCormick playground [board of education], John Nemec, instructor, 45 boys.

Howe playground [board of education], Herbert F. Rath, instructor, additional entry of 40 boys.

Corkery playground [board of education], William Woeltje, instructor, 21 boys.

Wrightwood playground [municipal], Charles Valorz, seven boys.

Murray playground [municipal], Andrew Delaney, instructor, 15 boys and three girls.

Contestants Are Notified.

An entry of eight for the men's senior Derby from the Railton Athletic club could not be listed, since the home addresses of the skaters were not given. The system of requiring the home address of each contestant not only has made it possible to notify each skater that his name had been received and to assign each a racing number but it undoubtedly will bring out a higher proportion of contestants on the days of the trials.

The last group of these notification cards should be in the mail Wednesday night or early Thursday morning. Thus the boys entered in the midget, juvenile, and junior classes, who report Saturday, will receive the cards in time. Each contestant must bring his card with him when he reports to Garfield park. On that card will be marked the preliminary race to which he is assigned by the clerks.

ARIZMENDI AND VARNER MEET IN TOURNEY BOUT

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The second of a series of Chicago-New York elimination matches to produce an opponent for Baby Arizmendi, recognized by the boxing commissions of both New York and Illinois as the No. 1 featherweight contender, will be held here tomorrow night when Claude Varner of California, and Mike Belloise of the Bronx, meet in a ten round bout.

The winner of this bout will oppose Everett Rightmire of Sioux City, Ia., winner of the Chicago section of the tournament by a victory over Moon Mullins two weeks ago, for the right to fight Arizmendi.

RACE ENDS—ARGUMENT BEGINS

Spur Flower (center) pounded across the finish line yesterday at Santa Anita just ahead of Happy Bolivar (on the outside) while Hand Made (next to the rail) was third, in the opinion of the judges. But what race fan holding a ticket on Happy Bolivar or Hand Made could take the decision without at least a little growl?

In the WAKE of the NEWS

WAKE MAIL BOX.

DEAR WAKE: I have an interesting angle to the subject of commercialization of college football. Several years ago a friend of mine was a well known player on a very well known and successful football team.

Due to the rigid training program and strenuous season in his senior year, his health broke a few months after his graduation. He still is convalescing at a cost of about $2,000 per year [borrowed money at that]. His breakdown was due directly to overtraining. . . . The ironical side of the story is that the school nets from $300,000 to $500,000 per year from football, but not once has any representative of the university inquired if he needed aid.

He does not complain, but thinks it would be a noble gesture on the part of athletic managements that can afford it to present each graduating athlete with a health and accident insurance policy, paid up for two or three years in advance, which would pay the athlete $150 to $200 per month in the event of illness. Is this too much to expect? R. H.

Harvey: Is a student coming to the point of selecting the man who is to teach him. I am referring to the "fool things" that can gain momentum at Madison, Wis. Of course, Wake, you realize I'm just a dumb dub who never has been inside a Big Ten school, but what I would like is for some of the alumni of the great University of Wisconsin to answer a question for me, namely:

Were the last five football coaches a bunch of dubs, or is there too much intelligence in the student body?

Let me remind them that not one critic picked a single member of the 1935 squad for any all-anything team. R. H. G.

The Scarlet Gown.

I'm going into town today!
  I'm going into town!
And I'll be humming all the way
  To buy a scarlet gown.
It must be chic, the new waistline,
  And ruffles to the floor,
The halter neck which is divine,
  That rhumba cut . . . and more.
I'll add a dazzling stone or two
  And finish off the dress.
Tonight when I dance in to you,
  [On purpose I confess.]
I know I'll turn your heart of snow,
  Annoy your handsome head,
For you are going to see the glow
  Of me in flaming red!
This seems to be the only way
  That we shall ever meet.
And so I'll hurry on to town
  With wings upon my feet!

REDS CONSIDER PORTO RICO AS TRAINING SITE

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The likelihood of Porto Rico as a future training base for the Cincinnati club of the National league was indicated today when it was learned that Larry McPhail, general manager of the Reds, left for New York on a trip which is expected to include negotiations for the proposed trip. Other officials of the club could not be contacted for confirmation.

It was announced several days ago, however, that McPhail had received an invitation from Gov. Blanton Winship of the island. If completed, it will be the first trip to Porto Rico ever made by a major league club.

Detroit Beats Rangers, 2-1, Before 10,000

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Detroit strengthened its hold on first place in the United States division of the National Hocky league tonight by defeating the second place New York Rangers, 2 to 1, before 10,000.

Detroit, boasting speedier sets of forwards and a sounder defense, gained the lead half way through the first period when Pep Kelly scored on Doug Young's assist.

Herbie Lewis increased the margin early in the second period when his shot from the side went into the Ranger cage off Bill Cooke's skate. Larry Aurie received an assist. Ching Johnson, Rangers' defenseman, was in the penalty box when the Wings scored.

However it was Johnson who saved the Rangers from a shutout when he drove Glen Brydson's pass into the net near the middle of the second period. Detroit was a man short at the time, Kelly being in the penalty box. The lineup:

Boston, Mass., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Chicago's rapidly slipping Blackhawks were plunged almost into the cellar of the American section of the National Hocky league tonight when they lost a 2 to 0 decision to the Boston Bruins before a crowd of 13,000. It was the Hawks' third straight defeat, their sixth in the last ten games, and left them only a half game ahead of the Bruins, who are in last place in the American division. Since Dec. 8, when they led the entire league by a full game, the Chicagoans have lost six games, won three and tied one.

The Hawks will have a chance to make up tonight's lost ground on Thursday, when they meet the Americans at New York, Boston being idle.

Hawks Are Shorthanded.

The Chicagoans can claim an alibi for the two goals scored against them this evening, for they had only four men on the ice against Boston's five in the second period when Bill Cowley and Cooney Weiland counted, Eddie Shore drawing an assist on each goal. The shorthandedness was occasioned by penalties to Art Coulter and Marty Burke, Hawk defense men, who were sentenced within seconds of each other. With them in the box at the time of the two goals was Red Beattie, Bruin wing.

Referees Mike Rodden and Bill Bell enforced the interference rule to the limit during the second period, during which seven penalties were called. The total of misdemeanors was ten, including two majors for fighting to Donnie McFadyen of the Hawks and Beattie in the last period.

The Bruins started the action with their second line opposing the Blackhawks' trio of Morenz, March, and Gottselig. This shakeup did not aid the Boston cause, for the play was even during the first 10 minutes, or until Peggy O'Neil was sent off for tripping. While the Bruins played shorthanded the Hawks pressed four forwards into service, but the quartet was unable to cope with the determined Boston defense.

Hawks Fail to Score.

The Hawks were put on a spot during the first minute of the second period, when Marty Burke drew an interference penalty. The Bruins packed the Chicago zone, but they played in such erratic fashion that not a single hard shot went Karakas' way during the two minutes of shorthanded action.

The Hawks put on a furious attack while playing five against three, but the Bruins' goalie refused to crack, despite the heavy pressure applied by the five enemy forwards.

The officials were so busy calling interference rule violations that the players had little or no time for hocky. Coulter and Burke were sent off within seconds of each other and five Bruins rushed for the kill. Two goals were battered into the Chicago cage within 14 seconds by Bill Cowley and Cooney Weiland. Eddie Shore assisted each scorer.

The Hawks tried to get going during the third session, but, outside of two long shots by Paul Thompson, were unable to threaten during the first 10 minutes. The officials, who did not miss a single foul during the second period, appeared to be relaxing and much rough work was done by both sides.

McFadyen, Beattie Fight.

The crowd was getting bored when Donnie McFadyen brought the spectators roaring to their feet by slashing at Red Beattie. The Hawk smashed his stick when he swung at Beattie and the Boston winger retaliated by taking a punch at him. Shore rushed into the fray and when peace was restored Beattie and McFadyen were sent off to serve majors.

With four minutes to go, Clem Loughlin put four forwards into action and they had a difficult task preventing Cowley and O'Neil from running up the Boston score.

SURE, I'M ON A SPOT, BUT I LIKE IT: RETZLAFF

Certain He Will Beat Louis on Jan. 17.

Charley Retzlaff, hard punching Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, arrived yesterday morning displaying supreme confidence in his ability to whip Joe Louis at Chicago Stadium Jan. 17, a belief none of Joe's eight victims of last year appeared to have possessed.

Charley, accompanied by one of his three managers, Mike Ferrozzo, appeared at Madison Square loop gymnasium yesterday afternoon, but did little work, unless posing for newspaper photographers is called work. He will return to the gymnasium this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when he plans to spar four rounds. He will continue training every day, except Sunday and the day before the impending match.

On Spot, and Likes It.

"I'm not scared of Louis," Retzlaff said. "Why should I be? I'm in a swell spot and I wouldn't give it up for anything. I've been knocked out before [King Levinsky, Izzy Gastanaga and Hank Hankinson have knocked out Charley] so I know how it feels. Why, nobody has given Louis any opposition so far, despite the caliber of his opponents.

"I never was so surprised as when I learned of Max Baer's weak efforts against Louis. Gee, I thought Baer could do better than that. [Louis stopped Baer in the fourth round.] King Levinsky, of course, showed nothing at all against Louis, and that didn't surprise me. [Levinsky was stopped in the first round without unleashing a punch.]

"I'll surprise a lot of people," Charley added. "You see if I don't."

Explains Levinsky K. O.

Retzlaff has not appeared here since his one round knockout by Levinsky at the Stadium almost three years ago. Only three punches landed during the bout. Retzlaff landed the first one and Levinsky the next two, both of which floored the Leonard fighter, the second one for the full count. After the match the general opinion was that Charley did not display sufficient fortitude. This he denied yesterday as he explained the quick knockout.

"I remember the first knockdown," he said, "because I got up without taking a count. I didn't remember the second, however, for I didn't hear the referee count me out. In fact, I didn't know I had been knocked out until three and one-half hours after the bout."

Stops Art Lasky.

At that time Retzlaff was being managed by Jack Hurley. Six days later Charley stopped Art Lasky to score an upset at St. Paul after which he left the management of Hurley, although the latter had left the impression he had fired the fighter. Retzlaff's side has not yet been published. He claims he severed connections with Hurley because prior to his contest with Lasky he heard rumors Jack had made arrangements to manage Art and throw him overboard. Hurley denies this.

Retzlaff has had about a dozen fights since he last appeared in Chicago. He won all except one. He knocked out Lasky in their second meeting, beat Ford Smith, and Johnny Risko and stopped Al Ettore, Ace Clark, and Frankie Edgren.

Joe Returns to Work.

Louis returned to action yesterday at Trafton's gymnasium after a rest Monday. He appeared sluggish throughout the drill, which included five rounds against there sparmates. Joe's schedule, which has been more or less of a puzzle since he opened training Saturday, finally has been definitly set. Co-manager John Roxborough of Detroit announced it as follows:

Today, rest; tomorrow, box; Friday, rest; Saturday, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, box; Thursday, loosening up exercises. F. M.

ARMOUR TECH AND SOUTH SIDE BATTLE TODAY

Armour Tech's basketball team will play South Side Junior college at the 108th Engineers armory, 35th street and Wentworth avenue, this afternoon.

Co-Captains Harry Dollenmaier and Pop Warner, who have been turning in the best performances of the whole team, will be in their accustomed positions at guard; Bob Merz will be at center; Gene Heike, noted for his underhand hook shots from the foul line, will be teamed with Bill O'Brien, sophomore runner-up for scoring honors, at the forward posts.

South Side, has won four out of five games this season. The starting lineup: Conwill and Stormer, forwards; Archbold and Johnson, guards; and Singleton center.

This Boy Has an Idea About Golden Gloves

D. Webster Epperson is one of the most optimistic, or perhaps merely confident, amateur boxers who ever has entered a Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournament since the bouts were inaugurated by THE TRIBUNE in 1928. For D. Webster Epperson, weight 175 pounds, height 6 feet 2½ inches, already is claiming the light heavyweight championship in the Open division.

"Please accept my entry for the Open class," he wrote when submitting his entry for the sectional tournaments which will start next month to pick the Chicago qualifiers for the Tournament of Champions. "I've had 39 fights without a loss. I'm sending my size so you may order my sweater now, so when I win the title I'll be ready."

It's the Old Spirit.

No one will scoff at this enthusiasm. Whether this youngster wins a Golden Glove or not, he typifies the spirit with which hundreds of Chicago boys annually greet the opening of the Chicago tournaments and the right to strive for qualifying positions, so that they may meet the best amateurs from 13 states. From the Tournament of Champions will come eight champions and a squad of 24 boxers, who will meet the Golden Gloves champions of New York in Madison Square Garden on March 23. This certainly is something worth fighting for.

As in other years the boys winning in Chicago's sectional tournaments will be given gold medals. The Novice division boxers, in addition to the bronze souvenir buttons, are fighting for the gold and silver medals awarded to the Novice champions and runners-up in the contests which will be decided in conjunction with the Tournament of Champions.

Physical Exams Soon.

As rapidly as entries are received they are tabulated by the clerks. The first physical examination for contestants will be held within ten days or so, and all will be notified by mail where and when to report. This is the reason why an early entry is desired.

Mail your entry today. Then begin training. Here are some of the facts of the tournament you should know:

Eight ounce gloves will be used in all weight classes.

Each round will be two minutes and all bouts will be three rounds.

Each boxer must supply his own shoes [tennis or boxing shoes], socks, trunks, towel, athletic supporter, and protection cup. However, a protection cup will be loaned in event a boy does not have one of his own.

To Use Pro Seconds.

THE TRIBUNE, as usual, will employ a professional second for each corner. The boxer also may have a second of his own choosing in his corner.

All boxers in both the Open and Novice divisions must register with the Central association of the A. A. U. at the time of the physical examinations. THE TRIBUNE will pay the cost of registration in the Novice division.

Beaupre Tough? Drill with Kranz May Decide It

Tom Beaupre, the Dallas boxer, who left a favorable impression with boxing experts after his spectacular two round knockout of Jerry Johnson in the heavyweight elimination tournament at Chicago Stadium last Thursday, is expected to be given a hard test today in a scheduled three round workout against Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., at Trafton's gymnasium.

Both Beaupre and Kranz will compete in the third round of the tournament at the Stadium Friday, the former against Harold Anderson of Flint, Mich., and Kranz against Frank Edgren of Cheyenne, Wyo. There will be eight other bouts each at five rounds.

Kranz is one of the few boxers Joe Louis has been unable to floor. Louis defeated Kranz in eight rounds about a year ago.

Billy Treest, Batavia's candidate in the tournament which is being held in an effort to locate suitable opposition for Louis, appeared in top form yesterday at Madison Square loop gymnasium where he is preparing for his third round match against Happy Ahlgrin of Pennsgrove, Pa. He dropped his sparmate, Mitz Minikel, during their workout.

Bob La Monte, Chicago welterweight challenger, and Pat Murphy, Danville, Ill., fighter, last night were matched to meet for ten rounds or less at Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Scotty McLean, Peoria welterweight, will arrive today for his ten round feature attraction against Frank Sagillio at Cicero Stadium Saturday. . . . Another ten rounder on the card involves Laddie Tonelli and Billy Miller while a six rounder matches Harvey Massey with Puggy Weinert. . . . Joe Kozubeck, Joliet, will meet Emil Campagnia and Phil Rosenberg is paired with Charles Polis, in two matches at five rounds which top the amateur card tonight at Silver Dragon arena, 3741 West North avenue. . . . Other matches involve Walter Alex and Jack Burns, Matt Plavinitch and Vince Pelligrini, Nick Rebey and Eddie Shapiro, George Chrisos and John Doma, Al Brower and Charles Lucket, and Verne Patterson and Dan Fuller.

Jack Ross and Jim Jerios will meet in the semi-final bout of the wrestling show at Marigold Gardens Friday. . . . Pete Holtz will meet Jack Ruess, New York light heavyweight, in a preliminary match on the program, which is headed by Jack Zeravich and Chris Stannos. . . . Elzie Green, Savoy Athletic club welterweight, and Benny Miller yesterday were signed to box on the amateur card at Madison Athletic club Friday. . . . Amateur boxing will be resumed tonight at the 124th Field Artillery armory after a two weeks' lapse. . . . Six of the eight matches will bring together boxers representing South Chicago and Kankakee. . . . Frank Agnes will fight Danny Villa and Bearle Davis will oppose Ben Miller. F. M.

Bath Denied N. Y. License; Fight Is Off

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The much publicized fight between heavyweights Hank Bath and Red Burman, with those old pals, Jack Kearns and Jack Dempsey whooping it up in rival corners, will not be held at the Garden Friday night.

The New York state athletic commission today refused to license Bath in time for a Friday night appearance.

Chairman John J. Phelan explained the commission found it necessary to defer action on the Californian pending receipt of certain information from its west coast colleagues.

"We have asked for this data," Phelan said, "but it will not arrive here in time for Mr. Bath to fight Friday night. Therefore, gentlemen, the fight cannot be held."

Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, Garden president, and Promoter Jimmy Johnston, who were called downtown to receive the knockout in person, could hardly restrain themselves.

Irks Colonel and James.

"It's both outrageous and high handed," said the indignant colonel.

Johnson was just as emphatic and a great deal more expressive.

Bath and Burman were being featured on Friday night's show largely because they are managed by Kearns and Dempsey, respectively. The Garden had advertised the two Jacks would appear as seconds.

While Phelan would not discuss what it is the commission wants to learn about Bath, other sources said it had to do with a recent fight in which he participated on the coast.

"If those fellows have something on Bath why don't they come out with it?" demanded Johnston.

No Publicity Until O. K.'d.

After administering its oral kayo to the Garden the commission came up with a new official ruling, this one prohibiting fight clubs from giving publicity to a card for a specific evening until it has been approved by the commission.

Johnston later announced he had telephoned to Dr. Harry Martin, chairman of the California commission, and had received his assurances that both Bath and Kearns were in good standing in that state. The California commissioner said he saw no reason why Bath should not be allowed to fight Friday and he would notify New York authorities to that effect.

The commission may decide next week whether it will fine or suspend Mike Jacobs, head of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, for calling off the Joe Lewis-Isidor Gastanaga fight, scheduled Dec. 29 in Havana.

16 Water Polo Teams to Open Season Monday

F. G. Roach, assistant director of physical activities for the Chicago park district, yesterday announced the organization of the Chicago Water Polo association, a league of sixteen teams, which will begin play on Monday. Membership is held by teams from Ridge park, Northwestern university, Whiting Community service, Blackhawk park, Madison natatorium, Austin Town hall, La Follette park, Jackson natatorium, Germania A. C., Independence park, Beilfuss natatorium, Jewish People's institute, Griffin natatorium, Shawnee Country club [Wilmette], University of Chicago, and Central Y. M. C. A.

Two rounds of play have been scheduled between teams in each section beginning Monday night and continuing throughout February and March. Sectional champions will be determined as a result of these games. The winners in each section will be brought together for city championship games early in April.

LAKE FOREST IS BEATEN, 29 TO 19, AT LAWRENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Appleton, Wis., Jan. 7.—Lawrence college defeated Lake Forest tonight in a basketball game, 29 to 19. The Vikings flashed an effective passing attack in the opening half and led, 20 to 6, at the intermission. Lawrence plays its first Midwest conference game against Carleton at Northfield, Minn., Friday night. Score:

New Stars to Appear Here with Tilden

There will be several new faces in the Tilden troupe when that group of itinerant tennis players comes to town for a one night stand at the International Amphitheater a week from tonight. Berkeley Bell, Jane Sharp, and Mrs. Ethel Burkhart Arnold will be making their first Chicago appearances with the show.

It has been the custom for Bill Tilden to vary the makeup of his cast each season to keep the customers from getting tired of seeing the same players continually meeting one another. However, the backbone of the troupe—Tilden and Ellsworth Vines—has been a part of every show since the latter turned pro. Only the minor characters have been varied.

The capable doubles team of George Lott and Lester Stoefen, which was added to the cast last season, will be back again. Now that there are some women players in the troupe, it is planned to add a mixed doubles match to the performance.

Miss Sharp will be quite at home playing indoor tennis, for she took the national indoor championship, singles and doubles, before leaving the amateurs.

Mrs. Arnold performed brilliantly last summer as a member of the Wightman cup team, scoring a victory over Kay Stammers of England in the international matches.

TRAPSHOOTERS MEET SATURDAY AT GLEN VIEW

The Leauge of Trapshooters of Chicago country clubs will hold its first league shoot at Glen View club Saturday afternoon. Exmoor, Glen View, Onwentsia, and South Shore Country clubs will be represented by teams.

Walter Peacock and Roy A. Keys will be among South Shore's contingents, while S. A. Prosser, John C. Evans, and H. B. Henry of Onwentsia, C. A. Parliament and Charles W. Hills Jr. of Exmoor, and Shepherd M. Roberts and G. E. Henneberry of Glen View will represent their respective clubs.

PAUL RUNYAN IS WINNER OF RADIX TROPHY IN GOLF

Picard 2d, Smith 3d in 1935 Low Scoring.

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Slightly over even fours for fifty-five rounds, Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., captured low scoring honors among America's professional golfers in 1935.

Runyan, big money winner in the 1933-'34 winter season with upwards of $7,000, was declared winner today by the Professional Golfers association of the Radix cup, awarded annually to the sharpest shooter in the salaried ranks. The trophy is donated by Harry E. Radix, Chicago sportsman. Ky Laffoon of Chicago won it last year.

Wins Only 3 Events.

In achieving this distinction, Runyan captured only three tournaments throughout the year—the Westchester open, the North and South open and the Louisville open—and was stripped of the national professional title in the quarter-final round at Oklahoma City.

Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., most active of the barnstormers and big money winner of 1935, came in second—a tenth of a stroke behind Runyan. Pickard struck an average of 72.4 for 95 rounds.

Horton Smith of Chicago, winner of the Palm Springs invitation open, the Pasadena open, and the Miami Biltmore open with its rich first prize of $2,500, pulled up third with 72.5 for 75 rounds. Harry Cooper, another Chicagoan was fourth.

Except for the veteran Willie MacFarlane of Tuckahoe, N. Y., who was eighth, the first ten was dominated by youngsters.

Hagen, Sarazen Out.

Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen finished out of the select group. Hagen had a fine chance to make the grade, but faltered down the December stretch. Sarazen played an insufficient number of rounds to qualify. Both finished the year with an aver-

NEW YORK U. AND KENTUCKY FIVES MEET TONIGHT

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The University of Kentucky basketball team arrived today and went through a final workout before its clash with New York university in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

New York university, unbeaten in 16 consecutive games, scored a 23 to 22 victory over Kentucky in the Garden last year. That game was followed by charges of poor officiating and Kentucky immediately began a campaign for a return battle.

GAMES SATURDAY.

Northwestern at Indiana.
Ohio State at Iowa.
Purdue at Chicago.
Illinois at Wisconsin.
Minnesota at Michigan.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

It wouldn't be a bad wager at even money to take the state of Indiana against the other quintets of the western conference in the basketball race in which only nine of the sixty games have been played. For Purdue and Indiana snare the leadership of the Big Ten with Iowa, although Northwestern's challenging Wildcats do not open their schedule until Saturday night.

However, every team in the Big Ten now has lost at least one game, either in conference play or in preseason engagements. Purdue and Indiana put the last touches to this record Monday night when the Boilermakers outsped Ohio State, 36 to 27, and Indiana whipped Michigan, 33 to 27. The Wolverines played without the services of Capt. Chelso Tamagno, former Schurz High school star.

Haarlow Takes Lead.

Purdue's victory was impressive, for in their first game last Saturday night the Buckeyes overwhelmed Wisconsin, 44 to 23. On Monday night the Badgers won a thrilling overtime battle from Chicago, 38 to 36, when Capt. Ed Stege scored the winning field goal with 12 seconds to play. Capt. Bill Haarlow, defending individual scorer of the Big Ten, raced to seven field goals and four free throws for a total of 18 points. This gives him the start over Bob Kessler of Purdue, runner-up in the individual scoring race last winter, who counted five field goals in the game at Ohio State.

Iowa's partisans may take umbrage at singling out Purdue and Indiana in this fashion since the Hawkeyes have won their only conference game and are tied for the lead. The fact remains that the Hawkeyes will play a more difficult schedule than Purdue and that when John Barko finishes his span of eligibility at the end of the first semester the team may not function nearly as well. Iowa got away to a fast start last year, but finished with six victories and six defeats.

Purple Have Chance.

Northwestern, on the basis of returns from the pre-conference schedule, in which the Wildcats were defeated by Notre Dame, 40 to 29, for their only loss, and then tied 20 to 20 in the return battle, has as much right to consideration as any team, although the first game is set for Saturday night at Bloomington. It wouldn't surprise if Northwestern whipped Indiana, which would mean Purdue would be the backlog for our wager.

Purdue lost to Illinois, Ohio State, and Indiana last year, but by also winning from these teams and whipping Wisconsin twice finally tied for the Big Ten title with Illinois and Wisconsin. The schedule for the Boilermakers seems easier this winter. Purdue plays Ohio State, Michigan, Chicago, Northwestern, Minnesota, and Iowa. The three teams not on Purdue's program—Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin—now must be classed up the upper group in the Big Ten. Two of these quintets, Illinois and Wisconsin, already have been handicapped.

Speed Foils Badgers.

Wisconsin will have to hustle to retain its share of the title. The team shoots well and works its floor plays splendidly, but it lacks speed. By speed Ohio State smothered the Badgers, and Wisconsin will continue to have difficulty stopping fast players. The Illinois-Wisconsin game Saturday night at Madison will give the losing team an almost insurmountable handicap at this stage of the race.

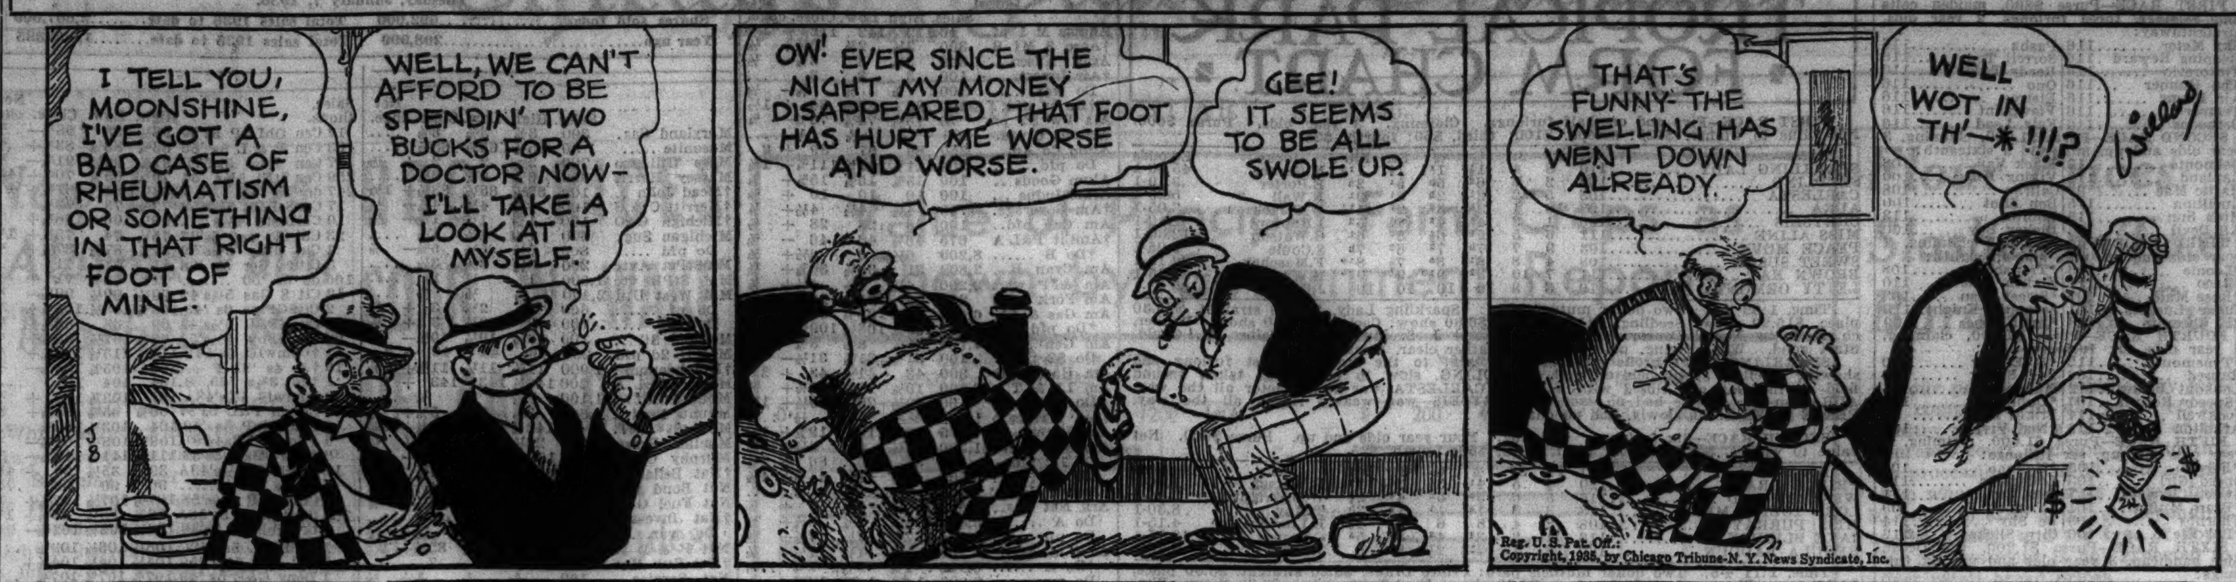
Minnesota will have difficulty winning a conference game, but quite likely will rise up some night and whip an overconfident opponent just as Chicago last year, after losing nine games, defeated Iowa, 41 to 40, for the Maroons' only victory of the season. The Gophers played exceptionally well against Notre Dame last Saturday night, but dropped their opening Big Ten contest to the Illini Monday evening, 42 to 19.

Haarlow's Strategy Fails.

Why did Bill Haarlow hold the ball for the last 20 seconds of the regulation second half against Wisconsin Monday night with the score tied 34 to 34? This strategy is almost as common in basketball as it is common practice for a football team, which is ahead, to stall out the closing minute of the game by delaying as long as possible in the huddle. Haarlow intended to wait until five seconds or so remained, sufficient time for one shot which would win if successful, but not give the Badgers time to score after that shot even if it missed. This one shot might win. If it missed, Chicago still would be tied.

Haarlow never got the shot for Wisconsin knew his intention and guarded him closely in the last five seconds so that Bill couldn't get loose even for the long shot. Then the game went into overtime with Wisconsin winning when Stege took a tipped ball from Fuller, a play which the Badgers called when they took time out 15 seconds before the end of the overtime period.

MOON MULLINS—WILLIE BELIEVES IN SOCKING IT AWAY



I TELL YOU, MOONSHINE, I'VE GOT A BAD CASE OF RHEUMATISM OR SOMETHING IN THAT RIGHT FOOT OF MINE.
WELL, WE CAN'T AFFORD TO BE SPENDIN' TWO BUCKS FOR A DOCTOR NOW—I'LL TAKE A LOOK AT IT MYSELF.
OW! EVER SINCE THE NIGHT MY MONEY DISAPPEARED, THAT FOOT HAS HURT ME WORSE AND WORSE.
GEE! IT SEEMS TO BE ALL SWOLE UP.
THAT'S FUNNY-THE SWELLING HAS WENT DOWN ALREADY.
WELL WOT IN TH'—*!!!?

ROOSEVELT FIVE TAKES LEAGUE OPENER, 25 TO 23

Roosevelt High school juniors [formerly lightweights] opened the defense of their City league basketball title yesterday with a 25 to 23 victory over Von Steuben.

Von Steuben led at the end of the third quarter, 20 to 17, but Roosevelt rallied and scored seven points while holding its opponents to three.

Crane won a thriller from Kelvyn Park, 37 to 36, when Lawson sank a free throw in the final seconds. Adams of Kelvyn Park tied the score with less than two minutes to go.

Hyde Park won a nip and tuck game from Fenger, 17 to 16. Darr registering the deciding point in the last minute after Billburg had pulled Fenger into a tie with a goal from the field.

The contest was unusual in that the teams battled seven minutes before Stevens of Hyde Park scored the first points, a basket. He was high man with nine points, and scored all of them in the first half.

The Manley-Old Phillips and Morgan Park-Englewood contests were postponed to Thursday afternoon. Lineups:

Landis Recovering from Operation on Throat

Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, is having a "stormy convalescence," because of his age, his physician reported yesterday at the Passavant hospital. He is making progress, however, in his recovery from a throat operation to relieve a bronchial ailment.

Hornsby Sees Only Detroit, but Cronin Thinks Otherwise

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Rogers Hornsby, never one to be reticent in matters of baseball, peered into the 1936 major league pennant race crystal today, and found only the Detroit Tigers there, with nary a sight of the now expensive Boston Red Sox.

Asked who he liked in the American league campaign for the coming season, Hornsby, who has been striving to bring the St. Louis Browns out of the cellar reaches for the last two years, said he could see none but the world champion Tigers to repeat in the junior circuit. Principal reason for his choice he said was Al Simmons, obtained from the White Sox in the titleholders' only winter deal.

Boston Needs Pitchers.

As far as the Red Sox are concerned, Hornsby does not hold with the theory of many experts that the Bostonians have been so strengthened by the free style purchasing of Tom Yawkey, their owner, that they have the American league flag cinched.

"The Tigers did far more toward bolstering their club in the Simmons deal than the Red Sox did with all of their buys," he said. "Regardless of what kind of year Al has, you can bet that he will drive in plenty of runs when they are needed. As for the Red Sox, they have only three pitchers—Grove, Ferrell, and Marcum, and the latter can't be rated yet as a first division hurler. Add to that the fact that Grove and Ferrell are no longer youngsters, and the more important item that no club ever has won a pennant with three pitchers, and it's hard to see the Red Sox beating out the Tigers."

Yanks, Indians Out.

Hornsby went on to dispose of the Yankees and Indians as negligible pennant choices. He even ventured to say that unless the Yanks do considerable strengthening they may wind up in the second division. The Indians, from whom so much was expected in 1935, definitely proved that they were not a strong road team, he pointed out.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Joe Cronin, manager of the Boston Red Sox, predicted today his 1936 club would be a real contender for the American league baseball pennant and indicated he might try to convert a third baseman into an outfielder to make room for new talent.

Recent deals brought Jimmy Foxx, Eric McNair, Roger Cramer, and John Marcum to the Red Sox from the Philadelphia Athletics.

Foxx will take over first base duties and Cronin regards himself as a fixture at shortstop. To make room for McNair, the Red Sox pilot may shift Bill Werber from third base to the outfield. This would leave Oscar Melillo at second.

Will Juggle Talent.

"We'll juggle the boys around in spring training and from the talent available I think the Red Sox will have the best infield in the league," Cronin said. "I've had Werber in mind as an outfield prospect for some time and yet we are well fixed in that department, with Cramer, Manush, Almada, Cook, and Graham. McNair can play any position in the infield and Foxx can switch to catching any time we need him."

PENNOCK TO COACH.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Herb Pennock, veteran pitcher who ran the Red Sox Piedmont league farm at Charlotte, N. C., last season, has been engaged to coach the Boston club's pitchers at the Sarasota, Fla., training camp. Eddie Collins, who left Boston tonight for visits to New York, Philadelphia, and Charlotte, has appointed George "Specs" Toporcer, former St. Louis Cardinals infielder, as manager of the Red Sox Piedmont league farm, which, he said, may be moved out of Charlotte for lack of Sunday baseball.

SPEIGEL WINS.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Joey Speigel, 153, of Pittsburgh, knocked out Petey Mike, 150, Southampton, in the seventh round tonight.

HOLD FUNERAL FOR MRS. MANN, WIFE OF EDITOR

Funeral services were held yesterday at St. Chrysostom's church for Mrs. Anna Oleson Mann, wife of Howard Mann, sports editor of the Chicago Daily News, who died Monday at Augustana hospital. The body was cremated.

Mrs. Mann, who had lived most of her life in Lombard, had been ill three weeks. She is survived by two children, Austin Mann and Mrs. Mary Mann Baird of Pittsburgh.

She was the daughter of Dr. Charles Wilmont Oleson, who came west from Harvard medical school in 1860 and settled in Bloomingdale on the old Elgin road. Later he moved his family to Lombard, where Mrs. Mann lived until two years ago, when the family moved to 120 East Oak street in Chicago.

Mrs. Mann's brother, John P. Oleson, is chairman of the First National bank of Chicago. Dr. Richard Oleson of Lombard also was a brother.

BLACKHAWKS TO REFEREE C. Y. O., WINDSOR GAME

Members of the Chicago Blackhawks will officiate the game Sunday afternoon when the C. Y. O. Shamrocks meet the Windsor, Ont., Motor sextet at the Chicago Stadium.

Clem Loughlin, manager of the Blackhawks, will select the players to referee the inter-city games the Shamrocks will play throughout the season. He will make his selections from among Art Coulter, Alex Levinsky, Howie Morenz, Mush March, and Donnie MacFadyen.

Meanwhile, the Shamrocks continued their outdoor workouts at Kolmar Park,

The Windsor team is drilling at the Detroit Olympia. It is composed of French-Canadian stars, including Vern Trottier, center; Con Cornellior, defense; Dick Gosselin, wing; Leo Jollicoeur, wing, and Joe Simard.

M'ELLIGOTT IS NAMED REFEREE FOR CUE MATCH

Cochran and Hoppe Open Play Tomorrow.

Charley McElligott of Chicago yesterday was appointed referee by the National Billiard association for the world's three cushion billiards challenge match between Champion Welker Cochran and Willie Hoppe at the Sherman hotel tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

The 360 point match will be played in six blocks of 60 points each, with total points to count. The grand ball room has been arranged to accommodate the largest crowds in the history of the sport.

W-G-N will daily broadcast the matches, once each Thursday and Friday, and three times on Saturday. Bob Elson will describe the matches. The broadcasting is done from a glass enclosure, high in the stands, with a microphone hidden in the lighting fixture above the table. This records the click of the balls.

Cochran and Hoppe will complete their practice today. Hoppe has been here over a week practicing with Johnny Layton, former world champion, and Kinrey Matsuyama of Japan. Cochran arrived Monday.

RAINVILLE LOSES IN TOURNEY AT CORAL GABLES

Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Marcel Rainville, Canadian champion, was defeated today by Weston Painter of Minneapolis, 6-2, 6-4, in the Miami Biltmore tennis tournament. Carroll Turner, Miami, won his first round match today with John Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla., 6-0, 7-5, but lost to Jack Reitman, Montreal, Canada, 6-3, 1-6, 6-2, in the second round.

Bryan M. Grant, Atlanta; J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J.; Hal Surface Jr., Kansas City; Arthur Hendrix, Lakeland, Fla.; Gardner Mulloy, Miami; Martin Buxby, Miami; Charles Harris, West Palm Beach, and Ricardo, Cuban champion, all progressed into the third round.

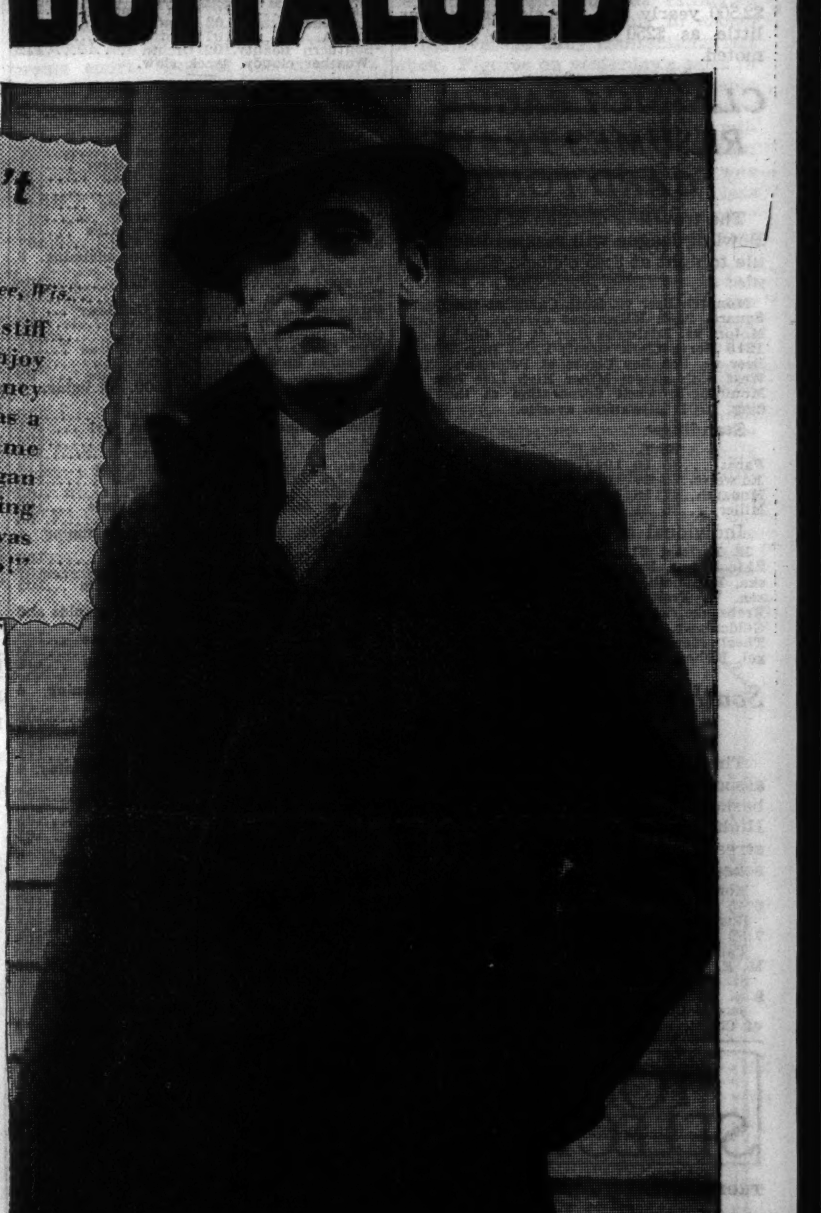
IT COSTS MORE TO PRODUCE BLENDED WHISKEY

FANCY WHISKEY PRICES HAD HIM BUFFALOED

"My Salary Just Couldn't Stand The Gaff"

. . . writes Mr. A. F. HOPPE, 5342 N. Teutonia Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

"Ever since Repeal my purse has been putting up a stiff fight with my palate," continues Mr. Hoppe. "I enjoy good whiskey—like to serve it. But with today's fancy prices my salary just couldn't stand the gaff. It was a problem—and it had me buffaloed. Then along came Old Drum. I noticed its price was low. Then, I began hearing my friends rave about it—boast of its amazing smoothness and flavor. I tried it—and my problem was licked! Old Drum pleases me and my pocketbook, too!"



THOUSANDS NOW BUYING "DRINKABLE" WHISKEY AT A "CENTS-IBLE" PRICE

Old Drum worth at least 40% more—Nation-wide poll of palate reveals

All over America thousands of thrifty folk are saving money—enjoying better whiskey, too!

They're buying Old Drum—the amazing whiskey a Nation voted to be worth at least 40% more than its actual price. A whiskey that's riper, smoother, more wonderfully mellow! A whiskey distilled from the same premium grains used for making the most expensive whiskies!

Enjoy this drinkable whiskey—and its "cents-ible" price. Compare it with any "straight" or "blend" in its price class. Smell the difference. Taste the difference. Pocket the difference. You can't beat Old Drum!

HOW NATION VOTED!

GUESSES $1.50 A PT. "Has a fully aged smoothness—the tang of expensive whiskey."—A. H. Faust, Springfield, Ill.

VOTES $1.40 A PT. "A good tasting whiskey—a nice drink", says Dan Rubino, New York City.

ESTIMATES $1.30 "Nice bouquet—smooth", says M. B. Goldman, Los Angeles, of Old Drum.

FIGURES $1.65 A PT. "Old Drum is a smooth, mellow tasting drink", declares Frank Quillen, Boston, Mass.

Maryland Distillery's Creed

"It should be the responsibility of every legitimate distiller to produce whiskies so perfect, at a price so low, that the public can have no reason for patronizing illegal distillers who defraud our National, State and Local Governments of their just revenues."

HAMBLETONIAN IN AUGUST TO BE WORTH $40,000

38 Remain Eligible for Trot Classic.

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Thirty-eight trotters, including all of the leading 2 year olds of 1935, remain eligible for the Hambletonian, richest of the light harness racing stakes, which will be renewed at Goshen, N. Y., in August.

With five more horses eligible than at the same time last year, the stake will be worth nearly $5,000 additional. E. J. Charles' Greyhound of St. Charles, Ill., earned more than $28,000 for winning the 1935 race in two straight heats. The 1936 purse will gross upward of $40,000.

Rosalind, leading money winning 2 year old of 1935, owned by Gibson White of Lexington, Ky., heads the list of eligibles.

Bulwark Is Contender.

On the basis of 2 year old performances, the filly's chief opposition is expected to come from I. D. Blake's Bulwark of New York City, Ruth M. Mac from C. B. Shaffer's Coldstream stud of Lexington, L. B. Shepard's Brownie Hanover of Hanover, Pa.; Pinero, owned by Thomas I. Havens of Flanders, N. Y.; John E. Kelley's Gaiety Mite of Bangor, Me.; W. Reynolds' Ed Lasater, and Rosette of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Recovery from the Lyle brothers' stable of Plainfield, N. J.

The other eligibles are:

E. Roland Harriman's Friscomite and Scott McElwyn, Goshen; E. J. Baker's the Master and Volyra; I. O. Blake's Steadfast, John F. Davis' Craftsman, Toledo, O.; Fred J. Dixon's Gala, Anderson, Ind.; Martin B. Dodd's Peter Song, Norfolk, Conn.; John L. Dodge's Hollyrood Hermes and Hollyrood Lyda, Lexington; Mrs. Fred F. Field's Anna Bradford's Athlone and Anna Bradford's Polly Polly, Brockton, Mass.; I. W. Gleason's Happiness, Williamsport, Pa.; W. H. Cane's Truce, Goshen; L. B. Shepard's Easter Hanover, Esther Hanover and Fay Hanover; J. F. Horan's Linda Hanover, Tuckahoe, N. Y.; W. Hughes' Clova, Cleveland; E. L. Mefford's His Lordship, Cleveland; C. W. Phellis' Balbo, New York City; R. J. Reynolds' Prince McElwyn, Winston-Salem; W. N. Reynolds' Bill Strang and Decision; Michael Scheider's Knight Hanover, West Allis, Wis.; S. Schwartz and Joseph Burke's Gleason, Plainfield, N. J.; Dr. Robert L. Solt's Tinker's Damn, Bucyrus, O.; John R. Sullivan's Renown, Whitneyville, Me., and Aaron F. Williams' Masterpiece, Corning N. Y.

To codify their rules, representatives of four trotting horse organizations met today, with E. Roland Harriman, president of the Trotting Horse Club of America and of the Grand Circuit, acting as chairman.

Lower Classifications.

The main change was in the lowering the money classifications, made necessary by smaller purses offered during the last few years.

Formerly a trotter or pacer had to earn up to $5,000 in one year to be promoted to the next fastest class, where he would meet faster competition and be in a position to earn more money. This money earned classification, in which the minimum rate was $500 was changed so that fast horses are required to earn only $2,500 yearly and the slower ones as little as $250 in order to be promoted.

BANKS MUST AID CREDIT OF U. S., RFC HEAD SAYS

Hold So Many Bonds Can't Permit Drop.

The banks of the nation will be forced to support the federal government's credit, Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said yesterday.

JESSE H. JONES.

Asked what would happen to the banks in the event of a slump in the federal bond market and if they had sufficient reserves to meet such an emergency, the nation's No. 1 banker, by virtue of RFC's ownership of preferred stock in some 6,000 banks, said the banks hold too many governments to permit a slump.

Jones also remarked that some bankers have taken an unsound position in concentrating their government holdings in short term maturities. A selling wave, he argued, would push quotations down just as quickly on short term paper as on long term bonds.

Finds Borrowers Reticent.

The major problem still confronting the banks in their quest for earnings is the reticence of borrowers, Jones said, hinting that the future rôle of the RFC may be in overcoming this obstacle and in holding interest rates down. He dodged direct answer to an inquiry as to the RFC's future, now that income is exceeding outgo, by saying that is a matter to be decided by the President and congress.

Jones did, however, outline his philosophy that no deserving borrower should be denied credit at a reasonable rate of interest. Seated at the desk of Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company and his host for the day's visit in Chicago, Jones spoke informally of his credit ideas and their application through the RFC.

Urges Action by Banks.

"The big problem before the banks is overcoming the shyness of borrowers," he said. "Many are still timid who have legitimate use for credit—and are worthy of it. Bankers must again convince these people that they are anxious to make loans."

"We're doing that all the time," remarked Cummings at this point. "We're leaders in it."

"Yes, I know," said Jones. "You think you are, but you've got to do it even more. I'd like to see private financing wherever possible."

"We try not to lend rather than trying to lend," he protested, in reference to the RFC's underbidding private bankers on a proposed $100,000,000 bond issue of the Great Northern railroad. "If I were approached for a good loan while I'm here I'd call up the bankers immediately and ask them why the devil they don't make the loan."

Sees Bank Capital Needed.

The RFC boss reiterated his stand that the 6,000 banks which have sold preferred stock to the government agency should not be in any hurry to retire the stock.

"There probably is not a bank in the United States that has too much capital," asserted Jones. The enormous rise of deposits in the last two years, he said, has put most banks in a position where few can afford to reduce their capital structures.

As to the Continental bank, two-thirds of whose capital stock consists of the preferred issue sold to the RFC, Jones said he is "in perfect agreement" with Cummings as to the contemplated dividend action to be taken Friday, when both directors and stockholders hold annual meetings.

Reports were current that the directors will declare a $2 a share dividend on the common stock but that the stock will not be placed on any regular annual basis. Further dividend action would be postponed for six months. This was said to have influenced the sudden rise of $8 a share in trading here yesterday, while other bank stock quotations were unchanged. Continental stock closed at 132 bid, 134 asked.

Treasury Says AAA Checks Outstanding Won't Bounce

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Uncle Sam will have no rubber AAA checks outstanding as a result of the Supreme court decision invalidating the AAA. All commercial banks throughout the country were informed by the treasury department officials tonight that all AAA checks now outstanding are perfectly good and may be cashed. They explained that there is no intention of trying to repudiate any outstanding AAA checks.

New Dealers' Alarms Vain; Markets Rise

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While Secretary of Agriculture Wallace yesterday was viewing with alarm the Supreme court decision killing the AAA and expressing fears that the purchasing power of farmers might be halved, another big upsurge in hog prices at leading live stock centers added 50 cents to $1.50 per hundred pounds to prices, thereby raising the estimated value of hogs on farms 100 million dollars since the hour when the Supreme court rendered its opinion.

When the Supreme court declared the NRA unconstitutional on May 27, 1935, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA head, predicted the direst consequences for industry and labor. For several days the stock market declined sharply until by June 1 the Dow-Jones industrial averages were down to 109.75, compared with 116.74 on the day of the decision. Then began a steady rise. Yesterday, after another sharp upturn, the industrial averages closed at 144.92. Employment also has risen almost continuously since the killing of the NRA, despite Gen. Johnson's viewing with alarm.

Debate Who Will Receive Impounded Process Taxes.

Still unsettled yesterday was the puzzle concerning the distribution of the processing tax funds which the meat packers, flour millers, and other processors have placed in escrow at the direction of federal judges following the recent series of injunctions granted against collectors of internal revenue.

The ownership of these funds was not definitly established in the Supreme court's ruling in the Hoosac Mills case on Monday. An amendment to the original AAA law passed by congress barred the return of tax funds, but the constitutionality of this amendment is being contested in the case of the rice millers before the Supreme court.

* *

Chicago attorneys are laying odds that the processing companies will be permitted to keep the funds they have been holding back, their reasoning being that possession is nine points of the law. As for the funds already turned over to the tax collectors, however, the general opinion is that the government will retain possession. The latter funds amount to about one billion dollars, which is regarded as too large a sum for the government to relinquish.

Another argument is that many of the processors have billed their customers specifically for the taxes, which is prima facie evidence that the consumer, not the processor, paid the tax. This is particularly true of processors of peanuts.

The government has the legal right to refuse to be sued for the return of such funds.

Both Producer and Consumer Are Expected to Be Benefited.

Who will get the benefit of the removal of the processing tax, producer or consumer? Most market experts figure that each will get part of it. They say that the farmer will get either a higher price if the volume of production remains about the same as this year or, if he increases his production, a larger income because of the larger crop. Offsetting this, however, will be whatever amount he loses through reduction or elimination of government subsidies.

The consumer is expected to get lower retail prices, but not a reduction equal to the full amount of the tax. Furthermore, lower retail prices are expected to stimulate bigger consumer demand for products of the farm, thereby enabling the farmers to market larger crops.

Retail pork prices are expected to drop slowly. Ordinarily it takes about two weeks for a drop in the cost of live hogs to be reflected in lower retail pork prices.

* *

Packers yesterday were careful not to make any predictions concerning the trend of hog prices. Last March, however, G. E. Putnam, economist for Swift & Co. and representative of the Institute of American Meat Packers, testifying before the senate agriculture committee said, in reply to a question: "If the tax were removed today the price of hogs would instantly jump $2.25 a hundredweight."

Other experts yesterday were not so definite. One guessed that the farmers would get between $1.25 and $1.50 per hundredweight of live hogs and that the packers, retailers, and consumers would get the rest.

The situation is confused by other influences affecting hog prices. Normally there is a downward trend late in the year. In 1935, however, this downswing failed to occur because farmers were holding back their hogs in anticipation of higher prices. Now that the AAA decision is out shipments have increased. Such increased supplies would naturally tend to push prices downward.

Ford Motor World Output Expands 56 Pct. Over 1934

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Ford Motor company announced today that world production in 1935 was 1,335,865 units, a gain of 56 per cent over 1934. Ford production in the United States and Canada last year was 1,272,885 units, a gain of 77 per cent over 1934.

HOG PRICES SOAR IN WAKE OF AAA DEATH

Rise One of Widest on Record.

The markets for hogs at all leading packing centers surged upward again yesterday in one of the greatest peace time advances in history. Since dissolution of the AAA and its processing taxes at noon Monday, the aggregate value of hogs on farms has risen almost $100,000,000 based on the higher net prices farmers are paid.

Prices in the Chicago area rose 50 cents to $1 during the day, with gains at other leading markets ranging from 50 cents to $1.50. Omaha, Neb., sold top grades of hogs as high as $10.75, or 35 cents above the Chicago top. Early last week top classes of hogs here were bringing 50 cents more than in Omaha.

Market Flooded with Orders.

A deluge of buying orders swept into the Chicago stockyards from all parts of the east. Despite heaviest receipts in a year some orders could not be filled, so heavy was the demand.

Buyers here paid $10.40 for top grade 210 pound hogs at the high point yesterday, as compared with $9.50 at the start of Monday's session.

Meanwhile consumers were putting in their demands for part of the $2.25 processing tax by demanding lower pork prices. They contended that since packers made a saving of $2.25 on the price they pay for hogs when the tax was killed a lower price for pork should be in order. Evidence that packers are meeting the demands was seen yesterday when quotations in wholesale markets were shaved $1 a hundred pounds on pork loins.

Further Adjustment Possible.

At the close yesterday data furnished by packers relating to their cutout profit in hogs, which soared with the end of the tax, disclosed there is still room for an adjustment of from 50 cents to $1 in the market, either through further reductions in pork prices or that much advance in hog markets.

Many of the live stock commission men, believing that further advances were in line for hogs, carried between 3,000 and 4,000 head over for today's selling. They carried 2,500 over from Monday that they had taken off the market. Some salesmen carried their entire offerings until late in the day, demanding that packers place the entire $2.25 on the hog market in one day.

Since this is the amount the packer saved by the ruling of the court, the equivalent of the tax should have been added immediately to the price packers paid the farmers, or $2.25, some sellers argued.

Higher Price Sought.

Consequently, for some time yesterday about 5,000 hogs were held at $11.50 to $11.75, which was $2.25 higher than the prices prevailing for hogs Monday forenoon before the tax was ended, but toward the close what was left on the market could be bought for $10.50.

Yesterday's sensational advance was made on heavy receipts. Arrivals at the eleven leading packing centers the first two days of this week totaled 152,000 head, or 34,000 larger than a week ago.

Many small local packers who not long ago were tottering financially under the tax load they were bearing admitted the Supreme court decision practically rescued them from bankruptcy. With the ruling also making bootlegging unprofitable, the legitimate packer is willing to again stock up his cellars with pork.

Cattle, Sheep Easier.

Cattle and sheep prices were easier on prospects of increased competition from pork. Both cattle and lambs were steady to 25 cents lower. Cattle clearance was only fair.

One feature of the day was the arrival of a string of five carloads of Canadian cattle, 77 of which sold for $7.85, going to feeder buyers at this figure. Most of the slaughter steers from the corn belt brought $7.65 to $11, with prime 1,330 pound averages establishing the $13.85 top.

City butchers paid the $11.25 top for fat lambs, while packers bought the bulk of ocerings at $10.75 to $11.10.

CONTINUE CORN LOANS PENDING POLICY DECISION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Corn loans will continue to be made until a final decision is made on future lending policies on agricultural crops, the Commodity Credit corporation announced today in the wake of the Supreme court ruling which wrecked the AAA.

Officials of the corporation and of AAA, after a series of conferences, said no decision is likely for another day or two as to whether the loan program can be continued, with production control now impossible.

Armour Earns Less Due to Animal Derth

Despite a 21 per cent increase in dollar sales, Armour & Co., in the fiscal year ended Nov. 2, 1935, had a net profit of $9,348,678, a decrease of $1,211,940 from the $10,560,618 reported for the preceding fiscal year, according to the consolidated annual report of R. H. Cabell. Earnings on the 4,065,418 shares of common stock after payment of preferred dividends were at the rate of a little more than 57 cents a share, compared with about 80 cents a share in 1934.

R. H. CABELL. [Moffett Photo.]

While the dollar volume of sales at $683,000,000 compared with $564,000,000 reported for the preceding year, tonnage sold declined 3 per cent.

Processing Taxes Impounded.

During the period from May 1 to Dec. 1 the Armour company had collected and impounded $12,000,000 in processing taxes. What disposition will be made of this amount is yet to be determined, but should the money be released by the courts to the packing company it would amount to about $1.10 a share on the common stock after allowance for preferred dividends for a year.

Cabell said the profit from last year's operations was approximately 1⅜ cents per dollar of sales.

"In our operations in 1935 we were confronted with a drastic reduction in the supply of live stock," he said. "Due primarily to the government's hog control program there were only 29,266,000 hogs marketed in the United States during the year as contrasted with 44,398,000 in 1934 and an average of 46,232,000 for the five preceding years.

Cattle and Sheep About Normal.

"Cattle and sheep, whose numbers were not controled by the government, came to market in something like normal numbers, although cattle were somewhat lighter than usual, largely attributable to the shortage of feed occasioned by the drouth and by the reduced planting of corn.

"The total meat supply in the United States was 18 per cent under that of the previous year and 20 per cent under the average for the years 1923 to 1933, inclusive.

"This shortage, particularly in the case of pork, substantially increased the price of live stock, the unit cost of handling, and the selling price of meat. A decrease in tonnage is a matter of great concern to our industry. Successful packing house operations depend on large volume. Unit costs advance rapidly if output declines."

Meat Boycotts Reduce Sales.

Cabell recalled the boycotts in various parts of the country caused by the advances in meat prices, saying they affected sales to such an extent that at times during the year it was difficult to sell even the short supply of meat available.

Discussing the spread between meat prices and live stock prices, Cabell said an important factor is the ever increasing tax bill which the packing industry is compelled to pay.

"The federal and state old age pension and unemployment insurance laws will materially add to the cost of doing business," Cabell added.

PEOPLES GAS TO SAVE MILLION A YEAR ON PIPE LINE CONTRACT

Modification of a contract between the Chicago District Pipe Line company and the Natural Gas Pipe Line company, which will save the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company approximately $1,000,000 annually, has been approved by the Illinois commerce commission, it was disclosed last night by George A. Ranney, chairman of Peoples Gas.

Chicago District Pipe Line transports natural gas originating in Texas from Joliet, Ill., supplying Peoples Gas, Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and Western United Gas and Electric company for resale to their customers. The three operating concerns own all capital stock of Chicago District Pine Line.

The original contract, made in 1931, provided a charge for the use of pipe line capacity, based on 130 million cubic feet beginning Jan. 1, 1935, at $5.5358 per thousand cubic feet monthly, plus a charge per thousand cubic feet of gas actually taken. Under the revised contract a capacity of 110 million cubic feet will be used as a basis this year and 120 million thereafter, with the charge cut to $5.25 per ahousand feet. It is said most of the million dollar saving to Peoples Gas can be applied directly to net income.

FORECASTS RISE OF 5 TO 10 PCT. IN NATIONAL INCOME

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The commerce department said today it expected a five to 10 per cent increase would be shown in the national income during 1935.

"Preliminary estimates," the department said in a monthly survey of business, "suggest that the total national income distributed will exceed the 1934 figure of $50,200,000,000 by more than five per cent and possibly by as much as 10 per cent."

National income distributed is used by the department as measuring the amount of money actually paid out in the form of wages, dividends, and similar items.

The department noted a greater improvement in rural retail sales than in urban areas, saying:

"Some indication of the comparative improvement in rural and urban areas is evidenced by the 19 per cent gain in the index of rural sales of general merchandise, and the five per cent increase in the department store sales index during the first 11 months of the year."

The survey said industrial production during December was maintained at a relatively high level, and that retail sales generally were "considerably above" 1934.

Pullman Company Reports No Fatalities Last Year

No Pullman passenger or employé was killed while riding in a Pullman car during 1935, D. A. Crawford, president, announced yesterday. This safety record duplicates that of 1932, which brought the award to the company by the American Museum of Safety of the E. H. Harriman Certificate of Special Commendation. More than 15,000,000 passengers were carried in Pullman cars during 1935.

Air Lines Plan Big Test Ship for Joint Use

Representatives of five major air lines were reported near an agreement last night on a coöperative program of research and development of improved and standardized equipment which would save them several millions of dollars annually.

Executives, engineers, technical men, and trafic advisors of the various lines have been working for a year on specifications to be submitted to airplane manufacturers for building an experimental type of ship capable of use on all lines.

The proposed plane would be of the larger type suitable for long distance operation with a larger pay load. Representatives of the various companies have been in contact with manufacturers interested in submitting bids on such a plane.

All Lines to Test Ships.

All lines would give the new ship thorough tests on their routes and submit any changes in specifications desired to meet their individual conditions and problems.

If the plan proves feasible, planes of this type will be put into service within two years by the major companies. The new ships are intended to meet any requirements which might arise in five years.

Under the system now prevailing, each company has been spending too much, working independently. Competition has resulted in a high price for obsolescence, $50,000 planes being junked in three years on the average as first one manufacturer and then another came out with some new feature or a few miles more per hour in speed.

Write Own Specifications.

Under the proposed program, the companies would write their own specifications with a maximum of standardization instead of buying what the manufacturer has to offer. They would share the expenses of developing the new ships. Complete interchange of technical advancement would prevail, different companies being responsible for different phases of the problem.

An all day conference here yesterday was attended by C. R. Smith, president of American Airlines; E. V. Rickenbacker, general manager of Eastern Airlines; Frank Gledhill of Pan American Airways; Jack Frye, president of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and W. A. Patterson, president of United Airlines.

Short Term Treasury Bill Issue to Yield 0.107 Pct.

The average accepted bid on the latest issue of 273 day treasury bills was 99.919, equal to a rate of 0.107 per cent, Secretary Morgenthau announced yesterday. The bills are dated Jan. 8, 1936, and mature Oct. 7, 1936. Applications totaled $132,204,000, of which $50,060,000 was accepted.

PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

Flour Prices Slashed as Tax Burden Is Cut

Flour prices were slashed by milling companies in all parts of the country yesterday as a result of the Supreme court decision invalidating the processing tax of 30 cents a bushel on wheat. Price cuts ranged from 80 cents to $1.40 a barrel, depending on the locality and the type of flour. The readjustment is not expected to affect retail bread prices.

The reductions apply to rye as well as wheat flour. The process levy on rye, which became effective only a few months ago, was the same as on wheat, 30 cents a bushel.

On the basis of 4½ bushels of wheat to a barrel of flour—the normal ratio—the levy on a barrel of flour amounted to $1.35. This season, however, because of the poor quality of much of the wheat harvested, millers found it necessary to use more than the usual amount of wheat, which resulted in increasing the tax per barrel. As a result some of the reductions yesterday amounted to as much as $1.40 per barrel.

Buyers Refuse Old Prices.

Some of the smaller milling companies failed yesterday to follow the lead of the big millers in cutting prices. They made offerings at the same prices quoted last week. Buyers, however, who have been restricting purchases for several weeks in expectation of removal of the tax would make purchases only at the new price schedule.

Prices quoted yesterday by Chicago milling companies were 80 cents to $1.25 a barrel below Monday's values. The following table shows yesterday's quotations on principal grades compared with the preceding day per barrel:

	Yesterday.	Monday.
Hard spring patent...	$6.60@6.75	$7.50@7.70
Soft spring patent...	5.30@5.50	6.30@6.50
Hard wheat patent...	6.30@6.50	7.10@7.30
Rye-white patent....	3.90@3.95	5.10@5.20

Flour prices in Minneapolis, one of the principal milling centers, were reported down $1.20 a barrel from Monday's quotations. Manufacturers quoted family patent flour at approximately $7.65 a barrel. In Lincoln, Neb., the price was cut approximately $1.10 a barrel. Buffalo millers reported cuts of 95 cents to $1.25. In St. Louis the market dropped about $1.38 a barrel.

Unlikely to Affect Bread.

It is not believed the reduction in flour will have an effect on bread prices. One barrel of flour is enough to make 300 loaves of bread, which means the tax on each loaf, at the rate of $1.35 per barrel, amounted to only slightly more than a half cent.

Corn Products company yesterday announced immediate reductions of 10 to 13 cents per hundred pounds on prices of its products as a result of the death of the Agricultural Adjustment act at the hands of the Supreme court. One of the country's largest producers of starches, sirups, and other corn derivatives, the company at once sent notices to its customers of price reductions, said to be approximately equivalent to increased costs brought about by the now ineffective processing tax provisions of AAA.

I. C. C. Approves Salaries for Great Western Trustees

The interstate commerce commission yesterday authorized annual salaries of $30,000 and $15,000 for Patrick H. Joyce and Luther M. Walter, respectively, who are co-trustees for the Chicago Great Western railroad which has filed a reorganization petition under section 77 of the bankruptcy act. Joyce is president of the railroad and Walter is a Chicago attorney.

COMMODITIES LITTLE CHANGED BY TAX RULING

Grains Are Steady; Cotton Weakest.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Market values on wheat, corn, rye, lard, and cotton, all commodities on which processing taxes were levied in varying amounts under the agricultural adjustment program, were subject to only minor fluctuations yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade in the first full trading session following the Supreme court's invalidation of the tax. Prices on some of the commodities affected were marked up while others sustained small declines. In no instance was the price action so decisive as to suggest wholesale readjustment as a result of the death sentence passed on the administration's farm program.

The May wheat contract, the principal future now dealt in, was selling at $1.03 a bushel at the close of the market, ⅝ cent a bushel above Monday's final quotation. May corn dropped a half cent a bushel to close at 61⅞ cents; rye fell a corresponding amount to a price of 54¾ cents for the May contract. All lard futures rose in price, with closing figures representing gains of 2½ to 7½ cents per pound. The January future closed at 11.47 cents.

Cotton Is Weakest.

Cotton was the weakest of the commodities affected by the repeal of the process levy. In the Chicago futures market prices dropped a quarter to approximately a third of a cent a pound, equivalent to $1.25 to $1.65 per bale. Comparable declines occurred in the New York and New Orleans markets. May cotton futures closed here at 10.97 cents per pound.

The following table shows yesterday's closing prices on the principal future as compared with Monday's and Saturday's quotations, and the amount of the tax formerly levied on each:

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Saturday.	Amt. of tax.
Wh't, May, bu.	$1.03	$1.02⅜	$1.02½	$ .30
Corn, May, bu	.61⅞	.62⅛	.62	.05
Rye, May, bu	.54¾	.55⅛	.55⅝	.30
Lard, Mar., lb.	11.57c	11.00c	11.65c	2.47c
Cotton, May, lb.	10.97c	11.97c	11.21	4.2c

Trading Volume Rises.

The volume of trading in all of the commodities affected was estimated to have been considerably in excess of the average daily transactions last week. Figures on yesterday's sales in grain futures will not be available until today. Yesterday's report, however, showed that more than 42 million bushels of wheat were traded on Monday, when the court decision was announced, as compared with less than 11 million bushels last Saturday and approximately 29 millions last Friday.

The principal uncertainty yesterday over the court decision was in the prices quoted on processed commodities such as flour. It is the miller that pays the tax and consequently it is the price of flour rather than wheat that reflects the tax. The big milling companies yesterday were said to be quoting flour prices 80 cents to $1.40 a barrel cheaper, approximately the amount of the tax. Some milling companies, however, were un-

STOCKS CLIMB; EFFECTS OF AAA DECREE CLEARER

Utilities Lead in Upturn; End of TVA Seen.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 7. — Overnight thoughts on the AAA decision put the Wall street speculative community in an even more cheerful frame of mind today and stocks were bought heavily in most departments of the market.

The utilities attracted the most favorable attention as a group. The chief exceptions to the upward trend were the farm shares and some of the food issues, which sold down with commodities. Mail order issues showed an inclination to move ahead with the main list in the early trading but suffered a setback in the afternoon to finish around their previous closing levels.

Trading was at a little slower pace than in yesterday's feverish session but the turnover topped 3,000,000 shares.

Hope for Utilities Seen.

The utilities were bought all day on the theory that the Supreme court in its impending decision on the constitutionality of the TVA might deal another blow to the New Deal. Improved earnings reports by some of the leading corporations in the power and light field also were a factor of bullishness in this market division.

Commonwealth and Southern, directly in the path of the government's invasion of privately owned utilities, continued to lead its section of the list in point of activity. The stock sold up to 3⅛, compared with its low of ¾ earlier in the year.

Gains of 1 to 3 points or more were recorded by the different issues of American Power and Light, American and Foreign Power, American Water Works, Peoples Gas, Consolidated Gas, United Corporation, North American, Laclede Gas, Public Service, and others. The close found the group in new high ground.

Receivership Rails Active.

Many receivership rails were unusually active. Atchison, Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific, and Great Northern were prominent. Buying of the carriers was based on a number of considerations. One was the improvement in earnings, another was the filing of a suit attacking the pension act and still another was the annual report of the interstate commerce commission, which made a plea for legislation designed to regulate motors, air and water competition with the rails.

Selling in the farm implement and merchandising stocks was based on the idea that the AAA invalidation might reduce farm income.

Electrical issues were fairly powerful, as were the majority of the standard industrials. Westinghouse rose nearly 4 points.

INLAND STEEL NET EXPECTED TO TOP 8 MILLIONS

Earnings for 1935 Largest Since 1929.

Net income of the Inland Steel company for 1935 will be the largest for any year since 1929, it was reported in La Salle street yesterday.

While no figures are available it is said profit for the last quarter of 1935 will exceed the $1,810,203 reported for the quarter ended Sept. 30, which would make the total for the year in excess of $8,478,712. This would be the largest amount since the $11,712,374 reported for 1929. Net income for 1934 was $3,729,890.

Operating Rate Heavy.

Favorable results in the last quarter were attributed to the high level of operations carried on. Business was so heavy during this period that closing down of a number of open hearth furnaces to allow repairs and adjustments in plant operations had to be postponed several times.

Two weeks ago eight open hearth furnaces were closed down at the Indiana Harbor plant to permit adjustments to a blooming mill which produces large blocks of steel. These furnaces will be fired today, the work having been completed a week sooner than expected.

With these furnaces in use Inland will have 23 of its 27 in operation. Business is reported to be holding up well at the present time.

$6,668,509 Profit.

In the first quarter of 1935, Inland Steel had a net income of $6,668,509, exclusive of the profit of Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, Inc., which was acquired during the year and is now operated independently as a subsidiary. During the same period the Ryerson company had net income of $691,692.

If the estimates in La Salle street are justified Inland Steel's per share earnings for 1935 should be in excess of $7. In 1929 the company earned $9.76 a share. In 1934 it earned $3.11 a share.

LIGHT BUTTER WITHDRAWAL CAUSES DECLINE IN FUTURES

Unfavorable statistical reports, showing smaller withdrawals of butter from cold storage than during the corresponding period last year had a depressing effect on futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday and the close was ⅜ to ½ cent lower with January finishing at 32 cents per pound. Receipts of fresh butter were moderately heavy and the spot markets were easier.

Scattered liquidation by longs developed in January eggs after a firm opening and the close was ¼ cent lower at 17⅝ cents per dozen. The out of storage movement was somewhat heavier than last year. Sales of butter were 37 cars; eggs, 40 cars, and potatoes 6 cars. Prices:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Trading in cotton goods still was suspended today as buyers and sellers strove to clarify numerous problems created by invalidation of the processing tax.

Prices remained nominally unchanged from tax-inclusive levels of last week, but mills were represented as willing to concede a part of the tax. Rayon cloths were quiet, silk fabrics dull, wool goods slow, and burlaps quiet.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable, was easy today with July at a new low level for the season. After showing net losses of 18 to 20 points there was a partial rally on covering. Final prices were 11 to 13 points net lower. Sales were 227 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; January and March closed 10.34c per lb; May, 10.32c; July, 10.30c.

RAILS FILE SUIT TO INVALIDATE '35 PENSION ACT

Permanent Injunction Is Asked by March 1.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Major railroads sued today to smash the New Deal's railroad retirement pension legislation—1935 successor to the law invalidated last spring by a 5 to 4 decision of the Supreme court.

The District of Columbia Supreme court was asked by 135 carriers to grant, before March 1, a permanent injunction against operation of the act granting federal annuities to elderly employés, and the companion measure taxing railroads and employés to raise the funds.

Citing constitutional restrictions against taking property without due process of law, the railroads branded the legislation "arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable."

Charge Unlawful Distribution.

Its purpose, their petition said, is "unlawfully to distribute funds, unlawfully raised, to a group of persons especially selected and determined solely by the employment in which they are engaged."

In a statement the Association of American Railroads said that while yesterday's decision killing AAA will not be controling, it "will be helpful to the plaintiffs in this case."

Taxes under the pension system were estimated at $58,000,000 for the first year of operation, with annual increases bringing them to $269,000,000 by 1960.

The laws direct railroads to pay 3½ per cent on pay rolls and employés 3½ per cent on incomes, effective March 1. Neither the carriers nor employés, however, would pay taxes on compensation in excess of $300 a month.

Maximum $120 Monthly.

Workers would be retired at 65 or after the completion of thirty years of service. They would receive pensions up to $120 a month, based on previous earnings.

The suit, prepared by a committee of rail attorneys, said 130,000 employés are eligible for pensions. Saying that the acts constitute a "spoliation and confiscation" of railroad property, the carriers' petition added that the measures are "coördinated" and comprise a "single legislative scheme to establish a railroad pension system."

The tax law was described as a "seizure of funds." Maturing railroad obligations, it was said, "are materially and severely affected adversely by this tax cloud."

SUGAR FUTURES UP LIMIT; FIRST TIME IN 15 YEARS

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Sugar futures rose the full limit of 25 points or ¼ cent a pound in a spectacular advance today, following Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's announcement that the Supreme court's AAA decision did not affect the validity of sugar quotas.

The advance carried several contracts up the limit allowed for one day's trading on the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange. This was the first time in fifteen years that a limit advance has been needed. Earlier the market had sagged 8 to 11 points in a continuation of yesterday's slump before recovering to hold 5 to 6 points under the previous close.

Spot sugar was unchanged with no sales reported. There were additional offerings at the last paid prices of 3.30c per lb for spots with indications that some holders were willing to accept less.

Range of futures prices yesterday in cents per pound:

Refined was unchanged with all refiners accepting orders for prompt shipments at 4.75 cents per pound.

RAILROAD PROFIT FOR 11 MONTHS RISES SLIGHTLY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Class 1 railways, the Association of American Railroads said today, had net railway operating income of $451,701,114 during the first eleven months of 1935. This represented an annual rate of return of 1.85 per cent on property investment, the association reported, an increase from 1.74 per cent for the same period in 1934.

Gross operating revenues for the eleven months increased from $3,014,059,031 in 1934 to $3,154,269,797 last year, or 4.7 per cent. Operating expenses mounted from $2,244,035,154 to $2,367,770,363, or 5.5 per cent.

Eight carriers in the eastern, five in the southern, and thirteen in the western districts failed to earn expenses and taxes. Rate of return by districts was: Eastern, 2.46; southern, 1.64; western, 1.23.

Thirteen Room Winnetka House Sold for $49,000

H. Kirke Becker, vice president and general manager of the Peters Machinery company, yesterday purchased the thirteen room brick residence at 368 Elder lane, Winnetka, from Mrs. Amy Orton Jacobs, widow of Charles Jacobs. Revenue stamps on the deed indicate a price of $49,000. Holland F. Flahavan was attorney for the buyer. The property is 92 by 170 feet.

FIELD SEEDS

Timothy seed was quoted around $3.25@3.30 per 100 lbs for country run and $3.65@3.70 for fancy recleaned.

Prices quoted are for irregular country run lots, unless otherwise specified, per 100 lbs. Jobbers' prices to the retail trade are higher. Red clover, country run, $13.60@17.60; fancy recleaned, $18.25. Alsike, $16.25@21.75; alfalfa, Kansas, $13.60; Idaho, $13.55; Utah, $15.60; affidavit Grimm, $16.10; sweet clover, country run, $3.85@4.35; [illegible] top, 90 to 95 per cent purity, $7.25@[illegible].25.

I. C. C. Report Urges Power to Control Water Carriers

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission today urged an extension of its power over water carrier rates, and a reorganization of its own set-up to provide for appellate divisions.

The commission's limited jurisdiction over maritime matters would be extended, under the plan proposed in the annual report, "to prevent the difficulties often resulting in the rate structure where unreasonably low rates are maintained by carriers beyond our control."

The proposed appellate divisions would be composed of five or more of the 11 commission members, and would consider applications for rehearings. The report opposed any increase in commission membership.

Disagree With Eastman.

Citing that "numerous plans and suggestions" for reorganization of the commission to facilitate its work under the new air mail and motor carrier laws have been advanced, the report added that these proposals "have almost without exception provided for an increase in the membership of the commission with the increase in cost incident thereto." Transportation Coördinator Joseph B. Eastman urged reorganization of the commission last year, along with an increase of its membership to 16.

The commission asked further authority "to protect employés from undue financial loss" resulting from rail abandonments, unifications, or relocation of shops. In some cases, it was said, carriers have voluntarily effected arrangements satisfactory to employés. In others the commission was able to impose protective provisions through its orders.

Would Exempt Electric Lines.

The commission urged that all street, suburban and interurban electric railways be exempted from its jurisdiction except when they are operated as links in steam railways systems or when they are engaged in general freight transportation and interchange cars with steam roads.

As to railway earnings, the report said although 1935 operating revenues have been above the lowest depression levels "there has been lacking the pronounced improvement which was necessary to absorb the increased level of wages and material cost."

"It has become increasingly plain," the report added, "that emergence from the unfavorable financial situation" is dependent upon both business revival and the adaption of rail methods to "conditions created by other means of transportation."

LATE TRADE BUYING CUTS CAUSES DROP IN FUTURES

Heavy selling of cotton futures, attributed to English, continental, and domestic speculators, developed in cotton yesterday as the result of the Supreme court decision on the AAA and the belief that the Bankhead control act would also be found unconstitutional.

Prices dropped as much as $2 per bale on the new crop futures as compared with Monday's finish and around $3.50 per bale from the high point of that day. Numerous stop-loss orders were uncovered on the way down and, while short covering and trade buying caused some recovery, the close in leading markets showed losses ranging from $1.05 to $1.80 per bale, with the October and December deliveries leading.

Spot cotton closed $1.25 to $1.75 per bale lower, with New Orleans and Houston quoted at 11.55 cents and New York at 11.80 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

SEC BUDGET RAISED; LANDIS SEES NEED FOR TIGHTER MARKET GRIP

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The necessity of regulating over-the-counter markets and prospective increased activity on stock exchanges were cited by James M. Landis, chairman of the securities and exchange commission, in urging increased appropriations for his body, it became known today. Transcript of secret hearings by the house subcommittee on independent offices appropriations were made public simultaneously with the committee's report of the bill to the house. The committee granted the SEC an appropriation of $4,238,000, or $1,973,506 over the current appropriation.

Landis told the committee that "the necessity of exercising control over the over-the-counter market was apparent to congress at the time of the passage of the act and daily becomes more evident to the commission. "Unless adequate control is exercised over these markets the entire system of regulation of the exchange markets is likely to break down," he asserted. He said that if over-the-counter markets are left unregulated securities heretofore dealt in on regular exchanges are likely to drift into the over-the-counter group.

"Evidences already apparent indicate a likelihood of market activity upon a considerably larger scale than was the case during the last year," he said, adding that some observers are fearful of the tendencies that may develop unless the market is controled and that the task of supervision was becoming "more arduous daily."

STRONG RALLY LIFTS LARD FUTURES 2½ TO 7½ CENTS

Lard futures closed higher yesterday on a rally influenced by the strength in hogs. During early trading there were losses of as much as 22½ cents from Monday's close, due to confusion over the effect of the AAA decision on the product. Short covering brought a sharp improvement and the close was at top prices for the day, or gains of 2½ to 7½ cents over Monday.

Cash lard closed at $11.50; loose, $10.87; leaf, $11, and clear bellies [salt pork] at $16.97 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:

Dollar volume of retail sales in 1935 increased 7.1 per cent above 1934, the National Dry Goods association estimated yesterday. The upward climb underway in 1934 was continued last year, the association states, but the rate of progress was smaller.

The report covers dollar sales of department, dry goods and women's apparel stores, and was prepared by the controlers' congress of the association. It is based on information from stores doing 25 per cent of the annual volume of the above types.

SLASH GOVERNING COST OR WE FACE RUIN, IS WARNING

Rising government expenditures must be halted or the nation will be destroyed, Frank C. Rand, chairman of the board of the International Shoe company, declared yesterday before the national Shoe fair in the Palmer house. Thousands of retailers and manufacturers and their displays are occupying loop hotels for the fair.

"All of us are asking, 'What is the primary cause of higher prices on everything we buy?'" said Mr. Rand.

"I am confident that no single factor contributes more to higher living costs than constantly increasing taxes of all kinds. The insidious influence of unlimited taxation is felt in every home, for every citizen is paying taxes on everything he buys."

William T. Darling, superintendent of the public schools of Wauwatosa, Wis., told the foot science section of the Fair "how the Wauwatosa elementary schools look after the foot comfort of the pupils. With the coöperation of the city health department, the schools examine the feet of the children, he said. If anything wrong is found, the parent is called into conference. If foot exercises are needed, the child, in the presence of the parent, is told how to perform them, and the parent is given information on the proper choice of footwear.

CHICAGO STOCKS STRONG; UTILITY SHARES BUOYANT

Gains of as much as four points were recorded on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday as a buoyant tone prevailed. Utilities were particularly strong, in anticipation that the Tennessee Valley authority will meet a fate similar to that of the New Deal's farm program.

Commonwealth Edison led the up surge with a $4 spurt to 101 in fairly active trading, the first time the stock has sold above par since March 1, 1932. Public Service no par and common gained 1½ and 2 points respectively, approaching 1935-'36 highs.

Packing shares remained active and held Monday's gains or advanced slightly. Miller & Hart preferred rose nearly a point to a new high.

Marshall Field Official to Speak Before Bankers

James O. McKinsey, chairman of Marshall Field & Co., will be the speaker at the opening luncheon Thursday, Jan. 16, of the central states group conference of the Investment Bankers' association, which will be held at the Palmer house. The conference will extend through Jan. 17. McKinsey will discuss "Trends in Management Problems."

2 Vice Presidents Chosen by Gen. Am. Transportation

Leroy Kramer has been elected first vice president of the General American Transportation corporation and Robert R. Dunn was made vice president, Max Epstein, chairman of the board, announced yesterday.

PRICE OF GRAINS LITTLE CHANGED BY TAX DECISION

Cotton Is Weakest of Commodities.

willing to lower their prices and offered flour only at the old prices.

The uncertainty resulted because of the inventories on which the tax had already been paid. Stocks in transit and sold for future delivery were made at the old prices and processors were uncertain whether they would recover taxes paid since the courts began to impound the funds. On new business, however, all millers were apparently willing to reduce their quotations the amount of the tax.

The market action of lard was somewhat puzzling to traders. Lard is a processed article and the market price theoretically includes the processing tax of 2.47 cents per pound. The market yesterday, however, gained instead of giving effect to the removal of the tax. Explanation of this apparently rested in part in the advance that has taken place in the last two days in hog prices. The lard market also had declined prior to the announcement of the decision indicating that traders had anticipated the removal of the tax and the price readjustment took place gradually.

Look to Acreage Increase.

While the death of the tax was of immediate market interest on all future contracts, it was the elimination of production curtailment plans that was expected to have more bearing on future contracts calling for delivery several months hence. The decision leaves producers free to increase acreage as much as they desire during the coming season.

Obviously this cannot affect the supply and demand ratio between now and the time the next crops are harvested. On future contracts maturing after the harvest, however, this effect of the decision has a real bearing. This was shown in the diverse trend shown yesterday in May and July wheat. Deliveries will be made under the May future before another crop is harvested. July wheat is a new crop future.

While May wheat was advancing ⅝ cent a bushel the July contract fell ⅝ cent a bushel. September wheat, another new crop contract, also declined. In neither the July or September futures, however, were the price declines more than might have taken place in a normal trading day. The market action failed to reflect any great apprehension of a big increase in production as a result of the scrapping of the restriction program.

PHONES IN USE GAIN 3½ PER CENT DURING LAST YEAR

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—A net gain of 461,156 telephone stations during 1935, or 3.5 per cent, was reported today by the Bell system, against a gain of 298,000 stations, or 2.3 per cent, during the previous year. The net gain in December was 47,848 stations, compared with a gain of 21,146 stations in December, 1934.

The high point in number of telephones, exclusive of connecting companies, was reached in the fall of 1930 when the number of stations in the Bell system stood at 15,590,000.

From then on the total declined until in the fall of 1933 there were slightly less than 13,000,000 telephones, a loss of about 16.5 per cent.

By Dec. 31, 1933, the total had risen to a little more than 13,000,000; by Dec. 31, 1934, to 13,377,744, and by Dec. 31 last to 13,838,900.

In July of last year a loss of 22,800 telephones was recorded, but in every month since then there has been a substantial increase, the largest occurring in September when 92,000 stations were added.

REPUBLIC STEEL, CANADA PREPARE TO REFUND BONDS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The Republic Steel corporation has paved the way for another entry into the capital market by filing with the securities and exchange commission a registration statement covering a proposed issue of $45,000,000 twenty-five year bond, the proceeds of which would be used to redeem funded debt of subsidiaries bearing rates of 5 to 7 per cent.

The Dominion of Canada prepared to float a large issue of its securities in the American money market by filing an application covering $48,000,000 of twenty-five year 3¼ per cent bonds, dated Jan. 15, 1936, and due Jan. 15, 1961. The proceeds, along with funds of the dominion treasury, will be used for the payment or redemption of bonds and treasury bills now outstanding.

ALLIED CHEMICAL CALLS PREFERRED AT $120 A SHARE

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—Allied Chemical and Dye corporation will redeem its preferred stock Feb. 14 at $120 a share and accrued dividend. This step, announced by directors today, will require $41,760,000, which will come from available funds of the company without borrowing or other refinancing.

Dividend requirements on the preferred in the hands of the public have been $2,418,780 annually. Following redemption, the only outstanding securities will be 2,401,288 shares of common, of which 187,189 shares are held in the treasury.

The preferred issue to be redeemed consists of 392,849 shares, of which 47,309 shares are held in the treasury at cost of about $119 a share.

OUTLYING BANKS REPORT BETTER RESULTS IN 1935

Deposits and Profits Rise; Loan Demand Improves.

Outlying banks continued to report encouraging results of their 1935 business yesterday. Improved demand for loans, mounting deposits, better earnings, and record growth of savings accounts were noted.

Gains in every department were reported by L. S. Burk, president of the Liberty National bank. Not only were deposits up $1,871,821, or 29 per cent, but the demand for loans increased. A total of $6,383,504 was loaned, of which $1,814,519 was outstanding Dec. 31, reflecting almost 90 day liquidity, said Burk. The foreign department showed a "satisfactory" increase, with a complete Italian department established during the year. The bank also installed a new checking account plan for small firms and personal accounts, permitting daily balances as low as $50.

Drovers Adds Savings Accounts.

The Drovers National and Drovers Trust and Savings banks announced that 11,000 savings accounts have been opened there in the last 18 months. This is the largest number of new accounts during any similar period in the 53 year history of these banks and is regarded as a reflection of increased pay rolls of south side industries.

The Halsted Exchange National bank, Halsted street and 19th place, showed year-end deposits of $5,417,000 for a gain of $1,500,000 or almost 40 per cent during 1935. The total for last Dec. 31 was incorrectly reported at $4,621,000 in bank call figures printed yesterday.

Also at a record deposit figure was the Sears Community bank, which has reported 19 consecutive increases since opening almost five years ago. The Dec. 31 total of $6,202,000 was more than $1,000,000 above that at the end of 1934.

Lake Forest Bank's Earnings.

The First National bank of Lake Forest had net earnings of $41,856 in 1935, President Frank Read announced yesterday. This was equal to a return of 8.8 per cent on total invested capital, or 20 per cent on its capital stock alone. Deposits increased $854,000 during the year to a total of $5,580,000 on Dec. 31. The bank's annual meeting will be held Jan. 14.

Directors and officers of the National Security bank, 767 Milwaukee avenue, and the Skala State bank, 1817 Loomis street, were reëlected yesterday at annual meetings of stockholders and directors. Stockholders of the Drexel State bank, 3944 Cottage Grove avenue, reëlected all sitting directors.

The Harris Trust and Savings bank shareholders will assemble at noon today, with directors to meet at 2 p. m.

WELLS FARGO DEPOSITS RISE.

San Francisco, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The Wells Fargo Bank & Union Trust company today reported all-time highs for its 83 years of existence in deposits and total resources. Deposits totaled $224,505,309 on Dec. 31, 1935, an increase of more than $30,000,000, or 15 per cent, over the total on Dec. 31, 1934. Total resources at $248,562,000 were 12 per cent above a year ago.

SILVER RALLIES IN LONDON; GOLD MONEYS WEAKEN

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The decline in the price of silver in the London market was checked, at least temporarily, today when the quotation moved up to 20⅜ pence an ounce, a gain of ¼ penny over the previous day. This was equal to approximately 46.09 cents an ounce in New York but still below the price paid in the local market. Here the price ruled unchanged at 49¾ cents per ounce, the pegged quotation since Dec. 23.

A slight weakening in gold bloc currencies against the dollar was the leading development in the foreign exchange markets.

No engagements of gold abroad were reported today and the receipts here amounted to $2,462,500, of which $2,099,700 came from Canada, $278,200 from England and $84,600 from India.

OUTPUT OF STEEL INGOTS IN 1935 BEST SINCE 1930

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The nation's production of open hearth and Bessemer steel ingots for 1935 was the best since 1930, and fourth quarter production was last exceeded in 1929, the American Iron and Steel institute said today. The 1935 outturn was 33,425,576 gross tons, which exceeded 1934 production by more than 30 per cent.

Operations last year averaged 48.55 per cent of capacity, compared with 37.38 per cent in 1934. During 1930 they were 63.09 per cent of capacity.

Fourth quarter production last year was 9,381,500 gross tons, compared with the 1929 total of 10,958,449 tons.

THE CELOTEX CORPORATION

Notice of Annual Meeting.

To the Holders of 6½% First Mortgage Bonds:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Annual Meeting of stockholders of The Celotex Corporation, a Delaware corporation, will be held at the offices of the Corporation, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, on Tuesday, January 21, 1936, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, for the purpose, among other things, of electing directors.

The holders of 6½% First Mortgage Bonds of The Celotex Corporation are entitled, under the provisions of the Certificate of Incorporation of the Corporation, to notice of and to attend said Annual Meeting and thereat, voting separately as a class, to elect one director of the Corporation to hold office until the next annual election and until his successor shall be duly elected and qualified.

The Executive Committee of the Board of Directors has fixed the close of business on January 3, 1936, as the record date for the determination of the holders of registered 6½% First Mortgage Bonds entitled to notice of and to vote at such meeting.

Bondholders are urged to attend the meeting, if possible. Bonds in bearer form can be voted only if such Bonds are exhibited to the Secretary of the Meeting.

By order of the Executive Committee.
CHARLES G. RHODES,
Secretary.

New York, Jan. 7.—[Special.]—The bond market moved ahead on virtually all fronts today, with public utility issues finding the most favor as a result of the Supreme court invalidation of the Agricultural Adjustment act.

While utilities are not directly affected by the decision, the attitude of the court has strengthened the belief that the TVA decision when it comes will be another defeat for the Roosevelt administration. Consequently investors gathered courage.

Curb Trading Features Rise.

Most substantial gains were made on the Curb exchange, where many lower grade utilities find their market. Gains of one to three points were scored in bonds of Central States Electric, National Power and Light, New Orleans Public Service, Standard Gas, Tennessee Electric, United Light and Power, American Water Works, International Hydro, and Utilities Power and Light.

While this movement was going on railroad bonds of the same grade were not neglected and some industrials were strong. Advances of a point or more were made by White Sewing 6s, Southern Railway General 4s, and Missouri Pacific refunding 5s.

Many Issues Advance.

Advances also were made by "Katy" adjustment 5s, Lehigh Valley Coal 5s, Interlake Iron 5s, Milwaukee General 4½s and 5s of 1975, Bush Terminal 5s, American Writing Paper 6s, and Central New England 4s.

The market for treasury bonds was quiet, but the tone was steady.

Investors continued to show a willingness to take high grade corporate issues at slightly higher prices.

Blaw-Knox.

Investors' Guide: I shall appreciate information on Blaw-Knox.—B. A. R.

Answer: Blaw-Knox company is a producer of specialty steel products. Output is diversified, but typical of its products are open harth and rolling mill equipment for the steel industry, standard steel buildings, steel towers for utilities, railroad, and radio companies, pressure vessels for the oil and chemical industries, and brewhouse machinery and equipment.

The company has operated profitably in nine of the last ten years.

In the first half of 1935 the company earned $301,000, or 23 cents a share, against $105,000, or 8 cents a share, for the first half of 1934. Profit in 1934 was $35,000, or 3 cents a share, against $111,000, or 8 cents a share, for 1933. A loss of $672,000 was sustained in 1932, against profits of $750,000 and $2,689,000 for the two preceding years.

On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets were more than 11 times current liabilities, a strong current position.

Dividends on the 1,332,395 shares of no par capital stock were resumed with the payment of 10 cents a share on Jan. 2, 1936, the first since March 2, 1932. There is no funded debt.

The stock is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Dallas Power and Light.

Investors' Guide: Will you please give me your opinion as to safety and call date of Dallas Power and Light 6s, due 1949?—U. D. F.

Answer: Dallas Power and Light company first mortgage bonds, due 1949, 1952, and 1954, are sound. They are the obligation of an operating company which has covered its fixed charges by substantial margins over a long period of time. Current position is strong.

The 6s, due 1949, are callable on 30 days' notice at 104½ and accrued interest to July 1, 1939; 103 from then until July 1, 1948, and 101 thereafter.

Ford Motor Control.

Investors' Guide: Would you please be kind enough to straighten out a matter that arose between myself and another person? I state that Henry and Edsel Ford are the sole owners of the Ford Motor company. My friend claims that there are other people holding stock in this company.—B. F. J.

Answer: All stock of Ford Motor company is owned by Henry Ford, Mrs. Henry Ford, and Edsel B. Ford. The minority interest formerly outstanding was reacquired by the Fords in September, 1919.

"We invest more of our advertising budget in newspapers than in all other media combined. Our experience has convinced us that this is the most practical and profitable method for getting and holding business in our highly competitive field. When we spend money in newspapers we can see it coming back."

Prepare Now for the Big Season Ahead.

BURNHAM'S

(for 65 years the world's largest beauty school)

Will Enable You to

EARN MORE

The easy-to-learn Burnham System quickly enables you to become a skilled beauty operator. Plenty of living models. You learn by doing rather than by studying. Each teacher a specialist. Fewer pupils per teacher.

SEE FOR YOURSELF WHY MORE GIRLS ENROLL IN BURNHAM'S THAN IN ANY OTHER BEAUTY SCHOOL

BURNHAM'S AWARDS TRIP TO PARIS to STUDENTS. Geneve Huffman, winner of semi-annual Burnham scholarship for efficiency while in training, sailed June 19 on S. S. Manhattan with all expenses paid. Burnham's offers opportunities not found elsewhere.

DAY OR EVENING CLASSES.
Pay for MOST of your tuition after graduation. It is to your advantage to register now, even if you cannot start until later. Open every day and on Monday, Wednesday, Friday evenings until 9 p. m.
